Nine Priests Among 58 on Crashed Plane

Pope Weeps At Word of Tragic End to Pilgrimage

Canadian Party Had Left Audience In Vatican Shortly Before Alpine Crash

MARSEILLE, France (Tuesday), Nov. 14 (AP).—A Canadian plane carrying 51 passengers, most of them Holy Year pilgrims, and a crew of 7 crashed into a snow-covered mountain in southeastern France late yesterday while flying from Rome to Paris. In the Vatican a sorrowing Pope Pius prayed for the victims of the first air disaster involving a 1950 Holy Year pilgrimage.

But nearly 10 hours after the plane was reported down no information had been received of the fate of those aboard. Word was awaited from rescue teams, who faced a climb of about six hours through rain and snow to reach the scene.

The Canadians had been among those received by the Pope at an audience a few hours earlier. Those aboard included a monsignor and eight other priests.

Pope Prays in Tears

The Pontiff, informed at midnight in the Vatican that the crash had occurred, immediately dismissed church officials who were with him. With tears streaming from his cheeks he went to his private chapel to pray for the victims.

The plane, a DC-4 belonging to the Curtis-Reid line, crashed near Mount L'Obio, an 8500-foot peak some 30 miles south of Grenoble. Residents of Isere Department where the crash occurred, said they had heard two explosions, then saw a glow of fire. They calculated that the transport had hit south of the village of La Croix de Pigne at an altitude of 5000 to 5500 feet. Snow was falling at that height and rain lower down.

At Rome a check of the passenger list showed all the passengers were Canadians except for one American, identified as Giuseppe Butera, 65, of Brooklyn.

The Canadian pilgrims had gone to Rome for the beatification ceremony last Sunday of Mother Marguerite Catherine Bourgeoise, who founded the Order of the Sisters of Our Lady in the Canadian wilderness 300 years ago. The ceremony, the last beatification of the Holy Year, attracted 1200 Canadian Catholics and 22 American, Canadian and French bishops and archbishops.

Former Dean Aboard

The ranking churchman aboard was Msgr. J. Alderville Bureau, former dean of the faculty of canonical law at Laval University in Quebec.

Beginning the long flight back to Montreal, the plane left Rome on the first leg of the trip at 2:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. EST) and was due at Orly Field, near Paris, at 7:25 p. m. (1:25 p. m. EST). Orly reported it had received no messages from the craft.

Madame Jouve, a resident of St. Didier, told a reported:

"It was about 5:30 p. m. when we heard the explosion. A few seconds earlier a big, brilliant light had attracted our attention. There wasn't any doubt—it was the same plane we had heard in the sky a few moments before."

The crash occurred only about 100 miles southwest of the spot where an Indian plane with 48 persons aboard plowed into Mont Blanc, highest peak in Europe, November 3.

'F. D. R.; His Personal Letters'

A Confident President-Elect Begins to Draft His Cabinet

(This is the third of 31 installments of the personal letters, telegrams and memos of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It includes letters covering the period between Roosevelt's election in 1932 and the first months of his first term as President. These documents are from the two-volume work, "FDR; His Personal Letters.")

F.D.R. to John N. Garner in Uvalde, Tex. (Telegram):

Hyde Park,
Nov. 8, 1932

Best of luck to my good old teammate. Everything points to victory for us. Will vote here at Hyde Park and go to headquarters in New York this evening. Will telephone you from there.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

ALBANY,
Nov. 17, 1932.

My dear Chief:

That title still stands! and I am still Franklin to you.

I am sure you know how happy your letter makes me and also the fact that our friendship is so close. I am always grateful for your advice even though I do not always write to tell you so. I know that you take this for granted.

I am getting away to Warm Springs next week, but as you know must stop off at Washington to see the President.

My love to all your family in which my family joins me.

As ever yours,

F.D.R. to Benjamin N. Cardozo in Washington:

ALBANY,
Dec. 9, 1932.

My dear Mr. Justice:

I have not had opportunity before this to thank you for that delightful note. My prospective exile in Washington will be made more easy by finding you there. As I have told you I hope that I can have at least in part the same type of delightful relations with the Supreme Court which I had with the Court of Appeals in Albany.

If you are in New York City after the second of January, I do wish you would run in and see me at 49 East 65th st. I really want to talk over many things with you.

Always sincerely yours,

Justice Cardozo had written FDR on November 9th: "My dear Governor and President-to-be: From my place of exile in Washington where you are soon to join me, I send greetings and congratulations in this hour of your triumphant victory. Faithfully yours, Benjamin N. Cardozo."

F.D.R. to John N. Garner in Washington:

ALBANY,
Dec. 21, 1932.

Dear John:

I am very glad to read this letter from Congressman Frear. I think he goes a little far. I remember T. R. saying to me "The only real danger from an assassin is from one who does not care whether he loses his

Taft Urges Military Aid Be Reviewed

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Senator Robert A. Taft, "boss man" of a renascent Senate Republican minority, yesterday declared for continued military aid to Western Europe but said Congress should "review" the whole set-up.

He told a Senate conference room, jam-packed with reporters, the Eighty-second Congress convening in January should take an over-all look at aid "methods" and answer these three big related questions:

(1) How big a military program is needed, (2) how to raise the money and (3) how to prevent inflation.

But for the "Lame Duck" Congress, convening November 27, he had only this advice:

"It ought to adjourn."

The "isolationist" label, long used to describe him, Taft scornfully tossed off with this sentence:

"Anyone who calls another an isolationist in these times is an idiot!"

But he said lack of public confidence in President Truman's foreign policy was one of the three main ingredients in his own and the Republican Party's victory last Tuesday.

He described the other two factors in his 430,000 Ohio majority as (1) unwillingness of the people to accept "dictation" from the CIO and opposition to "left wing" features of the Truman program.

While he declared forthrightly for continued military aid to Western Europe, he declined to commit himself to the additional three years of Marshall Plan aid envisioned in the report of former Army Secretary Gordon Gray. He said he did not know whether he was ready to go that far.

And he backed off an arm's length from any detailed discussion of Far Eastern foreign policy, bitterly attacked in the course of his Ohio campaign.

Taft said only that it "ought to be studied very carefully" and that much will depend in the future on whether we are to have a truly bipartisan foreign policy in the Far East.

Pressed for more specific recommendations, he said developments in the Far East have "come so quickly" that it is a difficult subject to discuss.

"We should say what we are going to do there and do it," he added. "We should keep them (the Chinese Communists) out of Formosa at any rate. But I don't know enough about developments in Indo-China, Tibet and other places to discuss them at this time."

In bubbling high spirits over the extent of his election victory, Taft was all smiles as he faced a record turnout of more than 100 press, radio and cameramen.

The newsmen rolled in in such numbers that the press conference, originally scheduled for Taft's Senate office, had to be transferred to the Senate Republican conference room.

In answer to the inevitable question, will he be a presidential contender in 1952, Taft read the same reply he gave a Cincinnati reporter a few days ago. It boiled down to the fact that he wouldn't

Civil Service Job Policies Revamped

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The President last night ordered sweeping changes in the Civil Service system.

His order covered appointments, transfers, reinstatements, reemployment rights, competitive tests, retirement and other Federal personnel actions.

After December 1, most Federal hiring will be on a temporary basis. Retroactive to September 1, all grade promotions, interagency transfers and reinstatements are to be temporary under the order which will be in effect until the President finds it "no longer necessary in the interest of national defense."

Other Changes Made

Along with the order, the White House released a letter from the President to Civil Service Commission Chairman Harry B. Mitchell which explained the order and carried these highlights:

1. That the Civil Service Commission should continue to hold competitive tests to fill Federal jobs in those fields where the supply of workers is adequate. But the commission is given authority to suspend its competitive tests to fill jobs where there is a shortage of qualified workers;

2. That Civil Service should be held open "to the maximum extent feasible" in order that qualified people may compete for jobs at any time;

3. That Civil Service examining boards and committees in the different agencies should be given the fullest possible authority and be utilized to the maximum in the examining and selection of employes;

4. Examining and certifying procedures should be constantly studied to meet changing employment conditions, and,

5. Civil Service was directed to draft a single set of standards to guarantee reemployment rights to career employes who were transferred to defense jobs.

Cooperation Stressed

"I am sure," the President wrote Mitchell, "that all departments and agencies will cooperate to the fullest extent with the Civil Service Commission in carrying out its responsibilities under this order, and in its efforts to see that the highest possible recruitment standards are maintained."

The executive order leaves the door open to some permanent appointments whenever, "in unusual circumstances," it is determined they are in the interest of the Government. Furthermore, agencies may appoint on a permanent basis those persons selected for permanent appointments prior to December 1.

The order covers non-Civil Service jobs. This means that agencies outside the Civil Service system such as the FBI, Atomic Energy, and Central Intelligence, among others, must draw up new

90,000 Chinese Reds In Korea; Tibet Asks U. N. to Halt 'Invasion'

Cable Stresses Little Hope Of Withstanding Peiping Forces

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. Nov. 13 (U.P.).—The United Nations today received an impassioned appeal from the Himalayan kingdom of Tibet to save it from conquest by the Chinese Communists.

The 1500-word appeal said "Tibet will not go down without a fight, though there is little hope of a nation dedicated to peace resisting the brutal effort of men trained to war."

Then it added in a tone of desperate hope:

"But we understand the United Nations have decided to stop aggression wherever it takes place."

It was dated :"Lhasa (Tibet's capital), the 27th day of the ninth Tibetan month of the Iron Tiger Year, 7th November 1950." It was signed by the Kashag (the Tibetan cabinet) and the National Assembly of Tibet.

It was forwarded to Secretary-General Trygve Lie in a telegram dated November 11 from Kalimpong, an Indian town on the Tibetan border. The telegram was signed by Finance Minister Tsepon Shakabpa, who was to have led the Tibetan delegation to Peiping last month to work out a peaceful settlement with the Chinese Communists.

The lengthy message recounted the history of Tibetan-Chinese relations through the years, denying emphatically that China has a legal right to control Tibet. It summed up by saying:

"The armed invasion of Tibet for the incorporation of Tibet within the fold of Chinese communism through sheer physical force is a clear case of aggression. As long as the people of Tibet are compelled by force to become a part of China against the will and consent of the people, the present invasion of Tibet will be the grossest instance of the violation of the weak by the strong. We therefore appeal through you to the nations of the world to intercede in our behalf and restrain Chinese aggression."

Lie distributed copies of the appeal to members of the Security Council for their information, but he did not issue the message as a formal U. N. document.

According to U. N. rules, any nation may ask to have a message distributed as a document. But since Tibet's legal status is cloudy, in the view of experts, Lie would not have to circulate a Tibetan message as a formal document.

Most delegates here were giving the Tibetan appeal the most gingerly treatment.

Many, while deploring Peiping's resort to invasion when negotiations were ostensibly under way, said nevertheless that China did have traditional control over Tibet and that it probably was an internal issue.

Some delegates pointed out that while India appeared most exercised over the invasion, the move bore striking resemblance to India's march into the kingdom of Hyderabad.

Ruled 2 Years

Venezuela's Junta Chief Assassinated

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Lieut. Col. Carlos Delgado Chalbaud, president of the military junta, was ambushed, shot and killed by a mob of 30 assailants this morning while going to his office.

Col. Delgado

Capt. Charles Bacalao Lara, Delgados aide, was with him and was wounded in the ambush. He said the trigger-gang members wore civilian clothes and numbered about 50. Bacalao was expected to recover.

He said the car was halted by another vehicle driven in front of it in "typical gangster style" and from which some of the assailants immediately opened fire.

Immediately after the shooting, the government decreed a state of emergency and suspended civil rights.

Authoritative opinion in Washington diplomatic circles was that the present Venezuelan regime would continue in power, with the two other members of the miltary triumvirate carrying on.

West Rejects German Talks, Bevin Says

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told Commons today the three Western Powers had rejected any talks on Germany on the basis of conditions imposed by the Soviet Union.

Bevin's statement came as deputies of the Atlantic Pact Council opened discussions on how West Germany is to be tied in with a system for the defense of western Europe. In this connection diplomatic officials said France has modified her position toward a British-American plan for using large German troop units in such a defense system.

Russia proposed November 4 that the talks be held on the basis of resolutions adopted last month at the Prague conference of Soviet and Russian satellite leaders.

One point included withdrawal of all occupation forces from Germany and the unification of the country with the Soviet Zone equally represented with the three Western zones on a constitutional council. The Soviet plan suggested that the Big Four agree to keep Germany demilitarized.

French diplomatic informants in Paris said the Western Powers were preparing separate but identical notes to Russia, "accepting the idea of Russia's invitation to a four-power conference" but demanding that some conditions be agreed to before the actual meeting.

In Washington it was said the United States is expected to reply to the Russian invitation in the next few days.

Bevin told Commons the Soviet invitation consisted of proposals that have been shown to be "unacceptable to the other occupying powers and, in addition, to the German people."

Herve Alphand, the French representative, read a statement to the Atlantic Pact Council of Deputies on the defense of the West.

Marines Gain 5 Miles In Freezing Weather; Navy Aids Allies Facing Encirclement

SEOUL, Tuesday, Nov. 14 (AP).—An estimated 90,000 Chinese Communists today were reported on the northwest Korean battlefront where United States troops hammered out gains up to 2½ miles Monday.

To the east in mountainous central Korea, United States Marines plodded 5½ miles northward in sub-freezing weather and came within sight of Changjin reservoir.

In the far northeast, 90 air miles from the Korean-Siberian border, United States warships and Marine planes supported a South Korean Republican regiment threatened with envelopment by a suddenly-resurgent North Korean Red force.

A spokesman for the United States First Corps estimated Tuesday that 90,000 Chinese Reds were facing the corps on the north west Korea fighting front. He said they appeared to be in three army groups, each composed of three divisions.

The United States First Corps includes the United States Twenty-fourth Division, the United States First Cavalry Division, the Twenty-seventh British Brigade and the South Korean First Division.

Reds Preparing Positions

The reports indicated the Reds were digging in on high ground west of Pakchon. Pakchon is on the Taeryong River 7 miles northwest of the allied-held bridge across the Changchon River.

The British Commonwealth Brigade clung firmly to positons just outside Pakchon.

The Communists also were reported using many more mines and booby traps in their effort to delay the Allied advance. Two American tanks were knocked out Friday in a minefield. Later, they were found booby-trapped. This presumably was done to catch tank recovery personnel.

Marines Overlook Yongbyon

U. S. First Cavalry units captured three high ground positions overlooking the walled city of Yongbyon Monday, after a 48-hour battle with strong Red forces. Yongbyon is north of the Chongchon River, about 14 miles northeast of the river crossing at Anju.

In an advance of one and one-half miles Monday, the First Cavalry had shoved patrols up to the city's gates.

Americans reported the Communists were putting up defenses in the old walled town, indicating they would fight for it. Earlier front dispatches said Yongbyon probably would be by-passed, on the theory it could not be defended without occupying all the

Michigan Lead For Governor Again Changes

DETROIT, Nov. 13 (AP).—Michigan's Democratic Governor, G. Menner Williams, bounced back into a 887-vote hairline lead today in his bid for reelection as straggling figures from county canvassing boards again reversed the semiofficial leader.

It was the sixth time the lead changed hands as Williams battled two-term former Republican Gov. Harry F. Kelly through a muddled mix-up of Michigan ballot-counting.

Seven Michigan counties reported changes in their total vote for Governor today as official canvassers neared the finish of a fast recheck of original unofficial returns in their precincts.

Williams (D.), 935,174.
Kelly (R.), 934,287.

These totals included a 781-vote gain for Williams, uncovered today in Macomb (Mt. Clemens) County; a 100-vote correction in favor of Williams in a Kent County (Grand Rapids) review; a 64-vote gain for Williams in Genesee (Flint) County's partially finished canvass, and a 54-vote increase for Williams in the Ingham County (Lansing) vote, which now is officially complete.

Corrected mistakes in other counties had a part, too, in wiping out a 307-vote lead Kelly held as late as this morning.

Michigan voters may not know who their new Governor is by the date he is scheduled to be inaugerated, January 1.

In that case the newly elected Lieutenant Governor, William C. Vandenberg, a Republican, will be sworn in to act until the disputed vote is cleared up and a Governor formaly named.

Long Distance Operators Say Lockout Exists

About 10,000 nonstriking long distance operators charged they were "locked out" yesterday as the coast-to-coast telephone workers strike went into its fifth day.

The American Telephone & telegraph Co. termed the charge "absurd."

In Washington and other cities, pickets continued applying a "hit-run" strategy. They formed lines before exchanges, the lines were respected by the operators. Then, by the time management could shift supervisors to fill the gaps, the pickets would withdraw.

Meanwhile, the longest negotiating sessions since the beginning of the strike five days ago wound up last night with still no settlement in sight.

The union is asking 15 cents an hour increase, while the company's best offer so far has been 11¼ cents.

The union also has asked a one-year contract, while the com-

Farm Woman, 24, Battles Killer Ostrich to Death

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—A 24-year-old farm woman fought and killed a ferocious ostrich yesterday after it fatally trampled her 2-year-old child, her husband today said.

Mrs. Anna Beginsel was taking food to her farmhand husband when she saw the ostrich stamping on her child. She grabbed the ostrich's leg and tripped it. She managed to get a grip on the bird's neck and while it kicked at her she twisted its neck until she broke it.

By the time her husband ran up the bird was dead.

Mrs. Beginsel was treated for superficial cuts and for bruises and shock.

Three Navy Crewmen Bail Out As Flaming Bomber Crashes

Three crew members of a new-type Navy attack bomber parachuted to safety yesterday while their flaming plane crashed into a field near a Chesapeake Bay fishing village, 35 miles north of Washington.

The crewmen, based at Patuxent River (Md.) Naval Air Station, were: Lieut. Comdr. William C. Patterson, pilot, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Mechanic First Class Robert H. Jones of Pensacola, Fla., and Aviation Technician First Class William P. Diest, 28, of Topeka, Kans.

Patuxent officers said Patterson suffered a slight concussion in the crash. The others were reported uninjured.

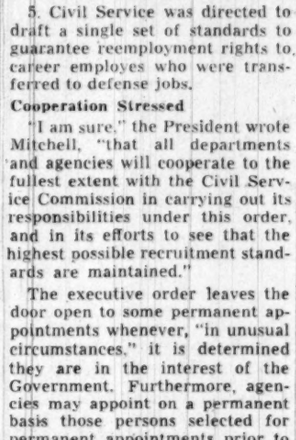
Diest, the radioman, said the three bailed out of the plane's bomb bay after they were unable to open the cabin door, the Associated Press reported.

The plane had been aloft two hours on a routine flight from Patuxent, Navy authorities said, when the pilot radioed the base at 11:15 a. m: "In trouble . . . left engine on fire . . . we're bailing out." Diest said the crew jumped from 4000 feet and landed about 10 miles from the crash scene.

The craft plunged into a field near Deale, Md., 12 miles south of Annapolis, and burned.

Navy authorities planned an immediate investigation into the cause of the crash. The craft, according to United Press, was a twin-engine bomber, with an auxiliary jet engine, designed to carry atomic bombs from a carrier base.

Patuxent officers said the plane was a North American A-J-1. Anne Arundel County police dispatched cars to pick up the three crewmen.



LIEUT. COMDR. WILLIAM C. PATTERSON

One of the 17-ton AJ-1s crashed two weeks ago while operating from the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt off Guantanamo, Cuba, several days after the Navy announced successful operation of the planes from a carrier. Two men were killed in that crash, attributed to engine trouble.

The Navy has never formally claimed that the AJ-1 was designed to carry atomic bombs but this descripton of its use has been given frequently in unofficial publications.

Two Men Grab 6-Year-Old Boy From Pennsylvania School

WILLIAMS GROVE, Pa., Nov. 13 (AP).—Two men took a 6-year-old boy, about to be adopted by the co-owner of a speedway here, from the yard of a country school and carried him away today in a maroon car.

The missing boy is Eddie Collins, son of Mrs. Mary Collins, a nearby Harrisburg hotel hostess.

Police immediately broadcast a general alarm. The car was said to bear Virginia license tags.

The boy's mother was divorced from her husband two years ago and the lad has since been living with Roy E. Richwine, jr., co-owner with his father of the half-mile dirt speedway. Richwine said the mother was given custody of the boy by the court.

District Attorney William R. Mark said: "It could be kidnaping, but we'll have to wait for more information before we can say definitely."

He added that if the boy is removed from Pennsylvania, it may be a case for Federal authorities.

Richwine said the boy was taken away from the nearby Rife country school during a recess period. He quoted the teacher as saying the boy stepped outside in his shirt sleeves for a moment and was seized by two men who hustled him into their waiting car and sped away.

Richwine said he is concerned for the boy's safety.

"After all," he said, "he was only lightly dressed. He was wearing a light shirt."

Wheel Chair Sold Through Post Ad

A wheel chair is an item that most people never need.

So when a Washington housewife advertised one for sale in a two line Post ad, she wondered how long it would take to get results.

But, on the very day her ad appeared it was seen by a Post reader who did need a wheel chair. He phoned her at once and she clinched the sale.

The Washington Post has thousands of readers, and some of them are bound to be interested in buying what you no longer need and would like to sell.

So put a classified ad in The Post tomorrow. All it takes is a call to NAtional 4200. Call now.

35% Cutback in Aluminum Use Is Ordered Effective January 1

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The National Production Authority yesterday ordered a cutback of 35 percent in the use of aluminum for civilian products, effective January 1.

The order is clearly only the first of many others to follow, for the purpose of saving more and more scarce materials for defense production. In coming weeks or months, it was taken for granted, limitations will be fixed on civilian use of manganese, copper, cobalt, tungsten, cadmium and steel itself.

Together, they will have a profound effect on the civilian economy, in reducing the number of consumer durable goods—household electrical appliances and motor vehicles, in particular—that will be available for sale.

A concurrent result may well be higher prices, as consumers compete to buy increasingly scarce commodities.

NPA Administrator William H. Harrison conceded that as a result of yesterday's order, there might be some price rise in articles containing aluminum. He also admitted there might be some temporary unemployment in factories producing goods with aluminum components, and which had not offset the forced curtailment by acquiring defense work to perform.

Organized labor, particularly

Need for Troops Nullifies Reserves' System of Points

The change for the worse in the Korean war and general world picture largely has nullified the new Army system for release and overseas assignment of reservists. It has stepped up troop transfer to the Far East.

Army spokesmen last night acknowledged that the "exigencies of the services"—especially larger calls for replacements for Korea—had prevented the new "points system" being put into effect.

The October 28 order providing that older reservists with long World War II combat service would be released first and sent overseas last is still in effect and has not been amended, an official said.

However, the point system was set up at a time when an early end of the Korean fighting appeared likely and depended on a surplus of trained manpower, it was said. That situation no longer exists, it was pointed out, and many reservists who had looked for early release and service meantime in the United States now are getting orders to Korea.

One Army source declared that it had found necessary to "grab everyone" they could. The result has been a flood of complaints that the point system was not being followed.

The Army said individuals who feel they are being treated unfairly by nonapplication of the point system may formally complain to the local Inspector General's office and consideration will be given each case.

90,000 Chinese Reds in Korea

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

IN BITTER WEATHER—Quadruple arrows mark gains made by U. S. and South Korean units in the western end of the battle line. They met with from slight to heavy resistance, observers reported. In the center, U. S. Marines pushed ahead unopposed toward the Changjin reservoir. In the east, North Korean Reds attacked in force and got across the Orangchon River. Blast symbols locate objects of heavy U. S. bomber attacks.

high ground around it. With the First Cavalry units on three high points overlooking the town, it appeared that the Americans now had decided to capture it.

On the First Cavalry Division's left flank, the U. S. Twenty-fourth Division pushed a spearhead two and one-half miles deep Monday in the general advance from the Chongchon line.

Ridge Near Yongsan Seized

One of the Twenty-fourth's units gained a ridge commanding terrain as far as 4 miles north to Yongsan, 6 miles west of Yongbyon.

On the right of the First Cavalry, the United States Second Division reported heavy mortar fire south of Won Monday night but Red ground troops did not attack. Won is 7 miles east of Yongbyon.

Farther eastward, the South Korean Seventh Division drove up a hill mass numbered 1033 (for its height in meters.) The formation—about 8 miles east of Won, was considered important because of its commanding height.

The South Koreans reported most of the peaks in the mass captured, but said they did not consider the formation secured.

The Republican Seventh and Sixth Divisions were slowly recovering some of the 2 miles lost Sunday by a regiment of the Sixth Division. The South Koreans reported the main force of the Reds who counter-attacked had pulled back out of contact.

Yank Patrol is Ambushed

The U. S. Twenty-fifth Division, on the right of the South Korean divisions, reported one of its patrols was ambushed. It said the Reds fled when the patrol returned the fire.

The matter of a link-up of the U. S. Eighth Army and the Tenth Corps in central North Korea was clouded again Tuesday.

The junction has been announced twice by a First Corps spokesman and denied twice by an Eighth Army spokesman.

An Eighth Army spokesman said Tuesday no actual linkup has been made but that the two main forces were maintaining contact by air-dropped messages.

In northcentral Korea, parka-clad United States Marines of the First Division were less than 4 miles from Changjin reservoir Monday.

The Seventh Marine Regiment, leading the advance, expected to reach the southern end of the reservoir by today (Tuesday).

The Chinese Communist 124th division, which had rushed down from Manchuria to give battle for the reservoir, had vanished after a bloody three-day fight last week. Only small groups of Reds remained and these offered no organized resistance, field dispatches said.

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price, with the Marines, said the Leathernecks threaded through an ice-coated gorge after jumping off Monday from Koto, 9½ miles south of the reservoir. By mid-afternoon they were near Hagaru.

The Marine advance was wary and on full alert for flanking attacks. Patrols flushed through the icy hills on either side of the road.

Tanks were left behind because of bad road conditions. Instead, Marine Corsairs flew close escort overhead, but found few targets.

Other fighter-bombers of the United States Fifth Air Force smashed at a Red convoy in the northwest, strung out in little groups along a 20-mile stretch of road near Yuwon, about 70 miles northeast of the Allied base of Anju. Undetermined numbers of vehicles were destroyed.

Intelligence officers in Tokyo believed the Chinese were putting more strength into this hitherto open central sector with aim of knifing between the Eighth Army forces in the northwest and Tenth Corps troops in the northeast. However, the Chinese capabilities of mounting such an attack were not apparent.

In fact, Tokyo intelligence officers said they had no information during the past 48 hours on the amount of Chinese reinforcements Chinese still were sending troops and materiales in large numbers from Manchuria. It was not know,n they said,' whether the across the Yalu.

On the extreme northeast end of the line South Korean capital division troops were aided by Marine Corsairs and United States Navy guns late Monday in an attempt to smash a new Korean bridgehead on the Orangchon River, 90 air miles south of the Siberian frontier.

Seven battalions of North Koreans struck at the Capital Division's Eighteenth Regiment and forced it back 5 miles when a snowstorm prevented aerial and naval support.

When the storm subsided the U. S. Cruiser Rochester and Destroyer Hank pounded the Red positions. Corsairs destroyed two Red tanks and damaged another. One tank escaped.

The Communists, however, still had 200 men on each flank of the ROK Eighteenth regiment in a double envelopment movement and the ROKs were unable to smash the Red bridgehead.

United States Seventh Division elements, pointing toward the interior border town of Hyesanjin, remained in the vicinity of Kapsan, 23 air miles short of their objective. Combat patrols destroyed a Red pillbox and killed the 27 occupants, a headquarters summary said.

Yanks in Front Lines Shiver As Winter Strikes in Korea

CHONGCHON RIVER FRONT, Korea Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Shivering GIs huddled around hundreds of bonfires today in determined but usually futile efforts to fend off the numbing cold of the suddenly arrived Korean winter.

They don't build fires up in the fighting area. There it's smarter to stay in the foxholes and shake. But everywhere else that the Yanks can find anything that will burn, the heat's on.

The Americans generally have received at least partial winter clothing, including heavy parka-type overcoats, woolen underwear and heavy winter shoes.

But even that garb doesn't keep out the biting winds that howl down from the Manchurian wastelands.

Wood Fairly Scarce

You see MPs directing traffic beside a fire jerking a hand out of a pocket just long enough to signal a direction.

Wood is fairly scarce in this part of Korea. Everywhere you see GIs scouting the countryside for fallen telephone poles, tree limbs, and whatever they can find that will burn. They carry it back to the fires. And hundreds of the more ambitious swing axes in the best northwoods style to feed their fires.

Those lucky enough to be camped in or near towns either move into houses or get plenty of wood from bombed or shelled buildings.

Anywhere near the fighting zone, the blazes have to be put out when daylight wanes. At night they draw artillery or mortar fire.

After the soldiers eat their evening meal and darkness falls, they gather inside any buildings within reach to shoot the breeze, play games or just sit quietly by the stove, if any.

Due To Get Worse

If there are no buildings, there's just one thing to do when it gets dark. You hit the sack and sleep.

Sometimes you keep war. Sometimes you don't." If you don't, you're likely to brood on the thought that the Korean winter is just beginning, and will get an awful lot worse before it gets better.

[Don Whitehead, Associated Press correspondent, wrote that some Army supply men say cold-weather equipment is in Korea and is being distributed to front-line units. However, he said that along the roads and windswept fields "there are more men in thin cotton garments than in woolens.

[Whitehead wrote that in January the temperature averages about six degrees Fahrenheit below zero, meaning that "many days and nights will be much colder than that, bringing the extreme danger of frozen hands, feet and faces."—Editor's note.]

Paralyzed District GI Describes Rescue By Pal After Being Hit by Korean Gunfire

BACK HOME—Pfc. Thomas B. Polito, wounded in the fighting in Korea, is cheered by members of his family yesterday in Walter Reed Hospital. From left are two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Fritts of 2120 Oakwood st. se., and Miss Dorothy Polito, 18; Private Polito and his mother, Mrs. Frank A. Polito of 3525 Davenport st. nw. Polito suffered a spinal injury.

For Thomas B. Poylito, recovering at Walter Reed Hospital from a spinal wound that paralyzed him from the waist down, the trip began on a mountainside near Seoul.

The slender 20-year-old Pfc. with blue-gray eyes and curly black hair was serving as a machine-gunner with Company B, Twenty-third Regiment, Second Division, when at dusk on September 26:

"I saw it coming. It looked like a ball of fire. Maybe it was a new kind of weapon because I had not seen that before. It hit the tree behind me."

Things faded out a bit after that for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Politon, of 3525 Davenport st. nw.

District Native

Born in Washington, he attended Paul Junior High School, joined the Army in January, 1949, spent some months at Camp Gordon, Ga., and on August 5, 1950, left Fort Lewis, Wash., for Korea.

Landing at Pusan, his outfit moved into the lines at once. For all practical purposes it stayed in action, because, said Tommie yesterday, relief consisted of "marching back one day, and marching to the front the next day to plug another hole in the line. Rest was a joke."

The day the trip home began, his unit was making a motorized advance when it was ambushed on a road too narrow for the vehicles to turn around. The Americans, pinned down, were moving to higher ground. Tommie, firing tracer bullets, was covering them when struck.

Saved by Buddy

Just how long he lay there he is not certain. He owes his rescue to a buddy named Platz who came looking for him, under fire.

"That boy was a hero," said Mrs. Polito, who was listening to the bedside story. "Platz should get a medal."

A visitor at the hospital yesterday was Maj. Gen. Authony B. McAuliffe, chief of the Chemical Corps, the man who told the Germans "nuts!" at Bastogne.

McAuliffe, who commanded the Twenty-fourth Division in Japan prior to his return in October, 1949, was visiting wounded members of the division at the hospital.

"If there is anything I can do, just write to me," he told the men, promising to inquire about Purple Hearts for two of them and a lost footlocker for another.

By Henry Rolland—The Wash. Post

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR—Maj. Gen. Anthony B. McAuliffe, chief of the Chemical Corps and the hero of Bastogne, visits members of his old division—the Twenty fourth, which he commanded in Japan before it went to Korea. Here he talks with Corpl. Henry D. Holland, 27, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—Kropp Forge Co. announced today it expects to lease from the Government the Melvindale (Mich.) forge plant formerly operated by Timken-Detroit Axel Co.

Red Jet Held 100 Miles Faster Than F-80 That Shot It Down

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Lieut. Russell Brown of Los Angeles, who shot down a Russian-built MIG-15 in the world's first jet plane air combat, said today the enemy craft was at least 100 miles per hour faster than his F-80 Shooting Star.

The handsome 25-year-old Air Force man said the enemy swept-back wing plane pulled steadily away from his F-80 on a leftclimbing turn over Sinuiju last week before he shot it down.

Brown and three other American jets on the Korean side of the Yalu River were watching enemy jets doing acrobatics over Manchuria when they broke "over to our side."

"They had the advantage of altitude and speed," he said, "but I don't think they wanted a fight. I think they meant to tease us to come over Chinese territory.

"I climbed after one and he climbed away from me to the left. I cut inside him and let go with my guns but he kept pulling ahead. I was going around 300 miles an hour and he was making 400 I should judge.

"Then he did a wingover and dived for Manchuria. That was his mistake. I followed him all the way down at 600 miles per hour right on his tail and he finally caught fire on the right side of the fuselage and exploded a little. I had to pull up when I saw the Yalu River in my gunsights.

U. S. Fliers Down 18, Maybe 33, Red Planes

United States Air Force planes shot down at least 18 and probably 33 Russian-built fighters in furious dogfights over the North Korean battlefront between November 1 and November 11, it was disclosed yesterday.

An additional 23 enemy planes were damaged in air battles and 30 were destroyed on the ground.

The official report by an Air Force spokesman at a Pentagon briefing session made no mention of United States losses.

The nationality of the enemy said the fighters involved in dogfights apparently came from Chinese Communist territory on the Manchurian side of the Yalu River. Those destroyed on the ground were on the North Korean side of the river boundary.

The breakdown of enemy losses in air battles were given as:

Definitely destroyed: Two MIG-15 jets and 16 propeller-driven Yaks.

Probably destroyed: 15 MIG-15 jets.

Damaged: 14 MIGs and 9 Yaks.

The Air Force spokesman said United States planes flew more than 1470 sorties over the front during the past weekend, despite a heavy snowfall that "threatened considerable interference" to air operations.

About 700 of the sorties were combat missions in close support of United Nations ground troops. The Air Force said one guerilla band of 400 troops was "wiped out" by Napalm fire bombs, and another mission killed more than 1000 of the enemy.

Rescue Fails as 'Man' Turns Out to Be Buoy

SEASIDE PARK, N. J., Nov. 13 (AP).—He thought it was a man, but it was only a buoy.

Army Pilot Lieut. William Murphy, on a routine flight, spotted what he thought was a man parachuting down to the sea this morning. An air-sea rescue team went into action.

After an all-day search, they gave up. Turned out the parachute was carrying some Weather Bureau radio equipment attached to a buoy in case it came down over the ocean.

Secret Preview

New Uniform Modeled for Army Chiefs

By the United Press

A proposed new Army uniform—gray instead of olive drab—was modeled at a top-secret fashion preview in the Pentagon recently, it was disclosed yesterday.

One previewer breached the veil of security far enough to admit that several shades of gray were displayed.

Army leaders have been debating for more than two years whether the morale-boosting effect of a new and sleeker uniform would outweigh the trouble and expense of a change.

Members of the Women's Army Corps also are experimenting with a new uniform of a soft taupe shade. It was designed by Hattie Carnegie for Wacs, Army nurses and women medical specialists and is intended to become official next January.

The Marine Corps also has unveiled a new dress uniform for its women members. It consists of a midnight blue mess jacket with straight formal skirt, worn with a white silk blouse and scarlet cummerbund.

Prince Georges Lists 2 More Polio Cases

Two cases of polio were reported yesterday by the Prince Georges County Health Department, raising the county's total for the year to 68.

New cases were those of a 4-year-old girl of the 2000 block of Iverson st., Hillcrest, admitted to Children's Hospital November 6 and a 25-year-old man of the 5700 block of Chillum rd., Hyattsville, admitted to Gallinger Hospital November 7.

Driver, 18 Years Without License, Finally Picked Up

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 13 (AP).—The law finally caught up with John Herbert Miller.

City police picked him up on charges of drunken driving and driving without a license.

The latter charge turned out to be something of an understatement.

Miller, 52, from near here, acknowledged in Magistrate's Court today that in 18 years he never has had a Meryland driver's license.

And up until last night, he said, he'd never been stopped by police.

Magistrate Harry Snyder fined him $100 on the drunken-driving charge, $25 on the no-license count.

Joyrider Fined $110, Jailed on 3 Counts

James A. Herndon, 21, of 1517 Fifth st. nw. yesterday was fined $110, sentenced to 30 days in jail and held for the action of the grand jury on three separate charges arising from a Sunday automobile joy ride in Arlington.

In an Arlington County Court hearing, police testified Herndon stole the car in the District of Columbia on Sunday, drove it to Arlington where he struck a fire plug.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS TO BE HELD DECEMBER 12, 1950

To the Stockholders of Capital Transit Company:

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of stockholders of Capital Transit Company will be held on TUESDAY, the 12th day of December, 1950, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, at the office of the company at 36th and M Streets, N.W., Washington, D. C., for the following purposes:

1. To consider and vote upon a proposed plan to amend Article Third of the Certificate of Incorporation, the effect of which plan, if adopted by the stockholders and approved by the public authorities exercising jurisdiction, will be to increase the number of authorized shares of capital stock from 240,000 shares to 960,000 shares, to change the par value of each share of such authorized capital stock from $100 per share to $25 per share, and to provide that the 240,000 shares of capital stock of the par value of $100 per share presently outstanding shall be changed into 960,000 shares of capital stock of the par value of $25 per share.

2. To transact such other and further business as may properly come before said meeting.

The stock transfer books of the company will not be closed, but in lieu thereof the Board of Directors has fixed the close of business on November 14, 1950, as the record date for the determination of stockholders entitled to notice of and to vote at said special meeting or any adjournment or adjournments thereof.

The result of this proposed amendment would be to subdivide or split each presently outstanding share of Capital Stock with $100 par value into 4 shares each with $25 par value, without otherwise affecting any rights of existing stockholders of the company.

Mao Meets Russian, Korean in Manchuria

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 13 (AP). Chinese Nationalist intelligence reports said today Chinese Red leader Mao Tze-tung is in Manchuria conferring with high Soviet and Red Korean officials on the next phase of the Korean war.

The reports said:

Mao left Peiping by rail November 5. He was greeted at the Mukden, Manchuria, railway station by Col. Gen. Tarentyi Shtikov, former Russian ambassador to North Korea, and Kim Il Sung, Red Korean premier.

They immediately began long conferences.

China's Nationalist president, Chiang Kai-shek, today called on the people of Communist China to refuse to fight for "Russia's cause in Korea."

Chiang also urged Chinese Communist troops now in North Korea to surrender to the United Nations. He said they would be welcomed back to the Nationalist fold.

His appeal was broadcast to "officers, men and fellow countrymen on the mainland."

Knowland Asks Pursuit Of Chinese Attackers

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (AP).—Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) said tonight the Chinese Reds should not "be permitted to carry on attacks against United Nations troops and remain safe from pursuit in their base of operations."

"How can we ignore facts and realities" if the Chinese are going to continue to supply arms and men to the North Koreans?" Knowland asked.

He did not indicate how long U. N. commanders should wait before taking direct action against Red bases in Communist Manchuria.

Communist planes have been sweeping south across the border, then scooting back to safety in Manchuria when opposed by Allied planes.

Nepalese Press India to Take Mediator Role

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 13 (AP). Neutral India was virtually pushed into the position of mediator for troubled Nepal today. Representatives of both Nepal's government and rebelling Nepalese Congress Party supporters of the exiled King were reported on their way here to talk to the Indian government.

The government of all-powerful Prime Minister Maharajah Mohun Shamsher Jang Bahadur Rana, who last week enthroned the 3-year old grandson of King Tribhuvana Bir Bikram after the monarch fled to India, has appealed to India to mediate in the resulting revolt, unofficial advices said.

This is the picture according to those sources:

Insurgent Nepalese Congress Party fighters have driven to within 50 miles of Nepal's capital, Katmandu, after capturing the tiny Himalayan country's second largest city Birganj, and proclaiming their own provisional government supporting the exiled monarch. They aim at giving Nepal's six million people a greater voice under the rule of liberal-minded King Tribhuvana.

Nepal's director general of foreign affairs who is the Prime Minister's son is scheduled to come here for talks with India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and President Rajendra Prasad.

M. P. Koirala, leader of the insurgent Nepalese Congress Party, arrived here tonight by chartered plane. Indian police seized three million rupees ($631,500) in small currency notes that he brought with him. The money was believed taken by the rebels from the Nepal state treasury when they occupied Birganj.

General Strike Called in Italy

ROME, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—Communist and non-Communist labor unions joined today in calling a nation-wide general strike Tuesday of all industrial workers plus a complete transportation walkout in Rome.

The unions said the walkouts were their "final word" on a month's-long request for higher wages.

The Communist-controlled General Confederation of Labor, the anti-Communist Free Italian Chamber of Labor and the non-Communist Union of Italian Workers were solidly joined on the strike call.

French Braced For New Blow

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 13 (AP).—French troops braced tonight along their 100-mile defense line to resist an expected Viet Minh assault to win complete control of the North Indo-China border region.

French patrols stalked out from Dinh Lap, western defense anchor, and felt out menacing enemy concentrations. Some minor engagements were fought.

Observation planes kept a steady watch over Viet Minh forces, which were maintaining heavy pressure in the Dinh Lap sector.

On the eastern anchor, evacuation of civilians continued from Moncay, which has been under mortar fire since Friday. Families of army personnel joined the exodus by sea to the small inlet port of Tienyen, 35 miles to the southwest.

The civilian evacuation may presage a military withdrawal, but there was no official hint the French would follow the pattern set in the abandonment of seven other major frontier posts in the last eight weeks.

The Red River delta, with its major cities of Hanoi and Aiphong, 35 miles southwest of Hanoi—where Viet Minh forces were building up strength.

The movement of Ho Chi Minh's troops into the Haobinh sector closed another gap in the Viet Minh line being formed.

5 Chinese Communist Officials Assassinated, 12 Missing as Disorders Sweep Canton Area

HONGKONK (Tuesday), Nov. 14 (UP).—Five Chinese Communist officials have been assassinated in the Canton area and new disorders are sweeping South China, it was reported today.

According to private advices reaching here, a night-long curfew was imposed in the Chungshan district near Canton and the local militia was ordered to shoot to kill any violators.

The latest disturbance broke out as anti-Communist activities increased with the withdrawal to Manchuria of regular Communist armies garrisoning South China.

Five Communist officials were assassinated by anti-Communist elements and 12 others are missing, reports received in Hongkong from the mainland said.

The reports said the Communists were making greater defensive preparations against a feared American invasion and were stepping up their anti-American propaganda.

The governor of Kangtung province, of which Canton is the capital, ordered an acceleration of recruiting for the "people's militia"—an armed force organized to maintain order.

Peiping radio recently announced the formation of a force of 5,500,000 militiamen to combat sabotage behind the lines and form a manpower pool for future needs of the five-million-man regular army.

Kwangtung province is the traditionally rebellious section of China where all the great Chinese revolutions have started. Scores of isolated anti-Communist inthroughout this area.

Stepping up of militia recruiting was an indirect admission that most of the regular army men are in Manchuria, across the Yalu River from Korea.

Pilot Dies on Airliner Set to Take Off With 27

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP).—An airlines pilot collapsed and died in an airplane today just a few minutes before he was to take off from Laguardia Field with 27 passengers.

The pilot, Capt. John Stinson Pricer, 53, of Forest Hill, Tenn., died of natural causes, according to a medical report.

Passengers aboard the American Airlines plane, which was to make stops at Washington and Memphis, Tenn., were transferred to another plane.

Reds Still Far From Lhasa

NEW DELHI, Nov. 13 (AP).—India's representative in Tibet reported today that Chinese Communist invaders still are at least 300 air miles from the monastery capital at Lhasa.

The Indian Foreign Ministry has had no word from its Lhasa representative, Dr. S. Sinha, nor from its Ambassador in Peiping concerning reports that the Tibetans had reached a cease-fire agreement with the Chinese Reds.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said many of the unofficial reports coming from Kalimpong on the Indian-Tibetan border were "scare-mongering." Reports from that important center on the caravan route between Lhasa and India have even had the Red troops inside the capital and have said many Tibetans were fighting on the side of the Chinese.

Tibet's Foreign Minister, Tsepoe Shakabpa, who has been at Kalimpong for weeks, said that so far as he knew no Tibetans were joining the invaders in their effort to drive out the priest-led government of the 16-year-old Dalai Lama.

Scotch Whisky Exports Jump to All-Time High

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Scotch whisky exports jumped 11 percent during the first nine months of 1050 and have reached an all-time high, it was announced today.

So far this year, 3,825,640 gallons have been exported, mostly to the United States, compared with 3,440,630 gallons during the same period of 1949.

Deferments From Draft for 'Bright' Students Attacked by University Association Official

Draft deferment of "bright students" until they complete their education has "implications, all bad," Deane W. Malott, president of the National Association of State Universities and the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, proposed instead that all draft eligibles be given a choice of when they wish to serve in the armed forces.

Malott, who is chancellor of the University of Kansas, suggested that men be drafted for a period of from 18 months to two years and that they select the period sometime between their eighteenth and twenty-sixth birthdays.

Such a Selective Service program would provide a military force with "great range of technical and professional as well as military skill," he said.

Many men would elect service immediately after high school graduation while others would prefer to wait until they had completed training as doctors, engineers or scientists, he said.

Malott said the plan tentatively approved by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to defer men who attain a high place percentagewise in scholastic achievement would "send the students scampering blithely out of scientific and technical programs to swell the ranks of the classes in public speaking and Spanish."

The joint meeting highlighted the opening of the sixty-fourth annual convention of land grant colleges to be held through Thursday at the Statler Hotel. Seven hundred delegates, representing 54 colleges, are attending. More than 100 group meetings are scheduled of college presidents, deans and directors of home economic programs, extension services and experimental stations.

Lane to Review Final '50 Parade of Middies

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13 (AP). Midshipmen will pass in review before Governor Lane at the Naval Academy's final dress parade of the year this Wednesday.

Lane, grateful for "this demonstration of a very pleasant association," will fly back from a business date in New York to receive the honors.

It will be the last parade for the brigade of 3700 midshipmen until next spring.

It will also be the final review for the Governor, defeated for reelection last week by Republican Theodore R. McKeldin.

Taft Urges Review of Aid

'run" for President but neither would he reject an "offer' of the nomination.

A reporter asked if he would give a more affirmative answer: If nominated by the Republican convention, would you accept the nomination?"

Taft refused to spar any longer. He answered with a resounding "yes."

More Committee Strength

"Mr. Republican," who as chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee plays the largest single role in shaping the GOP's legislative course, scoffed at published reports that the Administration is considering increased Republican representation on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Taft said the Administration has nothing to do with it—that Republicans will "automatically" get increased representation under the Reorganization Act. The Foreign Relations Committee ratio is now 8 to 5 in favor of the Democrats. The new ratio on Foreign Relations and most other committees will be 7 and 6, with a thin, one-vote Democratic edge.

Taft declined to discuss candidacies for the additional Republican seat, saying that was for the Republican Committee on Committees to decide. Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) reputedly has the backing of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.).

May Vote Defense Funds

In saying he thought the "lame duck" Congress, convening after Thanksgiving, should quickly adjourn, Taft did not rule out possible action on defense appropriation deficiencies and other "emergency" measures.

But he voiced doubts that it would enact anything of domestic importance in its three weeks' span. Specifically, he opposed extension or alteration of the present rent control law "unless or until" we have price and wage control, and thought the time limitation ruled out tax action before January.

Still in favor of "pay as you go" war financing, increasing taxes by the equivalent of new military spending, Taft said he wasn't sure an excess profits tax was the way to do it, but would abide by the decision of the Finance Committee.

One danger, he said, is that any such increase in taxes will inevitably be passed on to consumers and give another shove to inflation. For that reason, he said Congress will have to consider whether to link a further tax increase with price and wage controls.

Taft happily rattled off statistics on Ohio's election returns, showing that all of the big industrial counties voted for him.

"It indicates very clearly that a large number of workingmen voted for me," he said. "I am very proud of that fact."

Lane Puts Out Fire In Court Building

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13 (AP). The docket entry on a small fire at the Court of Appeals Building concluded: "Put out by Gov."

Yep, it was he, Governor Lane acknowledged today. Needed only one bucket of water, too.

Lane went across the street from Government House to have a look after notifying the telephone operator that smoke billowed from a cellar window of the court building late Saturday. The fire actually was beneath a grating where a cigarette apparently had been tossed into dry leaves.

Russell Spriggs, Executive Mansion handyman, supplied the water. Lane doused the leaves.

C. of C. Chiefs Open 2-Day Conference

NATURAL BRIDGE, Va., Nov. 13 (AP).—Problems confronting Chambers of Commerce in Virginia will get expert diagnosis at a two-day meeting opening here today of the Virginia Association of Chambers of Commerce executives.

A "workshop" program Wednesday will hear Paul Good, secretary of the U. S. Chamber committee on education, and Assistant Manager Lisle L. Berkshire of the U. S. Chamber's commercial department.

Others on Wednesday's program include State Chamber Executive Secretary Verbon E. Kemp; Frank Mantz of Portsmouth, Ben Moomaw of Roanoke, George Lescure, jr., of Hopewell; James A. Payne of Front Royal, and Howard Hylton of Danville.

Taking part in Tuesday's sessions will be four Virginia officials—Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr.; Highway Commissioner James A. Anderson, Civilian Defense Director J. H. Wyse, and Assistant Unemployment Compensation Commissioner John W. Stephens, jr.

U. S. Arranging Loan of Flour To Yugoslavia

The United States is working out a deal for Italy and West Germany to lend 100,000 tons of American flour to meet emergency needs of drought-stricken Yugoslavia.

Diplomats said yesterday negotiations are expected to be completed this week.

The flour was consigned by the Economic Cooperation Administration to Italy and West Germany. The plan is for ECA to replace by later shipments the flour diverted to Yugoslavia.

This arrangement was worked out as part of a stop-gap effort to start food supplies flowing to Yugoslavia without waiting for Congress to act on a proposed $105 million overall program of aid for Marshal Tito's anti-Moscow Communist regime.

Two or more shiploads of beans and dried meats, bought from United States Government surplus with a two-million dollar advance from the Export-Import Bank, already are en route.

Cocke Would Hold Soviet Responsible

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—Erle Cocke, jr., the American Legion's new commander, today called Soviet Russia "our deadly enemy" and said "the time for resolute and drastic action has come."

Cocke, in a speech at a luncheon of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, also called Russia "the deadly enemy of human freedom everywhere."

Then, he added:

"The sooner we serve notice on Soviet Russia that we will not fight any more satellites which she elects to 'sick' on us, but shall hold Moscow responsible for any further aggression and use all of our strength to destroy the breeding place of world trouble, the better off we will be."

Gains for GOP Seen In Population Shifts

Lame Ducks May Provide Job Solution

By the United Press

President Truman now has a solution for one of his most annoying problems—where to find acceptable men to fill top Government jobs—but he may not want to use it.

Due to election defeats, he now has a sizable reservoir of experienced Democratic leaders who are "at liberty." Some are experts in foreign, defense and administrative fields where he has had the most trouble finding qualified personnel.

He has complained about the situation repeatedly and has flayed Administration critics bitterly for maligning some of his appointees before they can even roll up their sleeves.

Graham Likely Choice

The word is that Mr. Truman may fill a few jobs with some of the Democrats ousted at the polls, but some of his advisers will not be surprised if he bypasses most of them.

They point out that he has never been quick to appoint "lame ducks" to important posts and also that major appointees must be confirmed by the Senate which has a habit of putting nearly all his choices through the wringer. He already has had to back down on a couple this year because of hostile Senate reaction.

One man who may get a job is Senator Frank Graham (D., N. C.), who was defeated in the primary election. The President told a press conference recently that he expects to talk to Graham about a post.

Otherwise he has made no public commitments.

There are reports that at least two others may get offers. Representative John Carroll (D., Colo.), who failed to win a Senate race, is being mentioned in an antitrust capacity, and Senator Millard Tydings, defeated in Maryland, is said to be tagged for an ambassadorial post, if he wants it.

Bowles is "Free"

Others the President now can choose from include Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas of Illinois and Senate Whip Francis Myers of Pennsylvania, both ousted by Republicans.

Elsewhere, he has wartime OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, defeated in his attempt to win a second term as Governor of Connecticute, and Representative Chase Going Woodhouse (D., Conn.).

Alex M. Campbell, unsuccessful candidate for an Indiana Senate seat, and Albert J. Loveland, who failed to win an Iowa Senate seat, both left Government posts to make their races.

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.), similarly unsuccessful in California, and Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah), who lost his seat, have both been closely identified with Mr. Truman's foreign and labor policies.

One Republican "lame duck" may have a better chance for a Government job than some of his Democratic colleagues. He is Senator Chan Gurney (R., S. D.). Ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, he told reporters after a recent White House visit that he expects to take a job in the Defense Department after he completes his present term.

Wisconsin Alumni Meet

Washington area alumni of the University of Wisconsin will hold a dnner meeting at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw. A. John Berge, executive secretary of the alumni association will speak.

Republicans appear to be sitting pretty to gain an advantage—and Democrats to take it on the chin—in the forthcoming juggling of Congress seats based on the new census.

One-third of all the States will gain or lose one or more members of the House of Represntatives in the 1952 election because of the new population figures.

That's because the House membership is fixed, by law, at 435. But the number of seats for each State changes according to population shifts. Senate representation always remains the same, two for each State.

California Gains 7 Seats

The new census figures require that California gain 7 House seats, Florida 2, Maryland 1, Michigan 1, Texas 1, Virginia 1, and Washington 1.

This will be done by taking away three House seats from Pennsylvania, two each from Missouri, New York and Oklahoma, and one each from Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Just how these changes will be made is up to the Legislature in each of the 16 affected States. So the political complexion of the Legislatures of those States becomes controlling.

A squabble is sure in most of the States affected. That's because the States gaining or losing House seats will face the problem of how to arrange this to the best advantage of one party or the other.

One "out" which has been used by States gaining Congressmen is to make the additional members Representatives at Large—that is, elected by all the people in a State, rather than a particular geographical district. Presumably some States losing members could use the same device in reverse, electing remaining members at large.

California offers unusual opportunity for the Republicans. With seven added House seats, the GOP-controlled California Legislature can be expected to seek to arrange for their election in such a way as to insure the maximum number of Republicans.

The same is true for the added House member in Michigan.

Florida, with two added House members, and Texas, Virginia and Maryland, with one each, probably will follow tradition by seeking to produce new Congressmen who are mostly on the conservative rather than "Fair Deal" side.

Democrats Seen Losers

Washington State, picking up one new member, has a Democratic controlled Legislature.

Pennsylvania, losing three present House seats; New York, losing two, and Illinoois, losing one, all have GOP Legislatures. So it's likely that their subtracting, generally speaking, will be done more at the expense of the Democrats than the Republicans.

These three populous States, together with California and Michigan will have among them the big total of 146 House memberships in the Congress chosen in 1952, most of which may be subject to the redistricting pleasure of Republican Legislatures.

On the other hand the Democrats as a party will gain nothing by redistricting in the Dixie States which elect Democrats, no matter how the lines are drawn. Any chances in lines that can be made to their advantage must come through their control of the few border States which are gaining or losing representation.

Reduction of representation is usually accomplished by rejuggling the congressional districts with population equally as a guide.

But a party in power in a State often changes congressional districts to benefit itself. This can be done, for instance, by tossing a chunk of conservative rural votes into a city Congressman's voting area. A district sometimes threads across a broad expanse to gather in elements which the party in power thinks will give its candidates an advantage. Bitter court suits often follow a redistricting.

"Gerrymandeering"

This process of altering a voting district along unnatural lines for a political advantage is called "gerrymandering." The term came from a senatorial district juggling engineered in 1812 by Gov. Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and later Vice President of the United States under President Madison.

Of course, all the Legislatures can do is arrange for the House seating changes. It will still be up to the voters to decide who'll fill the jobs. So a Republican effort to insure a GOP man—or a Democratic attempt to cinch a Democratic victory—could very well backfire.

The South will show a net loss in House representation. Florida picks up two seats, and Maryland, Virginia and Texas each one—for a total of five. But Oklahoma and Missouri each lose two, and Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee each one—for a total of eight.

These changes in House representation will have their effect on the 1952 presidential election. California, for instance, will speak for 30 Electoral College votes, instead of 23 as in the past.

Maneuvers to put these changes into effect will start early next year. A dozen of the 16 States required to make changes will have regular legislative sessions next year. Some of the others may call special sessions of their Legislatures.

Wallace Says Reds Show No Peace Intent

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace said last night the U. S. must build its armed strength "as fast as possible" until Russia and Red China give "concrete evidence" that they are interested in peace.

The former Vice President told a forum of the community church that he no longer believed peace could be obtained by meeting Russia "half way."

"When Russia permitted the North Koreans to attack and when Chinese troops entered North Korea and Tibet," he said, "it became clear to me that Russia is eager to use other people to heat up the cold war."

He said Russia is "committing a criminal act" in inciting the Chinese to "bloody conflict with the United States."

Wallace, who resigned as head of the Progressive Party last summer when it refused to support his condemnation of Red aggression in Korea, urged the U. S. to make clear it has no imperialistic designs in Asia.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.
If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. High Court Rejects Ober Law Attack

The Supreme Court yesterday tossed out as moot an attack on Maryland's antisubversive act, the Ober Law.

Moot means the point at argument has been settled. In this case, Louis Shub of the Progressive Party had been denied a place on last week's election ballot for governor and sought a court order to have his name added. Shub refused to sign the loyalty oath.

Since the law won overwhelming indorsement of the State's voters at the same election, a new test of its constitutionality probably can be expected. But it may take months, or even years, for such a case to reach the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, the law stands.

In a short decision day, the Supreme Court yesterday also:

1. Dismissed an attack on Virginia's milk law under which prices are fixed. The attack came from Newport News consumers. However, the court has agreed to consider a Wisconsin milk law and its decision in this case is likely to have more effect on the Washington area problem than the Virginia case would have had.

2. Refused to consider the Government's contention that it owns eight million dollars' worth of stock in what was the Dollar Steamship Lines, Inc., now the American President Lines. R. Stanley Dollar, who now will be in control once again, issued a statement last night declaring that "justice has prevailed and I am grateful."

3. Upheld the constitutionality of the Government's $100-an-ounce tax on unlicensed sales of marihuana. Justice Clark delivered the unanimous opinion, overturning a lower court ruling. Clark said that "despite the regulatory effect of the tax and its close resemblance to a penalty," it is not invalid.

4. Ruled that a Federal tax lien has priority even when a private creditor has a prior attachment to the property involved. Justice Minton delivered the unanimous ruling and Justice Jackson added a concurring opinion.

5. Refused, by a 4-4 tie vote with Justice Clark out of the case, to grant freedom to two former members of the Capone gang. They are Louis (Little New York) Campagna and Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, both of whom served a third of 10 year-sentences for conspiracy to extort money from the movie industry.

Their 1947 paroles were investigated by a House committee and later revoked, the mobsters contending the action was political. The court yesterday issued no opinion and did not disclose how the eight voting members split in the case.

'Conflict Symbol'

Labor Leader Urges Firing Of Brannan

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—An Iowa labor leader today demanded that President Truman fire Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan because he "has become a symbol of conflict."

A. A. Couch, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor (AFL), told Mr. Truman in a telegram that Brannan's farm plan "has caused much disturbance to our political climate in Iowa, and had much to do with the reelection" of Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (R., Iowa).

Couch told the President "we need unity for the trying days ahead, and Secretary Brannan has become a symbol of conflict."

He added that the request was made "not because of personalities, but because of a desire to strengthen a unified approach." Couch said the Brannan Plan "as finally developed, became an issue of personalities, which conflicts with good government."

Couch told the United Press he was speaking for the State AFL's 160,000 members in his telegram, although he had no formal directive from the organization. He said he had discussed the move with members of the AFL state board and other leaders, but had not advised national AFL President William Green.

Couch said he believed Brannan's attempt to "jam his plan down the throat of Iowa" by sending former Undersecretary of Agriculture Albert J. Loveland into the Democratic primaries last spring alienated the farm and part of the labor vote.

Interference in Farming Charged by Bureau Chief

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 13 (U.P.).—President Warren W. Hawley of the New York State Federation of Farm Bureaus today said continued Government interference in farming would justify demands for the resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

Hawley, as keynote speaker at the federation's thirty-first annual convention, charged "the Government is attempting to strangle our liberties as free farmers."

"If Secretary of Agriculture Brannan continues to think that the Government should speak for farmers," he said, "I think that the farmers of America should rise up and demand his resignation."

Referring to selective service deferment of farmers, Hawley said Farm Bureau members should ask for deferment only in "extreme hardship cases."

$125-Million Credit Granted Here to 10 Argentine Banks

By the United Press

The Export-Import Bank of Washington granted a credit of 125 million dollars to a group of 10 Argentine banks yesterday to speed settlement of Argentina's past-due commercial dollar obligations.

The new agreement defines past-due obligations as those which were due and unpaid on May 15, 1950. The Central Bank of Argentina has guaranteed the credit.

Should the credit announced yesterday be insufficient to liquidate such outstanding obligations, Export-Import Bank officials said, the Central Bank has agreed to provide the necessary additional United States dollars.

They said the past-due obligations that now will be paid do not include past-due accounts such as earnings, dividends, royalties, and the like.

In this connection it was pointed out that Argentinas Finance Minister announced measures in August to allow dollar remittances up to 5 percent on all current earnings. He said then that these arrearages would be settled as quickly as possible.

Yesterday's announcement emphatically said that in no instance should American creditors file any statements of claims with the Export-Import Bank. All claims must be filed in Washington with the special commission of the Central Bank of Argentina.

Outstanding commercial dollar obligations eligible for liquidation include those due United States commercial banks as a result of transactions under commercial bank letters of credit; those due exporters to Argentina who can show bills for collection placed by the exporters with the United States banks, and those due exporters in the United States of goods to Argentina evidence of which is provided by open account or other arrangements between the exporter and importer without any commercial bank intervention.

2 More Jailed For Contempt

Two more members of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee went to jail here yesterday for defying the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Miss Helen R. Bryan, 54, executive secretary of the committee, and Mrs. Ernestine Gonzales Fleischman, 50, began serving three-month sentences. Both are from New York.

They surrendered in Federal District Cohrt as a result of the recent refusal of the Supreme Court ot review their convictions for contempt of Congress in 1948. Each also was fined $500. The fines were paid today by Milton Kaufman, acting secretary of the refugee committee.

This brought to 13 the number of persons jailed for refusing to urnish committee records, including lists of members and financial sopporters, to the House group during an investigation of communism. The 11 jailed previously included Dr. Edward K. Barsky, chairman of the committee.

Barsky served a six-month sentence, and has been released. The remaining 10 served three-month sentences.

Woman Doctor Makes Bond in Kidnap Case

SANTA FE, N. Mex., Nov. 13 (A.P.). — Dr. Nancy Campbell was freed on bond today in the kidnaping of a Santa Fe contractor's daughter and sped to Albuquerque to enter a hospital.

Her attorney and friends said the 43-year-old Yale-trained physician is dangerously near a physical breakdown.

Almost simultaneously with Dr. Campbell's release, the Allen Stamm family issued a statement thanking officers for saving blonde 9-year-old Linda Saturday night.

"We are immensely relieved and thank God that Linda is back home apparently unharmed," said the 38-year-old stepfather.

The girl's mother, Roberta Stamm, 32, earlier expressed hope that Dr. Campbell never would be allowed freedom "to bring to others what she has brought to us."

Dr. Campbell, respected women's specialist, had attended Mrs. Stamm at the birth of the third of her four children. It was believed that baby—Craig, 2—had been the doctor's intended victim.

But instead she lured Lnda away Friday with promise to take her to her mother, who was at a bridge party. The FBI said she admitted the kidnaping to raise money, but none could explain any financial trouble she was in.

The FBI trapped Dr. Campbell as she picked up a box containing the $20,000 ransom she had demanded. Linda was found drugged in the doctor's auto nearby.

Mannish Dr. Campbell, in gray suit and bobbed hair, looked worn and tired as she left the city jail in company of her attorney, former State Supreme Court Justice A. L. Zinn, and her brother, James Campbell, China Lake, Calif., engineer.

She spoke in a barely audible whisper. She stopped almost automatically when a photographer called, "just a moment please."

Zinn said Dr. Campbell would receive "the medical attention she needs so badly" in St. Joseph's Hospital at Albuquerque. "And that," he said, "most certainly doesn't include a sanity test."

Dr. Campbell's $25,000 bond was signed by four Santa Feans—Dr. Charlotte Jones, close friend; Dr. Herbert Ellis, County Medical Society head, David Hughes and Walter G. Turley.

The District Attorney's office said she would probably be arraigned on charges of kidnaping for ransom in a week or two. Conviction carries a penalty from five years prison to electrocution at the decision of the trial jury.

[Dr. Campbell was a staff member of St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington from 1932 to 1937.—Editor's note.]

'Lies' Charged to Block A-Spy Investigation

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol charged today that "the lies" of Abraham Brothman and Miriam Moskowitz threw a Federal grand jury's investigation of atomic espionage "off the track" for nearly three years.

Saypol made the Government's opening statement at their trial on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice. Brothman, 36, is a chemical engineer and Miss Moskowitz, 34, is his business associate.

Saypol said the pair induced Harry Gold, confessed atom spy who worked with Dr. Klaus Fuchs, to give false testimony in July, 1947, to a grand jury investigating subversive activities.

"These lies were so numerous and serious that it threw the investigation off the track for nearly three years," Saypol said.

The Government's first witness, FBI Agent Donald Shannon, said Brothman told him three years ago that he had given blueprints to Elizabeth Bentley and her Communist boss, the late Jacob Golos, in 1938, when she was a Communist courier.

Shannon testified that Brothman said he knew Miss Bentley only as "Helen" and that his association with both "Helen" and Golos was on a business level.

"Brothman said he was not a member of the Communist Party, but early in the 1930's he did belong to the Young Communist League while a student at Columbia University," Shannon testified.

Shannon also testified about an interview he had with Gold in 1947, immediately after his interview with Brothman. He said Gold told him he met Brothman through Golos.

Gold has pleaded guilty to atomic espionage and now is awaiting sentencing.

Defense Attorney William Kleinman told the jury that Gold was "a liar with a devious and disordered mind" who for some reason was anxious to "destroy" Miss Moskowitz and had tried to destroy Brothman's business when they were business associates three years ago.

U. S. Sues Bank Over Payments In Suicide Case

The United States Government yesterday filed suit for $6693 against the Second National Bank here for money paid out of the Treasury under forged indorsements.

According to Assistant United States Attorney L. Clark Ewing, the payments were made under false claims in August and September, 1947, by Charles G. McLaughlin, adjudicator in the death claims section of the Civil Service Commission.

McLaughlin was found dead in October, 1947, in his automobile near Elkins, W. Va. A suicide note blamed "domestic difficulties."

The suit contends the bank is liable since it "guaranteed" genuineness of indorsements upon which the Government made payment to the bank.

Crime Committee Due for Extension

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The Senate Crime Investigating Committee, whose activities helped defeat Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D., Ill.) last week, may live on until the 1952 election because of its value as a Republican political weapon.

One Republican in a position to judge said yesterday that "we'd be suckers to miss the opportunity."

A good case can be made that the committee will be far from having finished its job by February 28, the day it is due to die. Normally such a special committee would get a six-month or perhaps even a year's extension. It wouldn't take much prodding to continue it into the fall of 1952, now that the Senate is going to be practically evenly divided in the new Congress.

Conceded to Be Factor

There is general agreement among both Democrats and Republicans that the committee's work in Chicago this fall was a big factor in the Lucas defeat. The committee wasn't investigating Lucas, of course, but it did lay into a Chicago police captain running for sheriff. He was snowed under by his GOP opponent and Lucas suffered from that anti-machine vote.

When Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) first asked for such a committee last January he got a cold reception from Lucas and others who well knew that the important gambling-and-politics tie-ups were in the big cities and that practically all the big city political machines were Democratic. The worst Democratic suspicions now have been confirmed.

GOP Members Reelected

The committee's two Republican members have just won reelection to the Senate. They are Senators Alexander Wiley (Wis.) and Charles W. Tobey (N. H.). Both are going this week with Kefauver to the West Coast to look into gambling and crime in Nevada (where gambling is legal) and in Los Angeles and San Francisco. California voters last week swamped a proposal to legalize the extensive gambling in the Golden Bear State.

The two other Democratic members aren't going. They are Senators Hunt (Wyo.) and O'Conor (Md.). Besides Kefauver, only Hunt had attended more than a handful of out-of-town sessions so far.

A good deal is likely to be heard from both Wiley and Tobey from now on. It was Wiley who bristled last month when Kefauver said crime was "bipartisan." He cracked back that "to invoke in effect a plague on both Republican and Democratic Party houses is completely unfair" to the GOP. He added:

"The major responsibility for the tie-up between crime and crooked politics is at the doorstep of the Democratic Party."

Tobey Asks Tax Inquiry

And Tobey on Saturday took a swing at the Democratic Administration by suggesting that the Crime Committee look into some income tax cases in New England which reportedly have been glossed over by Internal Revenue agents.

The Justice Department is likely to come in for some Republican criticism for not being of much help to the crime committee despite protestations by Attorney General J. Howard McGrath of complete cooperation. Both Democrats and Republicans in the know report that next to nothing has come from Justice to the committee despite reputed bulging FBI files on many of the Nation's top racketeers.

Chairman Kefauver's position is not in dispute and Wiley has gone out of his way to praise the Tennessean's handling of the committee, except for the one remark about "bipartisan" crime. Likewise the committee counsel, Rudolph Halley, and the staff appear to be in the good graces of members of both parties.

An 'Accessory'

Southern Bell Is Indicted by Gaming Jury

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Southern Bell Telephone Company was indicted by the Dade County grand jury today on a charge of "being an accessory to the operation of gambling houses."

The same jury declared that one visiting oil man last winter "was filched out of a half-million dollars in a gambling casino" in one evening in this area.

Five other corporations, all hotel operators in this area, were indicted on charges of renting rooms for gambling purposes. None of them were big, well-known resort hotels. The offenses allegedly took place last winter.

The winter visitor who lost the half-million at gambling was not identified by name, nor was the spot in which the enormous loss occurred named in the report.

The disclosure came in the jury's final report along with a batch of indictments. Names of those indicted will not be released until they have surrendered.

Robert H. Givens, special counsel for the grand jury, said the winter visitor referred to in the report is the owner of an important oil company. He would not give the name for publication.

The jury's report also unloosed a blast at "so-called legitimate businessmen without whose services the gamblers could not have operated."

It cited as a circumstance of Dade County's gambling picture: "The subsidiary of the largest public utility in the world and of the world's largest corporation, symbol of our greatness, aiding these racketeers to violate our laws and thus destroy faith in representative government."

The jury did not name the utility.

The report said the power of the Dade County sheriff's office was "employed to steal money in gambling raids; to assist a Chicago racketeer to muscle his way into an established racket organization in this county," and that sheriff's deputies were "on the payrolls of the racketeers, taking directly from those racketeers instructions whom to raid and whom not to raid."

Appellate Court To Hear Lano Case On Wednesday

The Maryland Court of Appeals in Annapolis Wednesday will hear a reargument on the conviction of Sam Lano, former Prince Georges County pinball machine operator, on Wednesday.

Lano was convicted January 9 in Prince Georges County Circuit Court of threatening John Duffy, Brentwood tavern owner, with criminal prosecution on a bad check charge if he failed to continue to use Lano's machines.

The conviction was upheld by the appellate court, but a later motion for a reargument was granted Lanos attorneys.

2600-Year-Old Tomb Found

RARE FIND IN EGYPT—Archaeologicalists explore the first level of the 2600-year-old tomb of Mentemhet, high priest and governor of Thebes, found near the famous Valley of Kings, near Luxor, where 60 Egyptian pharaohs were buried. Openings at right and left lead down to the actual burial chambers. Archaeologists reported that the tomb had been looted.

VA Group's Aid Asked to Cure GIs Who Enjoy 'Hospitalitis'

Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, medical director of Veterans' Administration, yesterday asked help to clear VA hospitals of patients who apparently enjoy "hospitalitis."

These are the patients, he explained, whose morale has sunk so low they "like hospital life because it relieves them from care."

For "many", he said, the doctors "have done all they can," and all the patients need is "the friendly urge" from fellow citizens to go home and accept responsibilities again.

Dr. Magnuson spoke at the opening meeting of a two-day conference of VA's Voluntary Service Advisory Committee. The committee, comprising representatives from the Nation's veterans', civic and service organizations, directs the activities of some 72,000 voluntary workers who visit, entertain and otherwise service hospitalized veterans.

The voluntary workers, Dr. Magnuson told the committee members, can make the present number of VA beds serve many more veterans by helping persuade unnecessarily hospitalized veterans to go home.

As an example, he cited the part voluntary workers played at a VA hospital in Minneapolis, where 169 patients had been bedridden from 2 to 15 years. Now, thanks to voluntary workers, he said, only nine patients are still bedridden there.

Of the others, he added, half are out earning a living, a quarter more are at home, and many of the rest are able to take care of themselves, help out at the hospital, and relieve the hospital of the intensive care they formerly required.

Cabbie Is Held In Rape Case

Lewis Bolyard, 24-year-old Laurel, Md., cab driver, yesterday was held for grand jury action in Hyattsville Police Court on a charge he raped a 14-year-old Laurel girl October 29.

The complainant a small brunette, testified he raped her while parked in an isolated spot after she hailed the cab to be taken home after attending church.

Bolyard did not take the stand, but in a statement read by police he denied attacking the girl. Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie ordered him held without bond.

Pennsy to Refurnish 2 N. Y.-D. C. Trains

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (U.P.).—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that its two New York-to-Washington trains, the "Congressional" and the "Senator," will be rejuvenated with new cars as soon as they can be built.

A total of 66 new cars will be required for the four trains in the Congressional and Senator service. The line said the new trains will be hauled by electric locomotives.

To the "Leading Man" in Your Life

Have you noticed how mysteriously the du Mauriers disappear from the scarlet aluminum box on your dressing table?

It couldn't be...or could it...that the Leading Man in your life was shamelessly pilfering your very own du Mauriers. It's quite true... more and more men are smoking du Mauriers for sheer pleasure. Wherever bon viveurs foregather...you'll find du Maurier's scarlet aluminum box a "conversation piece".

Some go all out for fragrant aroma ...others stick up for du Maurier's five-ply filter tip that eliminates unpleasant ingredients in the smoke and always insures that it is fragrant and clear. But...whatever their reason...all agree that du Mauriers are definitely top-flight...so, light a du Maurier!

Julia Marlowe

A quarter century has gone by since Julia Marlowe of the lovely voice last charmed an audience as Rosalind or Juliet. But the spell she cast then, and indeed during the whole of a theatrical career that extended over four decades, was so potent that none who fell under it has ever quite recovered. Perhaps Shakespeare has equally gifted and magnetic interpreters today. But those who learned to love the theater in the years when Sothern and Marlowe were its most luminous stars will not readily acknowledge that their joined performances have ever been, or ever will be, matched.

Miss Marlowe had become a celebrated actress, especially in Shakespearean roles, long before she met E. H. Sothern, and they worked as partners on the stage for a number of years before they became partners in marriage. Together they carried their famous Sothern and Marlowe repertory company to every quarter of the United States. Players journeyed to their audiences in those days. Everywhere, not alone in the United States but in England as well, Sothern and Marlowe were welcomed joyously as travelers who brought romance and imagination as their wares. "The Sunken Bell," "Jeanne d'Arc," "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and other plays of the period were in their repertory. But "Twelfth Night," "As You Like It," "Romeo and Juliet," "Hamlet" and "Macbeth" were their forte. They made the exciting figures of Shakespeare's plays household familiars. It is a pity that they are no longer so.

Born in England, brought up as a child in Kansas, trained for the theater in Cincinnati, elevated to stardom with her first appearance in New York, Julia Marlowe led a full and varied and cosmopolitan life. A part of it was spent, as a matter of fact, in Washington. For a while she lived here at 1642 29th st. in Georgetown shortly after her retirement in 1924. Her latter years were spent so quietly and in such obscurity that the news of her death the other day must have come as a shock to those who had already come to think of her as a symbol of a bygone era in the theater. No doubt she will be remembered as long as the persons she portrayed are remembered.

Foreign Relations

The defeat or retirement of nine Democratic Senators this year will necessitate a good deal of shifting in the committees when the Eighty-second Congress meets in January. Three committees—Agriculture, Armed Services, Labor and Public Welfare—will lose their chairmen. Not a single committee will escape with no turnover, and in some instances (notably Foreign Relations and Labor and Public Welfare) a substantial remaking of the committee on the Democratic side will be essential. Aside from the choice of a majority leader and whip, this will be the first important task confronting the Senate.

Interest naturally centers in the Foreign Relations Committee not only because of its importance but also because it will lose three of its high-ranking members—Senators Thomas (of Utah), Tydings and Pepper. Only two of these positions are likely to be filled by Democrats. The committee is under strong pressure to return to the old ratio of seven majority and six minority members. That was the arrangement followed during the Eightieth Congress when the Republicans were in control, and it contributed much to an easy working relationship between the two parties in the period while the Marshall Plan and the Greek-Turkish aid policy were taking shape. The Republicans have never ceased to resent the action of the Democrats in changing the ratio on this committee to eight-five when they organized the Senate in 1949. That short-sighted abuse of power discouraged interparty cooperation on foreign policy and brought protests from many nonpartisan sources, including this newspaper. With the membership of the Senate now almost equally divided between the two parties, every argument for maintaining the present lopsided arrangement has disappeared. We hope the reports that President Truman is in sympathy with a return to the seven-six ratio are well founded.

Much will depend upon the wisdom exercised by the Democratic and Republican members of the Senate in filling these positions on the Foreign Relations Committee. On the Democratic side, the vacancies might logically go to Senator Sparkman, who is actively working with the United Nations, and Senator Anderson, or to Senators Douglas, Kefauver, or Benton. Three Senators—Hill, Murray and Gillette—have previously been on the Foreign Relations Committee, but it is by no means certain that any of them will wish to return. Senator Murray will become chairman of Labor and Public Welfare and Senator Hill may be loath to lose his high standing on that committee and on Appropriations. Senator Gillette could not go back to Foreign Relations without giving that committee two Iowans, a duplication which the Senate usually tries to avoid.

On the Republican side, it is especially gratifying to note the probability that Senator Vandenberg may be back in harness with the opening of the new Congress. Mr. Vandenberg is preeminently the spokesman for his party in the Senate on foreign affairs. If his influence prevails, as we hope it will, the new Republican member of the committee may be Senator Morse or Tobey. In any event, the committee will have a heavy responsibility for keeping the two parties working together on foreign policy in this period when the tendency toward a stalemate will be strong.

China Resolution

The Chinese refusal to comply with the U. N. invitation to the Peking government to explain the Chinese entry into Korea has been blasted as arrogant and mendacious and impertinent. Nevertheless the Chinese representatives are on their way to Lake Success, and this is the important thing. They are coming, of course, to prosecute their own case against the United States of "aggression," but there can be no doubt that, with the Chinese on the spot, the discussions will not be limited.

The puzzle about Chinese intentions in Korea may then yield the answer. Four reasons for intervention have been offered.

1. That the Chinese are honestly afraid of the American purpose on the Manchurian-Korean frontier.
2. That they are trying to intimidate the member nations into letting them into the United Nations.
3. That the Chinese are merely playing the Soviet game of pinning us down in continental Asia so as to bleed us to death.
4. That intervention in Korea is merely a detail in a grand design of conquest in which Asia has been allocated to China while Russia gobbles up Europe.

Assurance on the first point has now been given in the U. N. resolution. The assurance was belated. It was a mistake to keep up the drive in North Korea beyond what seemed to be a predetermined 40-mile line from the Manchurian frontier. It was a blunder to do so without any concurrent representations being made in Peking. To be sure, the Chinese Communists are not members of the United Nations, and have not been recognized by half the world, but this was all the more reason to have a U. N. agent in Peking.

On the part of the United States the excuse for delaying assurances is that there was no need for them. Circumstances, it is said, showed full well that the U. N. forces did not envisage attack. To be sure, our B-29's could probably blot out the Yalu grid in five minutes, and have not done so. The fact is, however, that any such restraint is contrary to the American hostility toward the Peking regime which persisted even after that regime had been established in de facto control of Chinese territory. Supplies continued to go to Chiang Kai-shek even after he had holed up in Formosa. The traffic has been even more senseless than the 1919 dealings with Admiral Koltchak, who, in his hideaway in Siberia, was still the recipient of arms from our General Graves, who was outraged over his instructions to deliver them. Chiang's object is well known; it is to attack Communist China. The while we are supplying Chiang we are the head and front of the opposition to Communist claims to membership of the United Nations.

In recent weeks our hostility to Peking has gone to extraordinary lengths. In spite of it, the Security Council invited Communist China to be present in a discussion on Formosa scheduled for November 15. This was an elementary courtesy that has been afforded to such diverse groups as Outer Mongolia, the Arab Higher Committee, and Albania. The Chinese agreed to come October 23, and the U. N. requested visas for the Chinese delegation on October 25, but the State Department, in spite of the headquarters agreement with the United Nations, remained inhibited till election day, when the U. N. was told that the visas were ready. If a man from Mars would get the impression that the Administration had adopted the policy of the interventionist opposition, who could blame the man in Peking if he got the same impression? These facts should be borne in mind before the Chinese are castigated without qualifications; it will be time enough to judge motives when we have seen and heard the Chinese.

Overloaded Trucks

The other day in Elkhart, Ind., a hapless interstate truck driver was fined $1870—the equivalent of a 3½-year prison term—for gross overloading. When told of the plight of the driver, the employer in Philadelphia, untouchable under the law, replied: "It's a big truck. It's capable of carrying a big load." This incident is fairly typical of the manner in which many of the Nation's highways are being pounded to pieces by unscrupulous truck operators out for quick profit. One writer has estimated, for instance, that it would take 60 billion dollars to place the country's highways in first-class shape; overloading is a principal factor in the destruction. Yet in all too many instances fines and jail sentences are ineffectual because the real culprit is not the driver but the owner.

In the District the problem is not acute, principally because trucks must travel at slow speeds along designated reinforced highways and there is a relatively low 22,000-pound axle load limit. Also, in Washington the law provides that the driver and owner may be held jointly liable for any damage to streets resulting from illegal use. In Virginia, however, despite rigorous enforcement of the 18,000-pound axle load and 50,000-pound gross load limit, macadam roads are taking a beating. At the Woodbridge weighing station not far south of Washington, 1806 arrests were made and $190,743 was collected in fines during July alone. Maryland also enforces its laws rigorously, but a different weight formula and much higher gross load limit make comparisons difficult. It is a reasonable bet that the fines collected by no means compensate for the damage done.

Not all trucking companies are offenders; many reputable firms attempt to stay within the law. One of the difficulties which they confront is the lack of uniformity between State laws; unloading is costly, and it is always a temptation to attempt to get by with an overload. In some Western States, for example, double trailers with an over-all length of 70 feet and loads of 40 tons are permitted. The American Automobile Association is trying to promote uniform limits of 50 feet over-all length, 8 feet over-all width and 18,000 pounds maximum axle loads.

There is also a safety hazard in the way overloaded trucks creep up hills and then race down. It is a double insult to the private motorist frustrated by one of these leviathans to know that it is also damaging the highway for which he has paid in taxes. But there are remedies. In addition to uniform laws and joint liability, some States are designating certain routes which through trucks must use—thus facilitating inspection—and are requiring that overloaded trucks dump their cargoes on the spot. Relentless enforcement of such measures can be a powerful check on the highway destroyers; the real job is to awaken laggard States to the menace.

Education By TV

The University of Michigan and Station WWJ-TV in Detroit have launched an interesting experiment designed to carry visual education courses into an estimated 300,000 living rooms. It is not merely an attempt to sandwich in a few educational ideas, as if they were commercials. Rather, the university offers full-fledged "telecourses" through its extension division. By paying a small fee students may register for one 14-week science course ("Man in His World—Human Biology") and for another seven-week course ("Living in the Later Years"). At the conclusion of the courses examinations will be given and certificates awarded to those who pass. Of course, anyone with access to a television set in the area may participate without registering.

University professors will teach the various courses, with the aid of specialists, charts, film strips, diagrams, blackboard demonstrations and laboratory equipment, and with emphasis on demonstration rather than lecturing. The hour each week given to the University of Michigan program will be divided into three 20-minute periods, the first being devoted to science, the arts, and academic pursuits; the second to social problems under the heading of "modern living"; and the third to "exploration" of the university's laboratories, workshops, libraries and so forth. There is little doubt that some fields of study can be made vivid and impressive by this means.

While Michigan's Dean Hayward Keniston says that the university is in this new field of education to stay, the venture must be regarded as an experiment. The real question is not whether television is an effective medium for education but whether people care about broadening their understanding of the world and the society of which they are a part by this means. Many brave attempts at education by means of radio have succumbed to the soap operas, "gag" programs and the give-aways. It is yet to be demonstrated that education by television will be more successful. The promoters of the new venture may find in history, science, art, and literature an appeal to the eye that the spoken word has not been able to convey. If so, however, they are likely to have to employ more showmanship than is in evidence on most university faculties. In any event, the experiment is certainly worth making. If it did no more than crowd off the screen some of the crudities that pass for television entertainment, it would reflect a notable gain.

Forced Migration

The Turkish government, which has been for some years a target in the war of nerves waged by the Russians and their satellites, had a new problem thrust upon it recently with the presentation of a demand by Bulgaria that Turkey receive within a period of three months some 250,000 Turkish nationals now living in Bulgaria. The demand came suddenly, after a long Bulgarian ban on immigration. It cannot quite be called an ejection of the Turkish minority from Bulgaria, but it amounts to something very like an ejection since the Bulgarians have made life so miserable for the Turks within their borders that the members of this hapless group are now desperately eager to return to their homeland.

Forced migrations are always brutal. In this instance, the brutality seems deliberate and calculated. Its principal purpose apparently is to embarrass the Turkish government by thrusting upon it a mass of human beings without affording it any opportunity to prepare for their maintenance. No doubt the Turks can take in and assimilate a quarter of a million of their own nationals; the Israelis have taken in proportionately a far greater number. But planning and preparation are necessary.

Moreover, the Bulgarian demand appears to be in direct violation of a treaty governing migration negotiated between the two countries in 1925. That agreement laid down the principle that "no obstacles shall be raised against the migration of Bulgarians in Turkey and the migration of Turks in Bulgaria" and stipulated that emigrants should be allowed to take their movable property and their livestock with them in addition to being allowed a reasonable time to liquidate their real estate and farm holdings. The Turks charge that this agreement has been systematically infringed by Bulgaria. They are willing to take care of a normal number of Turkish emigrants from Bulgaria, but not of a sudden mass deportation. Their protest is unlikely, however, to make much impression on a neighbor which has shown scant regard for the niceties of treaty obligations. The migrants, of course, will be the tragic pawns in this game of power politics.

Russia And China

If we have blundered into a war with China, then we have blundered indeed. For China, in the power relationship of nations, is a natural ally of the United States—as natural as England or France and more so than Yugoslavia. Russia and China are historic and natural enemies—the conflict in the lands along their long border is elemental and vital. No such basic conflict exists between America and China. Rather, historic friends, we have basic interests in common.

Until it is achieved, national unification must be the chief aim of Chinese foreign policy—but only until unification is achieved is the Russian alliance of value to China. Only the intervention of United States forces in Korea and Formosa gives continuing vitality to the Russo-Chinese alliance by furnishing an artificial temporary common national interest to two of the chief enemies of modern times. China's real national interest demands United States friendship in resistance to the expansion of Russian influence in the Far East.

It is evident that the Russian leaders, aware of this elementary fact of international politics, are desperately maneuvering to insure Chinese adherence to Russia. Some observers feel that Russia, fearing Chinese diplomatic association with the West, has presented her demands so offensively as to insure the nonadmission of China to the United Nations.

The Korean war was scarcely a blunder by Russia—it forestalled the Chinese occupation of Formosa, which would have removed the chief support of the alliance, and brought American troops into hostile juxtaposition to the Chinese. The unification of Korea would perhaps have been a minor immediate gain—but to embroil an actual and a potential enemy, completing the binding of China to the Soviet camp, is a major triumph. Baltimore Dogs

Your editorial remarks on November 10 regarding Baltimore's dogs for research referendum were inordinately flippant and insulting to the medical profession of Baltimore. I should like to point out to you that the bitter fight over this issue was forced upon us by a small but vociferous group of antivivisectionists goaded on by one element of the press of this city. The question on the ballot was cleverly worded, so that if passed it would have effectively stopped the use of dogs for research purposes in the medical schools of the University of Maryland and the Johns Hopkins University. Since the dog is the only suitable animal for investigating some of our most pressing disease problems, passage of the measure would have been a death blow to research.

To us who fought this campaign it was a battle for the survival of medical education. We had no relish for such a fight. In fact, most of us found it humiliating and embarrassing to have to campaign from door to door and to electioneer at the polls. Nevertheless the entire medical profession, as well as the faculties and students of all the colleges and universities in Baltimore, gave unstintingly their time and financial support to the campaign. This group, along with the Baltimore Sunpapers, carried the brunt of the campaign.

It is very easy to sit back and muse that the forces of light will ultimately triumph over the forces of darkness, but when the darkness is breathing down your neck you have to fight.

Big Ten Football

Having attended the University of Wisconsin, I feel it my duty to give my view on Mr. Povich's article on November 8 on Rose Bowl prospects for this coming New Year's Day. Wisconsin has held or shared second place in the Western Conference several times in recent years; it is recalled that in 1942 they lost the championship to Ohio State, not on games lost, but on percentage points; in fact the Badgers defeated Ohio State that year.

This year the Badgers have a team that has left football fans the Nation over with their mouths open. Thanks to the new coach, Ivy Williamson, and the loyal players and followers, Wisconsin has a great chance to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl game this year. Why take the color out of the affair and call them a third class team? If I recall correctly, the Badgers didn't do too badly against a supposedly strong Illinois team, and a favored Northwestern team.

Let's give credit where credit is due. Mr. Povich's jaundiced view of Big Ten football is no doubt prompted by his experience in colorless games played in his bailiwick; in order to write of Big Ten football Mr. Povich should follow records and schedules more closely. SERGT. E. J. FALCI.

Butler's Victory

I am somewhat alarmed by the misconceptions of the politicians regarding the "mandates" of last Tuesday's election. I think therefore that the reasons behind the shift of myself and several other life-long Democrats to Butler and McKeldin in Maryland might be of some interest.

The issue of McCarthyism, which is supposed to have contributed to Tydings' defeat, in our cases at least, worked the other way. We don't like smear tactics, nor do we like muddled thinking. We were convinced beyond reasonable doubt that MacCarthy's charges were stupid and not worthy of belief. Thus, this "issue" actually disposed us toward Tydings.

Why, then, our votes for Butler? Chiefly because of Tydings' support of the McCarran law. This law, we feel, strikes at the very heart of American liberties and traditions and no one who hasn't the courage and intelligence to grasp this fact can merit our support.

Other factors also entered. The issue of foreign aid was considered. We feel that our allies should be prepared to contribute a greater share for their own benefit and defense before we underwrite these costs with even more American taxpayers' dollars. This would dispose us against Tydings, but only to a small degree. The Korean war issue was described as the result of Administration bungling. This is silly and certainly did not help to capture our votes. In fact, it disposed us rather strongly against Butler.

Our votes, then, were simply protest votes, but not at the things the Republicans suppose. And if they continue to misunderstand the voters' attitude, we'll protest at the next election once again as we did once before. F. S.

Housing Restrictions

May I answer the letter of November 7 in which Acting Administrator Fitzpatrick of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, replied to my earlier comment on your editorial entitled "Housing Credit"?

The main reason for my original letter to you was to differ from your characterization as "extremely liberal" the housing credit curbs under Regulation X. Nowhere in his letter does Mr. Fitzpatrick go so far as to claim that the down payment requirements are liberal. A simple statement of the amounts now required of a purchaser in the more popular price brackets will speak for itself.

Value (Transaction Price)	Down Payments, Veteran	Down Payments, non-veteran
$9,000	$1,000	$1,900
10,000	1,300	2,300
11,000	1,600	2,700
12,000	1,900	3,100
15,000	3,550	4,300

Your readers can quickly judge whether or not the requirement that these amounts be paid in cash is unduly burdensome. One Washington builder, producing houses in the $10,000 bracket, reports that of his last 100 customers, only two could have qualified under these requirements. The Federal Housing Administration figures on applications for insurance on single family houses show a drop from approximately 9000 a week earlier this year to 6000 a week under July 19 restrictions and to less than 2000 a week for the past few weeks.

These straws in the wind strongly supports the contention of informed opinion in the building industry that the restrictions will reduce production not to the 800,000-850,000 level, which is their stated aim, but to 400,000-600,000, with opinion steadily becoming more pessimistic. It is significant that nowhere in Mr. Fitzpatrck's letter does he contend that 800,000 units can be produced under these curbs.

Organized builders throughout the country have heartily approved the general principle of credit controls in the present situation. We do, however, reserve the right to call attention to errors in judgment in their application.

Mr. Fitzpatrick also is well aware that builders are not alone in feeling that the curbs imposed are far too drastic. Protests have been pouring into the Housing and Home Finance Agency from veterans' organizations, labor groups, and consumer organizations all over the country.

It is generally understood that the Government is working on a plan to allot one million dollars for a survey to determine the effect of the action it took a month ago. Would it not have been more sensible to have obtained some factual data prior to the issuance of controls rather than after the damage has been done.

Finally, Mr. Fitzpatrick falls back upon the glib but very weak point that, if proven too stringent, the curbs will be relaxed. Although Mr. Fitzpatrick does not quite say so, inherent in this reasoning is the assumption that the only other alternative was to have been too loose in credit policies. Previous pronouncements from Mr. Fitzpatrick's agency have made this assumption.

I would like to point out that there is a third possibility: i.e., to have set the curbs at a level which would have ruled out excessive credit while permitting that amount of housing construction for which materials are expected to be available in 1951. Had those Government officials responsible for the decision seen fit to consult with home builders and other groups within the home building and home financing industries, perhaps such a result could have been achieved. Instead, the decision was made within the inner recesses of Government and, in the meetings of those groups convened under the Defense Production Act, ostensibly to "advise and consult" with Government, the industry was simply told what the rules were going to be.

Lesson For Democrats

By Marquis Childs

Last Week's Defeat

HAVING gone through the worst of the glooms over last week's resounding rebuff, some of the bolder spirits in the Democratic Party are beginning to come out of the storm cellar. While they are loyal Democrats, they are more objective than the little clique immediately around the President.

Their theme song today is: We told you so. Long before last Tuesday's election they had begun to voice privately their concern over certain trends within the leadership of the Democratic Party. Above all, it was concern over the arrogance and the indifference to the general welfare of a party too long in power.

Looked at from that perspective, the wonder is not over the size of the Republican sweep but over why it was not much larger than it was. Without half trying, you can add up so many counts against the party that has held control of the Federal Government for nearly 20 years. These counts include:

The raw deal in New York whereby Mayor O'Dwyer was taken out of a nasty political picture and given as a payoff the Ambassadorship to Mexico. It was a political fix that failed in New York City. Yet O'Dwyer nevertheless gets that soft berth in Mexico City.

The old combination of crime and political corruption in Chicago, with the smell so rotten and so long continuous that even a Senate committee named by a Democratic Senate could hardly help but run it down to its source. The cynical will say that Chicago is used to corruption and wouldn't know how to do without it. But at least the voters like to throw out one set of rascals, since the new set will at the start at any rate be a little restrained.

Brazen defiance in Ohio of that oldest political axiom—you can't beat something with nothing. Jumping Joe Ferguson was nothing minus.

The failure of organized labor to correct even the most obvious abuses of great power. Here again, Ohio is the cardinal example.

THIS list could be lengthened almost indefinitely.. The sins of omission and commission were compounded in State after State. And, with one or two exceptions, it can be shown that it was precisely in those States where the errors were most obvious that the Democratic defeat was most resounding.

Conversely, where Democratic candidates seemed to have something to offer the result from the Democratic point of view was surprisingly favorable. Thus in normally Republican Michigan the count in the Governorship race is so close that Gov. G. Mennen Williams may have been reelected in an off year when there was no presidential nor a Michigan senatorial contest. Williams, both in what he said and what he did, tried hard to impress all the people of Michigan that he was working for their welfare and not just for one party or one pressure group.

In normally Republican Connecticut, not one but two Democratic Senators have been reelected. This must be qualified by the fact that the Republicans are contesting the returns showing Senator William Benton reelected by barely 1200 votes. But a Democratic Governor, Chester Bowles, was narrowly defeated. Bowles might have won if it had not been for the approximately 23,000 votes that went to the so-called Socialist candidate, Jasper McLevy, with his personal following in Bridgeport.

THE RESULTS in normally Republican Pennsylvania are revealing in this connection. Senator Francis Myers, Democratic whip of the Senate, was defeated by Gov. James Duff by a comparatively small margin, but in the race for Governor, the Democrat, Richardson Dilworth, came much nearer defeating a run-of-the-mine Republican candidate, Superior Court Judge John S. Fine.

The significant fact in Pennsylvania, it seems to me, is that Dilworth in his campaign was carrying on the attack begun some years ago against a malodorous Republican machine long entrenched in Philadelphia's City Hall. He piled up a margin of 76,000 votes in Philadelphia, carrying 33 wards to 19 for the Republicans.

Perhaps this only goes to prove that most people vote "against" rather than "for." But certainly you have to give them a little consideration now and then. For 1952 it may get down to the question of whether politicians ever learn anything. That is to say, learn anything short of a complete heave-ho from the voters. The object lesson last Tuesday was pretty plain and maybe it will sink in.

British Recovery

Worthy of considerable editorial attention is the news that Marshall Plan dollar aid for Britain may be suspended and kept on a stand-by basis. This is in no sense a hostile move growing out of any disagreement over British fiscal or military policies, but rather a cautious tribute to the apparent success of the Marshall Plan.

Any apparent British recovery does not necessarily mean that France, Italy and other European nations can now also dispense with Marshall Plan aid, but there is a connection through the fairly close-knit fabric of inter-European trade. It is also known that at the present time Italy has not had to use nearly as many of her Marshall Plan dollars as was expected.

The recent recovery of the Canadian dollar is also due in large measure to the Marshall Plan purchases.

One other important fact stands out in the revival of American-British talks with the view of scaling down dollar aid to the vanishing point, and that is the fact that Marshall Plan aid to Britain has been held to a much lower figure than was generally believed by the public. This low figure has been achieved in spite of many abuses of the Marshall Plan by American industries, who have sometimes used it to force the sale of unwanted luxury goods on Britain at the expense of the American taxpayer. A Communication

No Room In The U. N. For Communist China

By Count N. de Rochefort
Graduate School, Georgetown University

THE intervention of Chinese Communist armed forces in the Korean war has radically modified the facts in the case for the admission into the United Nations of the Chinese Communist government. There can be no question of its admission as long as the intervention continues. Any discussion of Communist China's entry into the U.N. must be adjourned until that government—or alleged government—will submit to the rules established by the Charter and respect the decision of U.N. organs.

Whether or not Chinese Communist intervention is open and official, or covert and screened, is not important. It is enough that regiments of Chinese Communists are fighting in Korea. Prior to any consideration of the Chinese Communist request, the Peiping government must, through a formal declaration, accept all the decisions taken by the General Assembly and the Security Council. It goes without saying a candidate for admission to any organization accepts, by his very candidacy, the entire situation of that organization.

What are the facts of the case? The Security Council has condemned the Communist aggression in Korea, and expressly commissioned the United States to put a stop to that act of international piracy. The Security Council has urged the other members of the U. N. to do all in their power to support the common effort. The General Assembly has implicitly given a mandate to the U.N. commander, General MacArthur, to bring peace to all of Korea.

Hence any member of the U.N. which opposes the execution of the mandate given the United States by the Security Council commits an act of insubordination and revolt against international law—which is the case of Russia. Hence also any government not a member of the U. N which presumes to ignore, and worse, to combat that law, should be excluded from its benefits.

Russia and Communist China refuse to recognize the decisions of the Security Council and the General Assembly of the U. N., under the pretext of contesting their legality. Previously, Russia used that pretext, for an entire month, to obstruct the proceedings of the Council. To permit subjects of a law so to contest it is to ensure permanent anarchy.

The objective of the United Nations is precisely to form an organized international society, wherein law shall replace the arbitrary rule of force. But Soviet Russia today boldly ignores international law when it so pleases her. She pretends that it is sufficient for her to declare a law illegal in order for her to refuse to obey it.

Communist China follows Russia in this entirely untenable doctrine. For when the troops of the United Nations crossed the thirty-eighth parallel with United Nations approval, Communist China, instead of accepting the United Nations decision, proffered open threat. Now she is aiding the rebels against international law. In so doing she is violating the Charter, the fundamental law of the organization to which she claims admission. One can easily imagine her insolent and insubordinate attitude once she was admitted to the United Nations.

The United Nations Charter gave the responsibility for assuring that peace to the Security Council, and provided it with a special technique for carrying out this function. The Republic of Korea was attacked; its peace and security violated by the de facto state of North Korea, openly sponsored by the USSR.

Just previously, Russia had refused to recognize the authority of the United Nations by refusing to allow a United Nations commission to enter North Korea. In conformity with its rights and duties, the United Nations Security Council condemned the aggression of North Korea and took steps to repel the invaders. The USSR disputed the legality of this decision, on the grounds that when the decision was made, the Russian delegation was not present, nor was Communist China represented.

Nothing in the Charter of the U. N. vitiates a decision made in the voluntary absence of one member, much less that of a nonmember. Admission of the Russian claim would paralyze all U. N. action forever. A member disagreeing with a particular decision—and every aggressor would naturally be opposed to its own condemnation—need only declare it illegal in order to block its execution. In this wise might a convicted thief reply to the judge: "I find your decision illegal; I must refuse to go to prison."

THIS in itself, with respect to Russia, is scandalous pretense; it reflects accurately the usual totalitarian methods. But what is worse—and this is the second fact of the case—the government of Communist China itself clearly demonstrates its disregard for the law of the U. N., by openly siding with those who are violating it, namely North Korea.

The only possible reply to this attitude is that there is no room in the U. N. for Communist China. Even mere discussion of the matter should not be considered (1) as long as one Chinese soldier remains in the ranks of the North Korean Communists, and (2) as long as the government of Communist China refuses to make solemn, public avowal of its intention to respect both the previous and the future decisions of the U. N.

The association of Communist China with the Communist aggression in Korea has created a new fact, which not only permits, but compels the U. N. members to revise their entire attitude towards the entry of Communist China, under any conditions. For the member nations, this is an obligation of common sense, and of loyalty to the U. N. Organization. If enough of them should fail in this duty, and vote to permit the entry of Communist China, then the United States should use its veto for once, as well as any procedural technique it may choose, to prevent admission into the U. N. of a government that is the accomplice of international outlaws and aggressors. The place of a criminal is not among the judges, nor among his victims.

Roosevelt Letters Discuss His 1932 Cabinet Plans

own life in the act or not. Most of the crazy ones can be spotted first."

There is no question but that you must take extra precautions about admittance to the galleries, both of the House and Senate—I know you will do that.

I do hope you and Mrs. Garner will be able to come on within the next two or three weeks to stay with us.

As ever yours,

Congressman Frear had become alarmed over the safety of the House and Senate following hostile demonstrations by veterans and farmers, who, in his and Garner's opinion, were controlled by Communists. Shortly after this letter was written the attempt on FDR's life was made, in which Zangara failed to harm FDR but did kill Mayor Cermak of Chicago.

F.D.R. to Frederic A. Delano in Washington:

ALBANY,
DEC. 23, 1932.

Dear Uncle Fred:

The tiger skin which you gave me when we moved up here has been rather ill-used and I am taking the liberty of sending it down to you. Would you send it to someone to be repaired and to be kept until we move into the White House and then it will be already for me to step out on again? And the bill can go to the White House too—perhaps H. H. will pay it by mistake.

Your affectionate nephew,

F.D.R. to Herbert Hoover at the White House:

NEW YORK CITY,
JAN. 4, 1933.

My dear Mr. President:

I should much like to have the privilege of discussing with the Secretary of State certain matters relating to the State Department. It would be of great assistance to me to obtain first hand information on these matters from him.

I hope that you will have no objection to his coming to see me some day at his convenience, —especially if this could be arranged before I go down to Warm Springs two weeks from now.

Very sincerely yours,

At the suggestion of FDR, Felix Frankfurter, then professor of law at Harvard, undertook to arrange a meeting between the President-elect and Hoover's Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson. Stimson discussed the matter with Hoover, who agreed to let him go up to Hyde Park provided FDR were to ask Hoover first. As a result, the above letter was written.

Stimson went to Hyde Park on January 9th and spent several hours with FDR, covering such matters as disarmament, war debts, the coming World Economic Conference, and the administration's Far Eastern policy.

F.D.R. to Frances Perkins in New York:

ALBANY,
DEC. 31, 1932.

Dear Frances:

Thank you for that awfully nice letter of Christmas Greetings. You are quite right in all that you say, and my hope is that I can accomplish something worthwhile for the man at the foot of the ladder.

This is my last day as Governor of the State. I shall see you at dinner but please let me take this opportunity of telling you how grateful I am for the fine work you have done these four years. I know of the difficulties you have met and the fine way in which you have handled them, and always with your mind set on doing the most good for the greatest number. I know you too must have a tremendous feeling of satisfaction in what you have accomplished.

You know my best wishes go to you for the New Year.

Always sincerely yours,

FDR subsequently invited Frances Perkins to serve as Secretary of Labor in his Cabinet. In doing so he brushed aside objections which she herself raised in the following letter to him.

Frances Perkins to F.D.R.:

NEW YORK CITY,
FEB. 1, 1933.

Dear FDR:

You are quoted as saying that the newspaper predictions on Cabinet posts are 80 percent wrong. I wrote to say that what they've been printing about me is among the 80 percent of incorrect items.

I've had my "kick" out of the gratifying letters etc. but for your own sake and that of the United States of America, I think that someone straight from the ranks of some group of organized workers should be appointed—to establish firmly the principle that labor is in the President's councils. John Frey of the Moulders Union or Ed. McGrady—Legislative Agent of the AFL are really first class people and would be a help to you and keep you realistically closely aware of the fundamental needs and aspirations of the workers. Administration is relatively unimportant in the Labor Department.

I do beg you to think of the future importance of maintaining that principle. Whatever I might furnish in the way of ideas, etc. are yours at any time and ad. lib. without the necessity of appointing me to anything. I think you know that.

I have read the newspaper reports and comments about me with growing consternation. Perhaps this consternation was unnecessary but I decided to forget manners and write you honestly —that my opinion is against the idea.

I am not even thinking of the many grave personal difficulties for me—although they might seriously impair my usefulness to you—but am offering this advice for the real advantage of your administration and for the permanent improvement of the status of labor in this country.

Faithfully your friend,
FRANCES PERKINS.

F.D.R. to George H. Dern in Salt Lake City:

WARM SPRINGS,
FEB. 2, 1933.

Dear George:

I am struggling with the Cabinet, and though I cannot as yet tell you the exact position I want you to fit into I can at least make it possible for you and Mrs. Dern to make your plans. In other words, I want you as a part of my official family, not only because of my personal affection for you but also because I am very certain that the Country needs your fine idealism and your commonsense ability.

I hope you will make plans to arrive in the East about the 27th or 28th of February. I shall be in New York at that time and shall want to talk matters over with you.

Be sure to keep this in strict confidence between yourself and Mrs. Dern.

Eleanor and I look forward greatly to seeing you both.

Very sincerely yours,

George H. Dern, long-time Governor of Utah, had been an early supporter of FDR for the presidency. The two had become good friends through the annual Governors' Conference. Dern had organized support in the mountain States for a Roosevelt-Dern ticket and had given way gracefuly when the vice-presidential place went to Garner.

F.D.R. to Charles E. Cropley in Washington:

NEW YORK CITY,
FEB. 25, 1933.

My dear Mr. Cropley:

The procedure which you indicate in your letter of February 20th is entirely satisfactory. The question has been raised as to whether it would be better for me to repeat the oath after the Chief Justice instead of answering "I do!" Will you be good enough to talk this over with the Chief Justice and tell him I have no particular preference in the matter, and will abide by his judgment.

I will swear to the oath of office, and I think it is best that my three names be used.

I expect to bring with me from here our old family Bible in Dutch on which I have twice taken the oath as Governor of New York. This book is a very large and heavy folio. If you would be good enough to stop at the Mayflower Hotel on Friday, March 3rd, I will deliver it into your keeping and mark the passage.

Would you be good enough to give the inclosed to my old friend the Chief Justice?

Very sincerely yours,

The old Dutch Bible on which FDR wished to take his oath of office had been in the possession of his family for nearly three hundred years. For his first inauguration as President, FDR selected the 13th Chapter of the First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians as the place to which the book would be opened and on which he would place his hand.

10 Composers Work Heard In Recital

By Paul Hume

Margo Sederholm, soprano, assisted by Anthony Chanaka, pianists, presented a song recital in Phillips Gallery last night.

Ten composers were listed in a concert drawn largely from the present century. Miss Sederholm's native Finland opened and closed the evening in songs by Melartin and Sibelius.

Arias from Monteverde's Arianne, and Giordano's Andrea Chenier shared honors with Lieder by Mozart and Brahms. One of the most fascinating titles we have seen in years was: Ternura—Incantation Song of the Taurepanes Indians to Appease the Malaria Gods. It was a good thing the title was given. From the familiarly romantic tinge of the song, I would never have guessed the truth.

Among the American songs, John Alden Carpenter's setting of Tagore's The Day Is No More won the most praise. It was well sung and created the mood of both poem and music.

Most of the time it was difficult to follow either vocal line or musical style because of the singer's inability to sustain tones steadily. Her feeling for music is strong but undisciplined; rhythms were rushed in classic moments by Monteverde. The Mozart song was repeated, though the reason for the repetition was not clear. It was beyond the singer both times.

Miss Sederholm has often given pleasure in past recitals, particularly in her account of the simpler music of Scandinavian countries. With the wealth of songs from those musical lands, she might well devote herself to making known much music other singers find difficult to project.

Dentists to Discuss Plastic Fillings

A symposium on "Direct Plastic Filling Material" will be held by the District Dental Society at a meeting today, 8 p. m., at the Shoreham Hotel.

Members of the panel will include: H. J. Caul and D. L. Smith, research associates of the American Dental Association at the Bureau of Standards; Cmdr. R. B. Wolcott, U.S.N., and D. George C. Paffenbarger, senior research associate of the American Dental Association at the Bureau of Standards.

Error Cuts Off Water Supply in Arlington

The Aurora Hills and Virginia Highlands sections of Arlington were without water yesterday from 8:30 to 9:45 a. m. when workmen checking water valves in the Pentagon building's water system —which supplies the two areas— inadvertently cut off their supply.

Arlington water officials said it was the third time in a week the error had affected the two sections.

Cut Ordered In Aluminum

the CIO, has been particularly agitated over this prospect, just as union leaders were early in the defense program eight and nine years ago.

Most economists, however, believe such fears unfounded. They think that even if a company has a period of reduced operations through lack of materials, it will cling to its employes for dear life, forseeing much military production work in the future and an ever-tightening labor supply.

Yesterday's order, though long expected, was somewhat tougher than the forecast for it had been. It means that large consumers of aluminum must scurry between now and the first of the year to develop the use of substitute materials in their products.

Harrison declined to estimate how extensively that could be done. It was obvious, he pointed out, that in certain products substitutes would be easy to find, but that for others no replacement is easy to devise.

The ruling does not apply, of course, to defense production, done under priority orders. Neither is it applicable to users who consume less than 1000 pounds of the metal a year. The metal that could be saved by imposing the cutback on those "little fellows" would not be worth the trouble of administration.

Aluminum used for maintenance and repairs is not curtailed, but the users in the future cannot exceed their rate of consumption during the base period set.

That period, against which the 35 percent cutback is applicable, is the first six months of 1950.

Harrison pointed out that in the final analysis, it is not his order that takes away aluminum from nonmilitary users—"defense needs do that." More than 30 percent of the available aluminum supply, about one million tons a year, is needed for the already authorized defense program, he said.

Operators Say Lockout Exists

pany wants a two-year pact with a 16-month wage reopening clause.

Locally, the strike strategy was focused on two exchanges. Members of Local 96, CWA's Division 6, set up a line at the Dupont exchange, 14th and R sts. nw., at 6 a. m.

Harry Lentz, vice president of the local, said operators stayed out a half hour until the line was withdrawn. A spokesman for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. said there was no delay in service at the exchange.

The next target was the Woodley-Emerson exchange, 4268 Wisconsin ave. nw., where 15 to 20 pickets stayed most of the day, Lentz said. He said the line dissuaded all operators from going to work. The company reported supervisors quickly filled in.

Another 20 pickets continued before the Western Electric Co. building at 113 N. Capitol st., working headquarters for the 310 striking equipment workers here.

It was the "hit-run" strategy that led to the lockout charges. In New York, the CWA spokesmen said 1300 operators said they had been told to leave the long distance center after they said they would continue to respect picket lines.

In New York, the company attacked the charges in a statement which declared:

"We are glad to have our employes back if they sincerely wish to help us do the job. Before disrupting the team that has done such a splendid job of giving service to the public during the past several days, we merely wish to know that the returning people are prepared to meet this need."

Civil Service Changes Made rules to cover appointments to their jobs.

A Civil Service official last night said he looked for many scientists, FBI agents, doctors, and key administrative officials to be given permanent appointments after December 1.

The President's order requiring grade promotions, inter-agency transfers and reinstatements to be made on a temporary basis retroactive to September 1 merely confirms the Whitten rider which was approved by Congress and which required those personnel actions to be made on a temporary basis on and after that date. However, the President's order gives agency heads the discretion to make reassignments on either a permanent or temporary basis.

In granting reemployment rights, the President directed the Commissio to issue regulations limiting the right to reemployment of an individual to employment in the last position he occupied on a permanent basis or in one of equal seniority, status, and pay. However, reemployment can be provided to temporory jobs of higher grade and salary.

Persons given temporary appointments won't be covered by the Civil Service retirement system unless they are eligible for retirement benefits "by continuity of service or by reinstatement, or otherwise."

OF BOOKS AND BRENTANO'S

It is rather astonishing to see how many books whose subject is not man, but nature, are respectable sellers today. A renaissance of interest in "the simple things" has occured in the past decade. There are more bird-watchers around Maryland, more Sunday naturalists outside Alexandria, more petunia fanciers in the suburbs than the uncomplaining countryside has borne since grandfather's day . . . A popular book today, and perhaps the best work of its kind extant is MENABONI'S BIRDS ($10.00), a collection of the most beautiful bird portraits painted in this country since Audubon. Including only the best of Menaboni's incomparable work, the book captures the glorious color, detail and startling realism of the originals. There are 32 full-color pages, 13 black and white pages, numerous smaller illustrations, a charming commentary by Sara Menaboni, the author's wife, and ornithological details . . . The John Kieran has written a fine big book for novice bird-lovers. AN INTRODUCTION TO BIRDS (2.50) has 100 full-color bird pictures. All in all, it's a tremendously enjoyable introduction to the common North American birds by a gentleman who obviously knows . . . At last America may really know its neglected trees. A NATURAL HISTORY OF TREES ($5.00) is Donald Culross Peattie's labor of love, describing and picturing the trees of the continent. Fascinating historical lore and good non-technical talk make it intriguing reading for expert or browser. Browse through it yourself and notice yourself noticing trees when next you stroll down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Sergt. Bowers' Problems Have Been Uniform For Eight Years at Police Headquarters

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

One of the current problems at police headquarters is the outfitting of over 300 police rookies.

The policeman whose head aches the most trying to do this is Sergt. Joseph F. Bowers, in charge of the uniform and equipment division. Bowers has been issuing clothes for the past eight years but trying to make a size 38 pants fit a 32 waist has not been easy.

The new men are being clothed from equipment turned in by retiring policemen—and the retiring policemen haven't exactly been thin. Sometime between the date they entered the Police Department, when they had to conform to specific weight and physical requirements, and the time they left an average of 30 years—they attained a girth. The new policemen are trim and as a result Harold L. Hines, 1016 18th st. nw., official tailor for the department, has been doing a land-office business.

An emergency call for clothing has gone out. More than two hundred detectives outfitted in previous years and in plain clothes now—have been ordered to turn in their uniforms. Precinct Station clerks have been told to return their blouses, and special duty policemen their extra equipment.

As it is, the new policemen are not getting a complete outfit. Each is receiving a uniform that has been turned in, and is measured for a complete summer and winter suit. There is a two-month wait for the new uniforms.

Eventually each policeman will be issued enough clothes to provide a wardrobe of four summer and three winter uniforms. The winter outfit consists of a long overcoat, a half overcoat, winter trousers, sweater and serge cap. The summer ensemble comprises a blouse, six shirts, trousers, tropical cap, rubber coat, knee boots and cap cover.

Bowers has a reputation of being able to look a policeman over—go back to the storeroom and come out with a uniform that will fit the new man. However, he hasn't been doing so well lately.

"The new crop is smaller-waisted and bigger-shouldered," the sergeant complains. "They must be all ex-football players."

Bowers came to the clothing department from the Traffic Division, after being struck by an auto while directing traffic in December, 1941. After five months in the hospital he returned to work, but because of his leg injury was given an inside job.

Twice a year Bowers and other members of the uniform and equipment division, under the supervision of Inspector George E. Wallrodt, have a clothing inspection for the entire police personnel.

Men having clothing or equipment that is worn out are ordered to bring it in at a specified time. After examination, if the article cannot be repaired, Bower takes an order for the replacement of the item.

Bowers, who is 52 and lives with his wife Etta at 524 13th st. ne., has been a policeman since July, 1924. Looking at the brighter side of things, he thinks the situation could be worse.

"Those old uniforms could have been too small instead of too large," he comments, "and then what would I do!"

First Angola Cleric to Visit America Will Preach Here

The first clergyman to visit America from the Angola Churches of West Africa will address the First Congregational Church assemble at 10th and G sts. nw. Thursday at 7 p. m.

Pastor Jesse Chipenda of Angola, South Africa, recently returned from the World Religious Council of Churches meeting in Toronto, Canada, is also scheduled to speak at the Plymouth Congregational Church at 8 p. m. Friday, Greenbelt Community Church at 11 a. m. Sunday and Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 6:15 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Harriet Summerville of the American Board Missionary at Means School, Donbi, Africa, will act as interpreter.

Census to Tab Part-Time Workers Here

Information on the number of part-time workers available for full-time employment will be garnered in the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey, under way this month.

District Supervisor R. W. Rensing said that during the month, a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the country, including many in the Washington area, will be interviewed to get up-to-date information on employment.

In August interviews, the bureau learned that about 1¼ million persons with jobs which normally provide full-time work were working only part-time because of slack work and other economic factors.

In addition, about 5½ million persons in the August labor force were working at part-time jobs on short hours either from choice or because of home or other responsibilities.

The September survey showed that employment was highest on record for that time of year, Rensing said. Employment during that month was estimated at 61.2 million, two million higher than in September, 1949.

Locally, the November survey will be conducted this week.

Historical Society To Hear Lecture

An illustrated lecture on American building and home interiors of 1800, the year in which Washington was established as the National Capital, will be given by Mrs. Agatha Fries Stoff at a Columbia Historical Society meeting tonight.

The program, which will be held at 8 p. m. at the Lincoln Museum, 511 10th st. nw., also will include a discussion of the new Lincoln papers made public by the Library of Congress.

Ex-Senator Will Address Trade Board

Albert W. Hawkes, prominent businessman and former United States Senator, will speak at the Washington Board of Trade's third membership meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Hotel Mayflower.

Hawkes

Hawkes' subject will be "The Interpretation of the Election by Businessmen."

Also on the program will be members of George Washington and Georgetown Universities' football teams. They will discuss the traditional football battle between the rival schools, scheduled to be played November 25.

Hawkes was president of the United States Chamber of Commerce in 1941-1942, and is a director now. He served as a Senator from New Jersey from 1943 to 1949.

At present he is chairman of the board of Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., Kearny, N. J.; president, Congoleum Canada, Ltd.; director of Michael Nairn & Greenwich, Ltd., London, Eng., and of Standard Brands, Inc.; director and member of the executive committee, Technicolor, Inc., and Technicolor Motion Picture Corp.

Wisconsin U. Alumni To Dine on Wednesday

The Washington area chapter of the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association will open its fall season with a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m., Wednesday in the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw.

Principal speaker will be A. John Berge, executive secretary of the school's national alumni association. All Wisconsin alumni are invited.

GHI Open To Selected Individuals

Group Hospitalization, Inc., Washington's Blue Cross plan for hospitalization insurance, is now available to individual subscribers, it has been announced.

The 16-year-old, non profit corporation previously enrolled subscribers only on a group basis in organizations employing five or more persons.

Now, said Joseph H. Himes, GHI President, individual enrollment is available to the self-employed, professional men and women, students, household employes, and thousands of others, including those who work where fewer than five persons are employed.

More than 455,000 persons in the Washington area are protected against hospital care costs by GHI policies, he said.

Himes said that the individual (non-group) enrollment was authorized by trustees of GHI "in recognition of the need of protection by many persons the plan heretofore has not been able to serve." Applications from these, he added, are now being accepted.

The first customer under the individual subscription plan was Mrs. May Craig, Washington correspondent for New England newspapers, who applied for subscription while details of the plan were still being worked out.

Commenting on the new service, Himes declared:

"Although we have long realized that a large number of persons were unable to comply with group enrollment requirements, in our judgement it was not feasible to offer non-group enrollment till now.

"I was delighted when our board of trustees decided that the time to proceed had arrived, and I am sure the new program will assist thousands who may now participate in the plan."

Six Meetings For Defense Wardens Set

Six divisions of the Civil Defense warden service will hold organizational meetings Saturday at 8 p. m., Max C. Schwartz, chief warden, announced yesterday.

Fraternal, veterans, citizens and church organizations are urged to send three representatives to participate in laying the groundwork, he said.

At a previous meeting, plans were started for providing first aid and fire-fighting training, air-raid and evacuation precautions and measures.

On Saturday the six divisions will start organizing into 10 or more areas with fixed boundaries. Nominations for head wardens will be forwarded to warden headquarters in the National Guard Armory.

Representatives from warden headquarters will conduct meetings to be held simultaneously at 8 p. m. in the following places: Division A—Police Precincts 1, 3, 4 in the Board room, District Building; Division B—Police Precincts 2, 10, 13 in the Recreation Building, 3149 16th st. nw.; Division C—Police Precincts 5, 9 in the Northeast Branch Public Library, 7th st. and Maryland ave., ne.; Division D—Police Precincts 7, 8 in the Georgetown Public Library, Wisconsin ave. and R st. nw., Division F—Police Precincts 11, 14 in Anacostia Field House, Anacostia.

Dr. Hart to Lecture Thursday at Library

"The Artist and Our Catholic Faith" will be discussed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Hart, professor of philosophy, Catholic University, at the Study Guild Catholic Library, 1725 Rhode Island ave. nw. at 8:15 p. m. Thursday.

It is the second lecture in a monthly series. The public is invited.

5 Escaped Convicts Caught

Five of seven prisoners, including a "notorious" Alexandria and Washington burglar, who cut their way out of a Virginia camp Sunday, were caught sleeping last night in a hayrick near Tazewell, Va.

Among those recaptured was John Kelly, 24, who was convicted in Alexandria last March 9 on two housebreaking charges and given a seven-year sentence.

Police said then that Kelly had been operating in a gang of housebreakers in both Washington and nearby Virginia. His address was given at 1226 N st. nw.

Also recaptured were Clel Hunley, 21, serving time for robbery in Scott County; George Gilley, 21, of Big Stone Gap, serving on a Wise County conviction of grand larceny; Bobby Smith, 21, convicted of housebreaking and larceny in Pulaski; and Charles F. Duff, 18, Route 2, Staunton, convicted of housebreaking and larceny in Staunton.

Still at large were Olen Garrett, 21, Norfolk, serving time for store breaking, and Lefler Wyrick, 33, sentenced from Bland for attempted rape.

The seven cut a hole in their cell and escaped from highway road camp No. 24 at Chatham Hill. Police said the five caught asleep surrendered without resistance. They were lodged in the Taxewell County jail pending their return to Chatham Hill.

Dental Aides to Meet

The D. C. Dental Assistant Society will hold its regular meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Rothstein Auditorium, 1722 I st. nw. when James Anderson of the Rothstein Dental Society will present a clinic, "Neglected Factors in Prosthetics."

2 New Health Councils Named

Creation of two new advisory councils to the United States Public Health Service, and membership appointments to all such councils, now numbering seven, were announced here yesterday.

The appointments include selection of Dr. John A. Reed of this city to the new National Advisory Dental Research Council.

Dr. Reed, assistant clinical professor of medicine at George Washington University School of Medicine, is national chairman of the current 1950 diabetes detection drive and secretary of the American Diabetes Association.

Davis is director and managing editor of Science Service, director and secretary of the Science News Letter, president of the American Documentation Institute, editor of Chemistry and director of the Science News Clubs.

The second new council, formation of which was announced yesterday, is the National Advisory Council on Neurological Diseases and Blindness. On the 12-member council is W. Kuhn Barnett, educator, of Richmond, Va., who serves on the Virginia State rehabilitation program.

A major function of the councils is to advise the Surgeon General of USPHS on the distribution of public funds to non-Federal institutions, ni both research and teaching projects. The other councils include health, cancer, heart and mental health.

We believe that something has happened in 1950 that you should take to heart.

Ever since this year's Buicks were introduced, their big bulge in sales has come from people who traded other makes of cars for this bounteous beauty.

The total is more than 200,000.

That's 200,000 "freshmen" added to the roll call of Buick owners—200,000 people who must have sized up the current version of the cars they owned, and decided that Buick offered more thrill, more comfort, more satisfaction for the money.

Beyond that, of course, there were other hundreds of thousands who already owned a Buick and bought a new one this year. But we're speaking here of new owners only.

We can name many reasons for this landslide—including Fireball power—an incomparable ride—and Dynaflow Drive.*

We can remind you that the Buick SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER just about blanket the range of a car-owner's aspirations—matching prices with many sixes in the lower brackets—matching distinction with the finest in the fine-car field.

We might add that Buick prices are doubly attractive—since their list prices include many features customarily on the "extra" list.

But why try to spell out all the reasons Buick wins in a showdown comparison? The proof of the pudding is in this great car itself. Better come in—look it over—and find out what an unbeatable buy it is.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Josephine Hull Tells on Elwood

By Richard L. Coe

WHO, WHAT, WHERE: Josephine Hull, the Radcliffe girl who didn't hit her stride until middle age and comic genius overtook her, has a big year ahead . . . She's about to burst across the Nation's screen in her stage role as Elwood P. Dowd's sister in "Harvey" and up in Philadelphia this week she is starring in a promising new comedy by Sam Spewack, "The Golden State." . . . In this one she has the part of a San Francisco boarding house ma'am who labors under the happy delusion that by right of her family inheritance she's the lawful owner of the city by the Golden Gate . . . Josephine played stock for years, learned how to get laughs the hard way and her remarks about the men who've played the bunny-seeing fellow in "Harvey" are amusing, since during the long run she never once was quoted about such fellows as Frank Fay, who created the part, Jimmy Stewart, star of the film, Bert Wheeler, Joe E. Brown, James Dunn, Jack Buchanan and the late Brock Pemberton, who acted the role once in his New York production . . . "Jimmy Stewart," Miss Hull observes," can do more with a subtle lifting of his left eyebrow than most actors can do with their entire face. I've seen six men do the role. Some indicated Harvey with a grimace. One did it with his eyes and and another with his mouth. I think Jimmy will emerge as the most subtle of the actors who have had the tough but gratifying job of kidding an audience into believing that they, too, are seeing someone who isn't there." . . . Universal-International promises one certainty for the first Washington run: no rise in prices, though the New York run may be something else again.

"ALL ABOUT EVE" is setting the year's top marks at the Palace, where it begins to look as though "King Solomon's Mines" won't open Thanksgiving Day after all. "American Geuerilla in the Philippines" comes in first.

JULIA MARLOWE'S name meant little to even the middle-aged group of theatergoers, but her death in New York Sunday at the age of 85 must have stirred many . . . When she retired in 1924, she and her husband, Edward H. Sothern, had acted in Shakespearean drama, in the words of her biographer, Charles E. Russell, "a greater number of times than any other actress of her own period or of any other and had drawn to that drama a larger total audience than any other player had addressed in it" . . . No other player since has matched the career which started in 1883 in Cincinnati, whither her father, John Frost, had migrated from England, where his daughter Sarah Francis had been born . . . Since Sothern's death in 1933, Miss Marlowe had lived in seclusion in a momento-filled apartment at New York's Plaza . . . You'll see many of her costumes and props at the Folger Library.

SEATS FOR Judy Holliday's run in "Born Yesterday" went on sale yesterday at the Gayety.

DAVIS SNOW, the Government man who saw his "The Long Days" tried but this summer at Westport, will be seeing his play on Broadway this winter with Florence Reed in the role she created . . . Though it won't be flying the Guild banner, the Guild's current favorite director, Martin Manulis, will direct, with Hugh Reilly and Katherine Bard in other leads . . . There are now seven characters, and it's likely the Brattle Theater of Cambridge, Mass., will be the tune-up spot.

MARGARET PERRY, daughter of the late Antoinette—Harvey Perry—directed that performance of the Barter Theater last night in "The Comedy of Errors" at Arlington's Washington-Lee High.

PETER CONLOW, that immensely crisp dancer who does so well in the Gayety's "Lend an Ear," comes by his sharp precision naturally . . . His father runs a dancing school in Philadelphia and started the lad young . . . Peter's leaps in "I'm Not in Love" and his shy boy for "Friday Dancing Class" are top-bracket dancing as another of his dad's pupils, "Swankey," programmed for years of "Oklahoma!" as Dorothy Swain would vouch. . . . Nice going, Peter.

HARRISON HATHAWAY is directing the Montgomery Players for their first production of the fall, "My Sister Eileen." . . . The Bethesda-Chevy Chase branch of the American Association of University Women is sponsoring the production on the seventeenth as a benefit for its fellowship fund. . . . The stage will be that of Bethesda's Leland Jr. High.

MARJORIE MOFFETT, solo actress and author of "The One Woman Show," will be presented Friday night by the Charles Carroll Forum at the Mayflower . . . Miss Mofffett made her first strides toward her unusual craft during the war, when many of her sketches were aired to Germany and the occupied countries. . . . Her most noted number, "Marie Curie," will be on her program for her Washington debut.

TONIGHT: Mrs. Truman heads a distinguished audience at the Playhouse for Somerset Maugham's "Trio," a performance that will benefit the hospital drive of the American Theater Wing. . . . A full house is guaranteed, but the picture will open its regular run tomorrow morning.

THEDA, PEARL AND MARY: "Three Little Queens of the Silver Screen" sing Jenny Lou Law, Florence Lord and Gloria Evans in the song about the Misses Bara, White and Pickford a highlight of "Lend an Ear," the Gayety's current revue.

Catholic Students In Area to Make Two-Day Retreat

More than 4700 Catholic students from the District and nearby Maryland are expected to attend a religious retreat on Wednesday and Thursday.

In Washington, students from 42 schools will make their retreat at 18 church centers. In Montgomery, Prince George's, St. Mary's and Charles County, 34 schools will hold retreats in 18 church centers.

Eash day, pupils in public, junior, senior and vocational high schools will begin their activity by assisting at the holy sacrifice of the mass and then attend conferences and devotional activity.

Bus Hits Pillar; 28 Hurt

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (U.P.). — A bus loaded with rush-hour passengers slammed into a pillar in Queens today, injuring 28 persons, one seriously.

End to Sweet Dreams

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Five guests were forced to flee into the chilly night in sleeping clothes early today by a fire at their hotel. The Sweet Dreams Hotel was destroyed.

600 Pupils March To Safety as Fire Destroys School

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 13 (AP).—Five persons were injured slightly but 600 school children escaped safely as fire swept through the one-story frame Houston Gardens School building today.

The children thought they were taking part in a routine fire drill until they got outside the building and saw the flames and smoke. Flames shot 70 feet into the air. The building was destroyed.

After the students had been evacuated, an explosion shook the building. District Fire Chief S. E. Little said the blast blew Mrs. O. D. Couch, the principal, through a window. She suffered a sprained wrist.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Bierman Quits, Wilkinson May Get Minnesota Job

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ON THE ENTIRELY reasonable theory that his underlings could take his West Point team safely past New Mexico, which they did 51-0, Army Coach Earl Blaik popped up as a spectator at Baltimore last Saturday. He wanted to scout the Navy team, with which Army has a date on December 2.

At the day's end, Blaik could betake himself back to West Point quite content on two accounts (1) the anticipatory pleasure of meeting Navy and (2) with a sense of gratitude that Army doesn't have to play Tulane this year.

POVICH

The manner in which Tulane racked up Navy left some of the game's scholars confused. "How on earth did this Tulane team ever lose to Alabama and Notre Dame?" inquired a Columbia scout dispatched by Lou Little to tab Navy's style. "It's the only college team with a ghost of a chance of licking Army."

Tulane, with the biggest line seen on any college gridiron was indeed tremendous, literally and figuratively. They lost their good back, Ed Price, by graduation, and replaced him with five other good ones. Joe Shinn, the pass-catching end, revealed himself as the slickest faker since Don Hutson.

I HAVE a gamey taste, incidentally—from eating crow over the weekend after pointing out the unworthiness of Wisconsin as a probable Rose Bowl opponent for California on New Year's Day. It was set forth in this space last week that Wisconsin would get the nod for the Rose Bowl because of a schedule accident despite its apparent rank as the third-best team in the Big Ten.

Well, all that Wisconsin did was go out and beat the daylights out of tough Ohio State for most of the game before dropping a 19-14 decision after losing a pair of bold gambles on an upset. The Badgers never were awed by the Buckeyes. They may finish behind Ohio State in the Big Ten rankings, but they have qualified as a Rose Bowl attraction.

Pappy Waldorf's Golden Bears of California U. virtually assured their own presence in the Rose Bowl by dumping U. C. L. A., 35-0, in a game that was supposed to be their big test. My friend Frank Leahy, publicly picked that one as a UCLA upset victory, and I invite him out on the same limb where Wisconsin left this agent.

THE NEATEST trick of the weekend, however, was apparently pulled by canny Steve Owen of New York's pro football Giants, who had a whopping surprise waiting for the Chicago Cardinals in the Polo Grounds on Sunday. As a result, Owen's Giants won a 51-21 game and are within spitting distance of the division lead.

All season, the Giants had been scouted as a club without much attacking power, but the league's most competent on defense. Only twice in their first six games had they been able to score more than two touchdowns. Yet when the Cardinals moved into the Polo Grounds, they didn't recognize the Giants. Owen had pulled a switch. He junked his T-formation, let his lads operate from a single wing.

It confused the Cardinals completely, and the Giants broke out with the biggest scoring attack of the day in the pro league. Actually, it wasn't a brand new single wing but a reversion to the old A-formation Owen used in past years. The Cardinals had no defenses for it and took their worst beating in seasons.

FOR THE Redskins it is getting grim. Their mistakes cost them their sixth straight defeat a week ago, against the Giants. They couldn't blame their errors for the 33-0 lacing by the Eagles, unless it was their original error of showing up. They haven't won a game since their opener, against the Colts, and where their next win is coming from is uncertain.

With Harry Gilmer hurt and Sammy Baugh aged and ailing, the Redskins are a team without a quarterback. And only the quarterback can make a T-formation team move. For Coach Herman Ball, the tough item is that the lack of a q. b. will probably cost him his job. Losing coaches are not long for the pro league.

For the Redskins, the irony is that in a season when they have finally come up with a pair of running backs like Charlie Justice and Bill Dudley, they're hamstrung by inept quarterbacking and greenness in the line. All that good personnel the Redskins bosses were boasting about before the season started hasn't manifested itself. Obviously, they were kidding us—or themselves.

Yale vs. Princeton Tops Week's Games

UNBEATEN PRINCETON meets a good Yale team at New Haven Saturday in one of the Nation's top collegiate games this week.

Princeton has won seven without a defeat. Its victories include: 20-14, over Navy; 27-0, over Cornell; 63-26, over Harvard.

Yale has lost two games, to Cornell and Dartmouth, both by 7-0

The Yale-Princeton game is the one on which entrants in The Washington Post's football contest this week will select the Probable Score.

The winner of the contest will receive two tickets to the Duke-North Carolina game among the most colorful of the year, on November 25 at Chapel Hill.

Contest Rules

THE CONTEST each week will include 20 major college games. The contestant will select the winner (or tie) in each of these games. There will also be a twenty-first game for which the contestant must give the "Probable Score," to be considered by the contest judges only in case two or more persons tie on the first 20 games.

All entries must be in the hands of the Football Contest Editor not later than 9 p. m. Friday of each week. Entries should be left at the Service Counter in the lobby of The Washington Post Bldg., 1337 E St. N. W.

The person submitting the most accurate entry each week shall be declared the winner. In case of ties, all persons sharing in the tie will receive duplicate awards.

The decisions of the judges will be final.

Entries submitted must be legible, with the selections listed in the order they are announced in The Washington Post.

Entries may be handwritten or typewritten. However, carbon copies and mimeographed copies or copies made by any other duplicating machine will NOT be accepted. You may submit as many entries as you wish.

Meyer Still Has Job—at Least Until Wednesday

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13 (AP).—Billy Meyer—the luckless pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates—still has a job. But it's not guaranteed to last beyond Wednesday.

That was about the only definite information that came out of a three-hour meeting today between the veteran manager and his new boss, Branch Rickey.

Meyer came to Rickey's Forbes Field office from his home near Knoxville, Tenn., at the behest of the new Pittsburgh executive vice president.

The talks—which Rickey said probably will last two more days will determine whether the Pirates will keep Meyer for the remaining year of his contract or hand genial Billy $40,000 to tear up his pact.

Rickey parried all questions about a decision on Billy's status with:

"No decision yet."

Rickey said he has nobody under consideration as a replacement for Meyer. He added:

"That will be the situation until I complete my talks with Bill."

Rickey will lead a delegation of Buc brass to Cincinnati for the minor league draft meeting Thursday. On this he commented:

We (Meyer and Rickey) are talking over details of the draft situation now. Whether Meyer joins us in Cincinnati also will be determined."

Meyer beamed to newsmen friends in an anteroom following his meeting with Rickey. But he declined to comment about the talks. Despite his air of joviality, Meyer was visibly nervous.

The rumor mill—the same that has had Meyer on his way—began grinding out a new product.

"Meyer's got a 50-50 chance of staying."

Last week Lou Boudreau was let out as field boss of the Cleveland Indians. The Forbes Field prognosticators then decided he would come to Pittsburgh and Meyer would go to Indianapolis.

Lou Boudreau Will Become 'Free Agent'

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13 (AP).—Lou Boudreau, deposed manager of the Cleveland Indians, is going to be given his unconditional release—at his own request.

Club President Ellis Ryan said this means that Boudreau will be a free agent "in a little over a week from now."

This puts an entirely new slant on Cleveland's plans for Boudreau's future.

Although he was fired as manager, Lou still was the property of the Indians. Ryan said at the time the club was trying to arrange a major league manager job for Boudreau—or get him a play job.

"In taking this course," Ryan said in a statement, "the Indians have lost an opportunity to make a beneficial trade for Boudreau in the event that a new managerial post fails to materialze."

Redskins Ask Mont Be Reinstated

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

After counting able-bodied survivors from Sunday's 33-0 shellacking by the Philadelphia Eagles, the Redskins discovered they had only one quarterback left for their two backfield coaches to coach.

So they've requested permission from the other 12 National Football League coaches to restore Tommy Mont, an assistant coach, to the players' list.

Mont was a third-string Redskin quarterback from 1947 through 1949, but was elevated to the coaching staff this season. In order for him to suit up for Sunday's contest with the Browns in Cleveland, unanimous consent from the other league teams must be obtained.

"I hope they get it," Commissioner Bert Bell, who wired the 12 teams, said last night. "The Redskins are in bad shape."

Bell is so right on that score. Eleven Redskins, no less, were hurt Sunday. Sammy Baugh came down with a back misery that may keep him idle Sunday. Harry Gilmer reinjured his shoulder and Coach Herman Ball isn't counting on either for service against the Browns.

And Ball, courageous as he is, isn't courageous enough to go into the Browns' game with the team's attack in the hands of rookie Nick Sebek. Sebek threw three passes and completed two Sunday, both to the Eagles.

Hardy Brown, a seldom used defensive back, won't be used by the Redskins any more this season. Waivers were asked on him yesterday.

IN SHORT—The November 26 game between the Redskins and Baltimore Colts now shapes up as the most crucial of the season for both teams. . . . They have equal records, one victory and seven defeats, and the loser of their return game will likely finish last in the league and thus win first draft choice at the winter meetings. . . . If the Redskins maintain their present pace, seven lickings in a row, they are an odds on favorite to get first pick. . . . The Redskins haven't scored a point of any kind in five quarters now. . . . Regardless of how they fare in their next four games, the Redskins have no chance of competing in the President's Cup game.

1951 Game Probably in Cleveland

Navy, Notre Dame Say Breakoff Rumors False

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13 (AP). Navy and Notre Dame are going to keep on playing football, rumor to the contrary, both the athletic directors said today.

Capt. Howard Caldwell of Nany said the reoprts are "entirely unfounded" and the 1951 game will go on. He doesn't know just where yet.

Edward (Moose) Krause of Notre Dame said at South Bend, Ind., there was nothing to the rumor that the two teams had broken off after a series of 24 games. Krause said the 1951 game would be played in Cleveland.

The uncertainty over the location of the 1951 game comes from the fact that it cannot be said now whether the Baltimore Municipal Stadium will be finished.

Both athletic directors agreed there would be a game on November 3, 1951.

The two schools operate on a year-to-year contract basis and, customarily, switch between the East and Midwest, for their engagements. Notre Dame has won 20 of the 24 games played, the last on November 4 by a 19-10 score at Cleveland.

Caldwell and Krause both made statements after a Washington paper said that the Navy intended to end the series, just like Army did in 1947.

The Navy director said that "this information did not come from us. As far as we are concerned, it does not represent our position at all and there is nothing to it."

Mrs. Hayden Doesn't Mince Words About T-Club Meeting

Mrs. Byron T. Hayden, jr., called in yesterday about four home-made mince pies, the Interhigh Championship Football Game and the correct address of tonight's Alumni Circle T Club meeting.

It seems that Mrs. Hayden, jr., specially baked the pies for the executives of the T Club, McKinley Tech High's athletic monogram group, which meets tonight at her home.

A Washington Post story about the meeting said it would take place at the home of Byron T. Hayden, sr. "That won't do at all." said Mrs. Hayden, jr. "The pies will go to waste. Please tell the T Club executives that the meeting is at 1617 N. Springwood dr., Silver Spring, Md."

Purpose of the get-together is to complete plans for mass attendance of the Interhigh Championship Game the night of November 24 at Griffith Stadium by Tech's former sports greats. Tech will play in the big game, sponsored by The Washington Post, Touchdown Club and Board of Education. Tech's opponent will be Eastern or Anacostia.

Julian Keene Defeats Wright

Julian Keene, District light heavyweight, defeated Chubby Wright last night in the 10-round main event before 657 fight fans at Turner's Arena. Wright was a 7-5 prefight favorite. Keene won a split decision.

Keene fought hit-and-run, retreating rapidly all through the fight, baiting Wright with sharp flicking lefts.

In the sixth round, he began closing Wright's eyes. From then on in, he had little trouble staying away from Wright and outpointing him.

In two five-round semifinal bouts, Lightweight Roland Barksdale of Washington won a unanimous decision over Kenny Leach of Baltimore, and District Light Heavyweight Roland Randall got the nod over Rufus Berry of Washington.

In four-round preliminary bouts Welterweight Kid Toy decisioned Charley Turner, Clarence Hinnant knocked out Middleweight Young Satan in two minutes 50 seconds of the fourth round and Welterweight Jimmy Sewell decisioned Paddy Bullock. All are local fighters.

All-America in '80s

Princeton's Poe Tells Touchdown Club How 'Long-Haired' Boys Played Football

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

If an old-time football player of the 1880s suddenly were put on a gridiron today, he would find the game changed so much that he would hardly recognize it.

That's the opinion of Edgar Allan Poe, captain of Walter Camp's first All-America team. As a 133-pound quarterback for the Princeton teams of 1888, '89 and '90, Poe was recognized as the greatest player of the day.

A whole generation of schoolboys thrilled to his exploits in a series of "Poe of Princeton" books.

Poe was principal speaker of the Touchdown Club's weekly luncheon yesterday honoring the high, prep and college players of the week.

"In those days the ball was put into play by a player known as the center rush, who kicked the ball backward with his foot," Poe recalled. "The ball went back to the quarterback, who had to handle it before any other player could run with it."

"The center rush stood with one foot on the ground and one foot on top of the ball. On signal from the quarterback, he kicked the ball behind him. The quarterback, standing a foot or two behind center, grabbed the ball and tossed it off to whoever was going to run with it. The backward kick from center was eliminated in the early 1890s.

"The quarterback had a novel method of calling signals, at least by our standards. When he wanted the ball snapped, he pinched the center rush, who would give it a backward kick.

"In those days the ball was bigger, about the size of a small watermelon. There weren't any forward passes, any coaches, any stadiums, the spiral punt hadn't been invented, and the scoring was different.

"Running the ball over the goal scored four points, the goal after touchdown two, and a drop-kick field goal was best of all, good for five points.

"It took a gain of five yards to get a first down in three plays, then," Poe said. "The rules were more lax, too. A player wasn't down until he was stopped. If he could crawl a yard or two after he was tackled, that was good.

"On the other hand, if the opposition grabbed him and started carrying him backward, he lost ground until he yelled 'down.'

"One more thing," Poe continued, "we didn't have any helmets. We let our hair grow during football season for protection. I don't know of a single football player who got a haircut during the playing season."

Caps, 2 Wins 4 Losses, Play Knicks Here

The Caps meet up with a team tonight at Uline Arena that's having even more trouble trying to win NBA games, the New York Knickerbockers.

The Knicks' 1-4 record isn't calculated to make excitable Joe Lapchick remain glued to the bench. Washington, with only two victories in six starts, is out to break its latest two-game losing streak.

Red Auerbach's Boston Celtics edged them here Saturday night 78-77, and Fort Wayne won Sunday 87-73.

Tonight will mark the last appearance for Earl Lloyd one of the Caps' brightest new stars. The Alexandrian from Parker-Gray High and West Virginia State goes into the Army Thursday morning.

Halftime ceremonies will mark Lloyd's departure. The 6-foot-5, 215-pounder scored only 35 points in his six-game pro career but was a standout on defense and rebounds.

New York, victors in seven of eight games with Washington last season comes here with two valuable new additions. Max Zaslofsky, all-league choice with the Chicago Stags for four years, and Nat (Sweetwater) Clifton, former Harlem Globetrotter, are the clever performers.

The Knicks also have Connie Simmons, Dick McGuire, George Kaftan, Goebel Ritter Vince Boryla, Gene James, Ray Lumpp.

Colts Sign Brown, Release Rex Grossman

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13 (AP).—The Baltimore Colts of the National Football league announced today they had picked up Harry Brown, a linebacker who had been put out on a waiver by the Washington Redskins.

To make room for Brown, the Colts dropped Rex Grossman, defensive center and extra-point kicker.

Bernie Will Finish Out Year, Worst For Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Tight-lipped Bernie Bierman used 20 words today to end a University of Minnesota football coaching dynasty he spent almost 20 years building.

"I have requested that I be relieved of the football coaching duties at Minnesota at the end of the year," said terse Bierman's announcement.

Thus did the nationally famous "Grey Eagle" stun the Golden Gopher fans, both his supportesr and the wolves who have been howling for just such action.

The 57-year-old grid perfectionist, who had won four National championships and sx Big Ten conference crowns since coming to Minnesota in 1932, resigned two day safter his 1950 squad had established Minnesota's worst season record of all times.

In 1920 the Gophers lost six games and won one. This year they have lost six and tied only Michigan. Purdue and Wisconsin remain to be played. It was even money here the Gophers would lose both for their first winless season.

Immediately speculation arose as to Bierman's successor, whom Athletic Director Ike Armstrong said would not be considered until the season ends.

James Mentioned

First there was a report that Coach Lefty James of Cornell had been offered the job several weeks ago. Armstrong denied it "emphatically."

A "natural" for the reported $12,500 per year job was Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, a Bierman protege whose Sooners have the longest winning streak in the country. Sources close to Wilkinson, however, contended Bud would stick with Oklahoma, a State fast with the dollar for a winning coach.

Bierman, who said he had no future plans but who had received many offers since coming to Minnesota, officially still will be a full professor of physical education at a reported $7500 annually.

It was believed, however, he would seek another spot with football coaching responsibilities even though University President J. L. Morrill and Armstrong said they hoped he would remain here "in another capacity."

Others mentioned for Bierman's job were Win Brockemeyer, of Wausau, Wis., High School; Biggie Munn of Michigan State, and Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

The white-thatched Bierman decided only last night to lay down his Minnesota responsibilities. He said it was "a hard decision."

Players Praise Him

Things have been tough in Minnesota football since the war," he commented. Bierman had said previously he would not have returned to Minnesota from the Marines in 1948 had he known what was in store.

Downtown cries for Bierman's resignation increased gradually since the war until, after the Northwestern loss this year, someone painted "Goodbye, Bernie" signs on Memorial Stadium. Last year there was a movement to push Bierman into the atheltic directorship vacated by Frank McCormick after Bernie had failed to produce a Conference champion.

Minnesota, under Bierman, won National championships in 1935, 1936, 1940 and 1941. Bierman-coached teams led the Associated Press National poll in 1936, 1940 and 1941.

Since coming to Minnesota in 1932 to succeed Fritz Crisler, now Michigan athletic director, Bierman teams have won 92 games, lost 34 and tied six.

Bierman teams also have won six Western Conference championships (1934, 1935, 1937, 1938, 1940, 1941) and have had five unbeaten years (1933, 1934, 1935, 1940 and 1941).

Two long undefeated strings were built: 21 straight (1933-1936) and 17 in a row (1939-1941).

Bud Wilkinson Says 'Great Loss to School'

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 13 (AP). Oklahoma Football Coach Bud Wilkinson said today the resignation of Bernie Bierman as Minnesota coach was a great loss to the school.

He said Bierman was one of the top coaches in the country and it was unfortunate he had no material.

It had been reported Wilkinson might succeed Bierman.

However, Wilkinson said he had received no offers from Minnesota and had no comment on any such move.

Anacostia, Western Play On Thursday

The Interhigh Football League yesterday reset its Anacostia-Western game for Thursday to allow for a special playoff if Anacostia and Eastern wind up in a tie for the Group I championship.

An Eastern-Anacostia deadlock is a strong possibility.

Eastern, its slate completed, holds first place by a half game. Anacostia can catch up by Thursday by beating the crippled Westerners in their finale at Western Stadium.

That Anacostia-Western game was originaly set for Friday, but was moved up so Anacostia will have an extra day's rest before it meets Eastern in the special playoff either Monday or Tuesday.

INTERHIGH STANDINGS

GROUP I

	W.	L.	T.	T.P.
Eastern	5	0	1	0
Anacostia	4	0	1	1
Western	2	2	0	1
Wilson	1	3	1	1
Chamberlain	0	3	0	1

The Group I champ, Eastern or Anacostia, will tackle McKinley Tech, Group II titlist, ni the Interhigh championship game a week from Friday, November 24, at Griffith Stadium. The big Interhigh title game is sponsored by The Washington Post, Touchdown Club and Board of Education.

The shift in the schedule was made yesterday at a huddle of Eastern Principal John P. Collins, Anacostia Principal Mrs. Opal Corkery and Birch Bayh and Hardy Pearce, heads of the Interhigh League.

They'll get together again later this week to decide on a definite time and place for the projected Eastern-Anacostia playoff. Eastern and Anacostia met earlier in the season at Eastern and played to a 12-12 tie. Since then, Anacostia has won four straight, and Eastern has taken five in a row.

If a playoff is necessary, it will likely take place Monday at a neutral field.

However, an upset victory by Western over Anacostia Thursday would make all the schedule and special playoff negotiations superfluous. A Western upset would eliminate Anacostia and gave Group I crown to Eastern.

Coaches Put Army First, Sooners 2d

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Army retained its ranking as the Nation's No. 1 football team today, with Oklahoma's Sooners moving into the runner-up position over Ohio State in the United Press ratings.

The 35 outstanding coaches, upon whose selections the ratings are compiled, gave the undefeated and untied Cadets 16 first place votes and a total of 309 points, while Oklahoma finished second with eight first-place votes and a total of 277 points.

It marked the fifth time in the eight weekly ballots of the 1950 season that Army has topped the list. Notre Dame, which topped the first two weekly polls, and Southern Methodist, the leader two weeks ago, were well down in the ranks.

Ohio State, with eight first-place votes, wound up third this week with 269 points, while California, receiving two first-place votes, advanced to fourth place with 257 points. Kentucky, Texas, Princeton, Illinois, Tennessee and Michigan State rounded out the top 10 i nthat order.

There was only one change in the select group, Michigan State moving up from eleventh to tenth place as Southern Methodist, seventh last week, fell to twelfth place after losing its second game in that order.

Army in first and Illinois in eighth were the only teams to hold the same spots as last week. However, Oklahoma and Ohio State exchanged places, the high-scoring Buckeyes having been second last week, only 21 points behind Army.

The ratings:

Team	Points
1. Army (16)	309
2. Oklahoma (8)	277
3. Ohio State (8)	269
4. California (2)	257
5. Kentucky	213
6. Texas	191
7. Princeton	96
8. Illinois	91
9. Tennessee	48
10. Michigan State	34

Second 10—Texas A. and M., 26; Southern Methodist, 23; Clemson, Wyoming (1) and Wisconsin, 18 each; Pennsylvania, 14; Washington, 8; Michigan and Nebraska, 4 each; Georgia, Maryland and Notre Dame, 3 each.

Others—Vanderbilt, 2; Miami and Wake Forest, 1 each.

Ryder Cup Play May Be Skipped

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—Ryder Cup competition between the United States and Britain may be skipped next year because England cannot send a squad to this country on acceptable dates.

The professional golfer's association disclosed that the British PGA indicated it would not be able to send a Ryder Cup team for a proposed August 7-8 competition. The British team will be available only in October and November. Joe Novack, PGA president, said it was uncertain whether a date could be arranged in those months.

Mahoon Proves Hot Stuff on Cold Day at Pimlico

Cherry Path Second, Six LengthsBack

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

PIMLICO, Nov. 13. — On the coldest racing day of the fall season, Mahoon went South here today. In fact the 3-year-old, owned by Mrs. T. A. Randolph of Upperville, Va., ran as if he were heading for Sunny Florida, to win the Tred Avon, featuring the Monday program.

With Jockey Arnold Kirkland, of Laurel, Md., aboard, Mahoon came out of the starting gate on top and the farther he went the greater was his lead. At the end, he had a six-length advantage over Thorncliff Farm's Cherry Path. Third money in the field of 12 went to C. Crother's Mere Bones.

Winner of only one race in 14 starts as he paraded postward, Mahoon, however, had a somewhat solid backing and paid a $7.20 to win after running the six furlongs over a fast track in 1:11 2/5. A crowd of 9573 shivered throughout the program.

Mahoon simply killed off all challengers. Locust Valley and Ensa were closest early and soon tossed in the towel. Then Isotope tried to get to the leader only to tire. At the end, Cherry Path was running kindly but Mahoon, by this time was only coasting.

Kirkland, who is riding in excellent form, also won the first race. He came from behind on this occasion with Keystone Stable's Reunion, getting up in time to turn back S. W. Labrot, jr.'s, Strada and W. M. McIntosh's Abbestale.

Reunion paid $8.20 and set the stage for a $55.60 pay-off on the 1-4 daily double combination. Jockey Nick Shuk won the second race with Mrs. J. Y. Christmas' Bay Orders, the 6-year-old showing a front-running effort that produced an individual $13 mutuel.

Joe Culmone, the current saddle sensation, had to take a back seat today. Despite the fact that he rode several horses with good chances, the Italian-born youth just couldn't make it to the winner's circle in six tries.

Bill Bennings Says:

Dear Folks: At Pimlico A trainer brought his young son to the press box to show him off. Little Jimmy, according to the father, was a boy wonder. We listened as the horseman detailed the kid's accomplishments. The fourth race came along, the trainer rooted home a winner and continued his praise of his offspring. When he had finished he turned to his son and said, "Jimmy, where's them tickets?" The boy looked amazed and replied, "I didn't know you bet on that horse, Pop. I tore up the tickets." The trainer aimed a kick at the kid and shouted, "Why you dumb little bum." The old man picked up the pieces, grabbed Jimmy by the arm and disappeared down the press box steps, looking all the part of a big loser.—BILL.

Terps Win Fourth Straight Cross-Country Title

N. C. State's Garrison Finishes 1st

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Maryland's cross country team won the Southern Conference championship today for the fourth consecutive year.

The Old Liner squad, which placed four runners in the top 15 after the four mile pull, racked up a score of 40 points, and was followed by newcomer West Virginia with 60 points.

Sophomore Clyde Garrison of North Carolina State who led the field of about 185 runners, set a new Southern Conference record with a time of 20 minutes, 43.4 seconds.

Other team scores: N. C. State 70, North Carolina 90, Luke 142, Davidson 144, William and Mary 164, Virginia Tech 178 and Richmond 240.

Garrison lopped 13 seconds off the existing conference mark set by Bob Palmer of Maryland who was first in last year's meet.

Tyson Creamer of Maryland finished in 21 minutes, seven seconds to cop second place and was followed closely by Lindy Kehoe, a teammate.

The race was run on the course at N. C. State College.

Others finished in this order: Fourth, Gordon Marick of North Carolina; fifth, Russ Thoburn and, sixth, Alvin Beasley, both of West Virginia; seventh, Jim Harris of Maryland; eighth, Jack Shirley of West Virginia; ninth, Tom Stockton of Davidson; tenth, Bob Browning of Maryland; eleventh, Bob Marshall of Duke; twelfth, John Hunter; thirteenth, Bobby Leonard, and fourteenth, Marshall Vernon, all of N. C. State; and fifteenth, Bob Lawson of William and Mary.

The summaries:
1, Garison (N. C. State), 20:43.4; 2, Creamer (Maryland), 21:07; 3, Kehoe (Maryland), 21:08; 4, Hamrick (North Carolina), 21:13; 5, Thoburn (West Virginia), 21:15; 6, Beasley (West Virginia), 21:16; 7, Harris (Maryland), 21:17; 8, Shirley (West Virginia), 21:23; 9, T. Stockton (Davidson), 21:24; 10, Browning (Maryland), 21:19; 11, Marshall (Duke), 21:36; 12, Hunter (N. C. State), 21:38; 13, Leonard (N. C. State), 21:42; 14, Vernon (N. C. State), 21:42; 15, Lawson (William and Mary).

Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

Area's Winningest Mentor

Quantico's Harwood Coach of the Week

Maj. Hal Harwood, winningest mentor around these parts, gets The Washington Post's salute as the Coach of the Week.

His Quantico Marines swept to a 42-7 victory over Camp Lejeune, corps rivals from North Carolina, to post their eighth victory in nine starts.

HARWOOD

It's an impressive record but only par for Harwood. Handsome Hal began his head coaching career by piloting Quantico to 13 straight victories. The Marines slipped up a bit last year, dropping three. However, in three seasons the former Naval Academy center has compiled the remarkable mark of 32 victories in 36 games, taking two All-Navy titles.

With all-Navy competition discontinued, Quantico shopped around quickly and arranged an 11-game slate with only two service opponents. Two colleges remain, Tampa at Alexandria this Saturday and College of Pacific on the coast December 9.

After losing its opener to unbeaten Xavier of Cincinnati, 34-13, Quantico has swept past Bolling, V. P. I., Waynesburg, Niagara, Dayton, Scranton and Youngstown.

That victory over Lejeune was a sweet one for Harwood. Lejeune surprised Quantico last year, 23-7, the only service team ever to beat Hal.

Harwood had an unusual coaching problem with his officer-studded squad against Lejeune. He could use only five officers at one time. Hal took it in stride by inserting John Merricks, an enlisted man, in the backfield so he could put Bob McElroy Naval Academy grad at end. The strategy paid off McElroy took a scoring pass.

Hal allows that one way of being a successful coach is having such as Eddie LeBaron Bob Farrell, Hosea Rodgers dropped in your lap. There's more to it than that, though. Those star-studded wartime Naval Academy teams never jelled.

Harwood successfully has accomplished the tough job of blending together his college stars with many boys who played only high school, sandlot or service football. And he's kept 'em all happy.

They keep winning so he's happy, too.

Presidential Cup Committee Names Teams This Week

The Presidential Cup football game committee expects to name the participating teams either late this week or early next week.

The contest, sponsored by the District of Columbia American Legion, is to be played at Maryland's Byrd Stadium December 9.

A few teams known to be on the committee list are Oklahoma, Kentucky, Tennessee, Miami, Wyoming, Southern Methodist, Clemson, Nebraska, and Loyola of Los Angeles.

Breaks Shoot Record

Firing a league record-breaking score of 1158, the Terps No. 1 rifle team defeated Greenbelt No. 2 at College Park last night to remain in first place in the Maryland Rifle League.

Shoeamker Back Today

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 13 (AP).—Jockey Willie Shoemaker came out of a bad spill yesterday without serious injury and a Hollywood Park spokesman said he would resume riding here tomorrow. He will continue his long range duel for National honors with ockey oe Culmone, who is performing at Pimlico.

Examination today disclosed that Shoemaker, the pacesetter in the jockey race with Culmone, sustained little more than a bruised foot in a spill while riding at Agu Caliente, Mexico. Shoemaker won two races at Caliente and boosted his lead over Culmone to seven wins—326 to 319 for the year.

Virginia's Papit Seeks New Record Against Tulane

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 13 (AP).—Fullback Johnny Papit, the 190-pound University of Virginia flyer from Philadelphia, may make college football history Saturday.

The rapid Mr. Papit will lead his Cavalier mates against Tulane at New Orleans. And Jolting Johnny hopes to pick up 138 yards rushing against the big, bruising Green Wave forward wall. If he's successful, Papit, the Cavaliers figure, will become the first collegiate back ever to average 1000 yards rushing for three successive seasons.

He's already lugged the leather 2862 yards—a shade better than 6 yards for every time he's punched holes in enemy lines.

Montgomery Grand Jury Is Selected

William S. Bowling, real estate man of 7124 Moorland lane, Bethesda, was named foreman of the Montgomery County grand jury at the opening of the November term of Circuit Court in Rockville yesterday.

No undue amount of crime is apparent in the county, Judge Stedman Prescott told the grand jury in his charge. He pointed out that the Ober law requires the court to inform the grand jury if there is any information concerning subversive activities. He said no such information had been presented to the court.

Members of the grand jury are: Creighton J. Rhodes, Peggy H. O'Connor, Herbert T. Yeager, Margaret A. O'Connor, Raymond J. Davis, Walter B. Reynolds, Joseph D. Byrd, jr., Wilbur R. Garrett, jr., T. Yellott Canby, Martha P. Bond, William K. Carlin, Eleanor K. Dyson, Evarts J. Wagg, Mabel G. Gamble, Andrew J. Thompson, Albert H. Hamke, Julia Jeffers, Lester D. Clagett, Mary V. Dietz, Daniel P. Mularkey and A. E. Godfrey.

Two petit juries were selected. One jury, to serve to December 20, includes Frederick J. Doering, William H. Radcliffe, F. Douglas Sears, James H. Wims, Bessie M. Beeman, William E. Hallam, Kathleen O. Smith, D. C. Campbell, Clay L. Jennison, Estelle Clagett, Emily E. Miles, J. Waters Woodfield, Dorsey C. Plummer, Lawrence Onley, Lena D. Walser, Harrison C. King, Elnora Barnes, Leon D. Lamb, Harold Ale, Richard C. Breaden, Claude A. Cooke, Earl F. Kelley, Carlton A. Gloyd, Lillian M. Thomas and William E. Aud.

The jury beginning service January 8 includes J. Norman Burdette, D. Oland Hawkins, Mary M. Cole, Robert D. Hagner, Walter T. Allnutt, William C. Hanson, Lee H. Robinson, Charles H. Griffith, Henry W. White, Bertha J. Bishop, George W. Goodwin, Mabel V. Webb, Harry C. Meem, jr., John C. Madigan, jr., Mabel E. Davis, George R. Carson, Katherine J. Rabbitt, Norman A. Belt, Anna Glenora Barefoot, Marian H. Hulsizer and Richard W. Allnutt.

Gas Company Engineer Assails Wholesale Boost

A Washington Gas Light Co. consulting engineer told the Federal Power Commission yesterday that there is no justification for increasing wholesale natural gas rates to his firm.

The witness, Ralph S. Orme, continued testimony begun last week opposing an increase proposed by the Atlantic Seaboard Corp., operators of natural gas pipelines.

Orme declared that an allocation of expenses between commodity cost and demand cost would eliminate the necessity of increasing the rate to the Washington firm.

The hearings will resume today at 10 a. m. and the company expects to call its final witness during the day. He is Howard B. Noyes, vice president.

U. S. Major Takes Iranian Princess As His Bride

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 13 (AP).—Maj. William Henry Wambold, 31, air attache at the U. S. embassy here, and Princess Guity Kadjar, 26, of Iran's former royal family, were married here yesterday in two ceremonies. The first was a Christian ceremony, the second Moslem.

Wambold, son of Mrs. Fred P. Laier of Lakeport, Calif., expects to return to the United States about the end of the year. He has been stationed here since February, 1949.

The bride, educated in England, is a daughter of the late Mohammed Hassan Mirza Kadjar, brother of Ahmed Shah, who was deposed from Iran's throne in 1925, by Reza, father of the present Shah. She had to win the government's approval to marry Wambold, and he had to have United States approval because of his diplomatic status.

End of Pittsburgh Newspaper Strike Appears Imminent

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—Settlement of a 44-day-old strike AFL mailers and truck drivers against Pittsburgh's three daily newspapers appeared imminent tonight.

A spokesman for the publishers said representatives of management and the mailers were threshing out the remaining points of difference and that they were "definitely hopeful" the end was in sight.

"Barring a last-minute hitch," the spokesman said, "we should be able to reach some sort of an agreement in the near future."

He explained that after an agreement is reached with the two striking unions, meetings also will have to be held with officers of approximately 15 other unions, including the AFL printers and CIO Newpsaper Guild to make sure they also will return to work. More than 3650 members of the nonstriking unions were laid off shortly after the strike began.

are you wondering about buying a new car now?

With the best intentions in the world, many car owners fall into false economy just by not trading in for a new car soon enough.

At the present time, especially, this can easily happen.

It is not a question of "scare buying." The brief flurry of this that was touched off by the Korean war soon died down . . . as it should have.

The question is simply what is best for you, personally . . . what is best for your family . . . what is best for your pocketbook.

It's a question you alone can answer . . . and one that deserves your most careful thought and attention.

For instance . . . How much sound value and safe transportation is there left in your present car? Is it costing you more to run and keep in repair than a car should? Does it give you and your family the satisfaction and peace of mind you want your family car to give?

Along with that . . . Have you talked figures with one of our Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealers? Do you know what one of these new cars would cost you, and what it would give you compared to the one you now drive? Have you seen and driven the new cars which owners by the thousands tell us are the most dependable and satisfactory cars, and the greatest dollar values, that we or anyone else ever offered the public?

Also . . . With present uncertainties about taxes, living costs, and all the rest, you can at least count on this—that trading your car now for a new Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler will make your family's transportation safe and sure.

As you think about these questions, here are two facts worth remembering . . .

One is that Chrysler Corporation cars are wonderful values . . . attractive, comfortable, dependable and brilliant in performance . . . and put together to stay together. They'll give your pride a boost the minute you see them, and they'll assure your good judgment that you've got the best in dollar value that a car buyer ever got.

The other is that the men who sell these cars are mighty good men to do business with. Our dealers have been carefully sought out and encouraged to be the ablest and most responsible group of car dealers in the world.

They're proud of our new cars. And they are proud of their own business reputations for good service and square dealing.

Why not come in and have a talk with one of these dealers near you? It needn't cost you anything but a few moments' time. And it could be the best investment of time you ever made!

Installment Car-Buying Overcharge Bars Aired

Proposals Discussed At Hearing Before D. C. Commissioners; Complaints Cited

Proposals to check overcharging in automobile installment buying received the cautious approval yesterday of several local automotive and business groups.

The regulations, drafted recently by the District License Committee, were given their initial public airing at a hearing before the District Commissioners.

The regulations would require dealers to give customers a written statement, spelling out sales price, finance charges, insurance costs and any commission paid to the dealer.

One copy of the written statement would be filed with the Recorder of Deeds, thus making all transaction details a matter of public record.

Chester Gray, assistant corporation counsel, said the regulations were inspired by numerous complaints received by District officials.

"The District has received a great many complaints from purchasers who say they are being charged several hundred dollars more than they had expected to pay," Gray explained.

Francis J. Buckley, representing the District Bar Association's small loan committee, said the proposed regulations are "definitely needed."

'Unfairness' Cited

While stating the objective of the regulations is "salutory," the lawyer then lectured the commissioners on the unworkability and "unfairness" of several features of the proposal.

Charles C. Collins, for the American Automobile Association, said he believed the strongest features of the suggested regulations were the sections requiring separate statements on the cost of insurance and the amount of financing charges.

Manning Hoffman of the Washington Board of Trade Insurance Committee, also objected to disclosing insurance details on the ground it might lead to abuses.

$30.50 Suit In Ring Sale Withdrawn

Judge Milton S. Kronheim, jr., was almost forced into doing an injustice by a rigid rule of law yesterday.

But as it turned out, the Municipal Court jurist was able to see that Ben Ramey, 22, a busboy, of 909 12th st. ne., did not have to pay for a ring he never received.

Ramey was sued for $30.50, the cost of a birthstone ring, by the New York Jewelry Co., here. The firm had a contract signed by Ramey on August 24, 1950, to show that he bought the ring.

Ramey testified, however, that he never received it. He said a salesman talked him into buying the ring, which was left at the store to be enlarged.

Ramey said it was his impression the store was unwilling to accept his credit. He had forgotten about the transaction until he received a summons to come to court, he said.

The store's attorneys said that since he did not receive the ring they would not press the suit. They moved to dismiss.

"The court is going to grant that motion with thanks," said Judge Kronheim. "You had a signed contract you could have stood on."

"There is a repeated quotation by the Municpal Court of Appeals that Congress did not intend to deprive litigants of their lawful claims or defenses or to substitute the abstract conception of justice of an individual judge for recognized rules of substantive law," he said. "I think the court would have been forced to do just that."

Agriculture Dept. Orchestra Lists Opening Concert

Agriculture Department's Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert of the season Sunday, November 26 at 8:30 p. m. in the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Auditorium, Independence ave. and 14th st. sw.

Under the direction of Dr. Frederick Fall, the 85-piece orchestra will offer Handel-Harty's Suite from the Royal Fireworks and Dvorak's Symphony No. 5 in E Minor. The Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra by Benjamin Britten will be narrated by Jacques Ringler, actor and singer.

Admission is free.

Dr. Fall was associated with opera companies in Germany, Czechoslovakia, Italy and Austria before coming to the United States.

D. C. Residents Shifted By State Department

The State Department yesterday announced transfer of two Washingtop foreign service officers to new posts.

Prescott Childs of 2710 35th pl. nw., moves from the State Department to Bombay, India, as consul general. Harvey R. Wellman of 5009 Newport ave. nw., moves from second secretary at Mexico City to the State Department.

Indictment Returned In Abortion

Former Navy Yard Cashier Charged With $7249 Credit Fund Theft

Robert E. Ray, 69, 1736 8th st. nw., was indicted yesterday on a charge of performing an abortion on a 27-year-old woman in August.

Police said the woman was taken to Gallinger Hospital August 18, suffering from blood poisoning. She told police she had paid Ray $110 for the operation.

In another indictment, Daniel J. Imbs, 3441 10th pl. ne., was charged with embezzling $7249.60 from the Navy Yard Credit Union. The former cashier of the credit union, Imbs was indicted on three counts of embezzlement and three counts of wrongfully converting the money to his own use.

Imbs gave himself up to FBI agents last month. Police said he accepted payments from credit union members and pocketed the money.

Thomas D. Tribble, a 28-year-old nightclub drummer, was indicted on a charge of second degree murder in the fatal shooting October 7 of John Edelin, 25, an employe of Walter Reed Hospital.

The grand jury indicted Albert S. Donnelly, 55, 240 8th st. ne., on two charge of forging narcotic prescriptions.

George W. Cooper, 24, and Howard C. Langrord, 19, no fixed addresses, were indicted for grand larceny, charged with stealing $1105 in cash and a carton of chewing gum from a truck owned by the G. B. Macke Corp.

In another grand larceny indictment, William T. Murphy, of Plattsburg, N. Y., was charged with stealing $1450 from William H. Englemann, Baltimore, Md. Police said Murphy got the money from Englemann in a card game in which he used marked cards.

The grand jury returned a total of 22 indictments.

2 Women Jailed Three Months on Contempt Charge

Two woman members of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee went to jail for three months yesterday for contempt of Congress in 1946.

They are Miss Helen R. Bryan, 54, who was executive secretary of the anti-Fascist group, and Mrs. Ernestina G. Fleischman, 50, of its executive committee.

The two women were among 18 persons convicted of contempt in refusing to submit records and names to the House Committee on un-American Activities. The Bryan and Fleischman cases were the last in which the penalty was executed. All appeals have been exhausted, District Court was told.

One-Shot Disease Detection Given First Trial in Area

Alexandrians this week are getting a chance at a one-shot wonder of disease detection.

In 20 minutes, they can undergo a series of tests designed to show up latent cases of such diseases as tuberculosis, anemia, diabetes, bad sight and bad hearing. If the tests produce any suspicious findings, the patients will be rechecked and then sent to their personal physicians.

The health survey, inaugurated yesterday at the Alexandria Health Center, 517 N. St. Asaph st., is called multi-tests. It is bein conducted by the Alexandria Health Department in cooperation with the Alexandria Tuberculosis Association, and State and Federal health services.

Crowds lined the sidewalk as the tests got under way at 10 a. m. yesterday. Those who applied for the tests, which are free, were told to be prepared to roll down their left sock or stocking for the electro-cardiogram, and to be sure both sleeves were rolled up.

They were given chest X-rays, height, weight and sight tests, urinalyses, and a blood test which could detect presence of five different diseases.

Dr. Thomas F. McGough, Alexandria health officer, said he expects 2000 persons will take the multi-tests by week's end. The tests are being given daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Tuesday through Thursday, and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Friday. No appointments are necessary.

Yesterday 394 persons took the tests.

Lone Bandit Gets $553 at Liquor Store

A bandit last night escaped with $553 in cash from the Greenbriar Liquor Store, 1023 Vermont ave. nw., after forcing three men in the store to lie down on the floor in the back room.

Odisses Eliades, of 2920 18th st. nw., brother of the owner, and two friends were in the store when the bandit armed with a black pistol, entered shortly after 8 p. m.

He took $118 of the cash from Eliades' pocket and the remaining $435 from the cash register. Then he forced the men into the back room, cut the telephone wires and left, police said.

In an earlier holdup, a bandit got $20 in cash from the High's Store at 1000 4th st. ne.

Mrs. Bertha Melchor, 25, of 5404 Bell pl. ne., said the man came in about 7 p. m. and ordered a quart of ice cream. When she went toward the back to pack it, he told her to "turn around, this is a stickup," she said.

Mrs. Melchor said he kept his hand in his pocket as though he had a gun. She gave him the money from the cash drawer. She said it was her first night at work at the store.

Falls Church Council Again Backs Van Meter

The Falls Church City Council last night, for the second time in three weeks, rejected, six to two, a motion to dismiss City Attorney LaRue Van Meter.

Again the motion was made by Councilman Samuel E. McCrary and backed by Councilman James E. Durant. McCrary said results of the city's November 7 referendum in which voters called for an election instead of the present council appointment of the city attorney amounted to a vote of no confidence in Van Meter.

Two Drivers Cleared in Traffic Death

A bakery truck driver and the operator of an automobile were exonerated yesterday at a coroner's inquest in the traffic death of a 43-year-old workman.

The jury cleared Morris Barr, 44, of 519 Powhatan pl. nw., a driver for Ottenberg's Bakery, and Thomas N. Thornton, 30, a Veterans Administration clerk, of 1726 S st. nw.

The inquest was in the death of Charles Combs, of White Post, Va., an employe of the L. M. Michael Co., wholesale feed and grain concern, 35 New York ave. ne.

Combs was killed last Thursday at 1st. st. and New York ave. ne. when struck by Thornton's auto and thrown under the left rear wheel of the bakery truck. Barr, the driver, drove away after the accident. His identity was unknown until the next day, when he voluntarily told the bakery manager he was involved in the accident.

Witnesses testified at the inquest that Combs stepped off a streetcar loading platform into the path of Thornton's car. It was impossible for Thornton to stop in time to avoid the accident, they said.

It was brought out that it was possible Barr did not realize the left rear wheel of his truck had run over Combs. After the inquest, however, Barr was taken to police headquarters and charged with failing to report an accident. He forfeited $25 collateral.

Police Sergeant Suspended for AWOL

Metropolitan Police Sergt. Ulys S. Rogers, 41, of the Twelfth Precinct, has been suspended for being absent without leave, Inspector Robert Pearce reported yesterday.

Rogers, veteran of 15 years on the force, was suspended Saturday when he returned to work after being AWOL five days. He said he had been to Florida. Fellow officers described him as a quiet, unassuming and competent policeman.

5-Year Plan Outlined for Alexandria

Police Station, Incinerator Lead '51 Needs; Total Figure $6,563,214

A $6,563,214 capital improvements program for the next five years was proposed yesterday for Alexandria by the city planning commission.

The five-year plan, first such blueprint prepared by the commission as required by Alexandria's new city charter, includes a $2,130,500 proposed outlay for next year.

The 1951 proposed capital improvements are topped by two $550,000 items, one for a new police headquarters at the city jail and enlargement of the jail, the other for a 200-ton city incinerator.

The five-year proposals will be studied by City Manager W. Guy Ancell, who may revise them before submitting them to the city council. The council has the final say.

Station Called Inadequate

Commission Chairman Leroy E. Peabody pointed out that the present police station in the City Hall is inadequate. The overcrowded jail, from which several prisoners have escaped during the last few years, has been the subject of considerable criticism.

As for the incinerator proposal, the commission considers this "probably our No. 1 need at present." The dumping area available to the city is fast disappearing, the commission said.

Other large items proposed for next year are: $300,000 for street improvement; $125,000 for covering Hooff's Run, a drainage stream, between King st. and Prince st., opening up Daingerfield rd. to traffic; $75,000 for a Negro swimming pool and $15,000 for modernizing the present white pool; $75,000 for a city garage and repair shop.

$55,000 For Court

Also, $55,000 for a new courtroom and law library; $25,000 for expansion of the home for convalescents, and $25,000 for acquisition of parking lots "to relieve the serious congestion in the downtown area." No more time should be lost in acquiring parking sites, the commission commented.

Among the capital improvements recommended for the following four years are a new white high school, estimated at $1,100,000 in 1952-53, a $1,000,000 southside elementary school and a $600,000 northwest elementary school, a public library addition of $125,000 and a Valley Run-Four Mile Drive bridge.

About $450,000 of the 1951 program would be financed from bonds already issued, according to the commission plan, while about $300,000 would be available for the capital improvements from current revenues.

Ths would leave about $1,383,500 to be financed. The commission recommends issuance of bonds to cover this amount.

$126,520 More

School Fund Boost Asked By Board

A 1951 school budget of $1,591,609 was presented yesterday by the Alexandria school board to the mayor and city council.

The total is $126,520 higher than this year's expenditures.

Largest increase is in the item for professional personnel—including supervisors, principals and teachers — whose salaries make up about 75 percent of the total budget.

The 1951 salary figure of $1,182,058 for the professional employes is $83,570 more than this year.

The salary item boost includes the pay of 18 new teachers who have been added during this school year and six additional teachers to be added during the next school year.

Higher salary estimates also reflect the higher scale for teachers allowed by the school board, which will range from $2450 to $3950.

The higher scale, which adds about $13,750 to the school budget, was voted by the board in order to compete with nearby areas.

In a letter acompanying the budget, J. S. Everly, chairman of the board, pointed out that some increases in pay have been allowed for clerks and janitors, in order to retain such personnel.

$620,603 Grants Made in Fight Against Cancer

Grants of $620,603 to strengthen the Nationwide attack on cancer were announced yesterday by the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md.

The grants include one of $7783 to Dr. Joseph H. Roe, professor of biochemistry at George Washington University, and continuing funds of $6975 to the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and $10,588 to the National Research Council for previously established anti-cancer projects.

Dr. Roe was chosen to carry out experimentation work on the role of a common factor of a wide variety of tumors which reportedly destroys pentose, a blood-sugar, in both rats and humans.

Third Suspect Held In Sewer Pipe Theft

The third of three men accused of stealing $200 worth of iron sewer pipe from an Arlington construction job was arrested yesterday by Arlington County police.

He is William Addison, 27, of 3507 S. Four Mile Run dr., Arlington. Saturday, Leroy Harris, 21, of 602 N. Randolph st. and DeWitt H. Baker, 25, of 1704 N. Dinwiddie st., both Arlington, were arrested.

Police said the pipes were stolen Thursday from a job in the 400 block of S. Fenwick st. The cases were continued until November 22 in Arlington County Court.

Ex-Captain Of D.C. Police Is Charged In Car Death

Manslaughter Laid to A. C. Belt After Companion Is Fatally Injured

A retired Metropolitan police captain was charged with manslaughter, drunken driving, reckless driving and failure to keep to the right after a collision in which his companion was fatally injured yesterday near Prince Frederick, Md.

State police identified the arrested man as Arthur C. Belt, 59, of 5009 Belt rd. nw. Relatives at that address said Belt was a former captain of the Eighth Precinct station and had retired several years ago. He was released under $1000 bail for a hearing December 1.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Calvert County Hospital was Maurice D. Phillips, 72, of 4106 Pennsylvania ave. se. His relatives said he was a retired zoo keeper and had been spending the day with Belt at Long Beach, Md.

Police said the auto Belt was driving collided with one occupied by Thomas Gray, 18, of St. Leonard, Md., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gray. The accident occurred on State Route 2 just south of Prince Frederick.

Belt and the Grays were treated for head and face cuts.

Thirteen Named To Law Review Staff at C. U.

Appointment of 13 law school students at Catholic University to the editorial staff of the school's Law Review was anounced yesterday by Dr. Brendan F. Brown, dean of the school.

Named editor in chief was James W. Eardley of Grand Rapids, Mich. Others on the staff include S. John Cottone, Scranton, Pa., business manager; James A. Kelly, Scranton, Pa., assistant business manager, and the following associate editors:

John F. Lally of Scranton, William P. Murray of Albany, N. Y., Fabian A. Kwiatek of Peely, Pa., Richard J. Snider of Cleveland, Ohio; Theodore J. Pothia of Cleveland, Ohio, Henry J. Cappelo of San Francisco, Calif.; Thomas O'Hara of New York City, George Thomas of Lancaster, Pa., and Chester Dzialo of Middletown, Conn.

John W. Giles, a member of the law faculty, is staff advisor and Miss Mary Dullea of Mount Rainer, Md., was named special assistant.

Carpenter Found Dead in His Car

Reuben H. Randall, 58, of 2420 T st. se., was found dead yesterday in his car in the garage behind his home.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said death apparently was due to carbon monoxide poisoning. He issued a certificate of suicide.

Randall was found by his sister-in-law, Margaret M. King, about 4:20 p. m. A blanket was wrapped about his head and a piece of garden hose ran from the exhaust pipe into the car, the motor of which was running, police said.

They said he was scheduled to retire from his job as a Treasury Department carpenter in several days. He had been in ill health, Dr. MacDonald said.

New Probe of Two Explosions Is Started by Fire Marshal

The fire marshal's office yesterday started anew its investigation of two blasts which damaged a Northeast home and a Northwest apartment house last Friday, but was without a clew to the causes.

Deputy Fire Marshal Roy Warfield said he examined the entire house at 5340 Ames st. ne., where the second-story section of one side was blown out.

He said the investigation has been hampered, however, by the disappearance of George Green, 36, the only person injured. Green was treated at Gallinger Hospital for first and second degree burns to his arms, face and hands and was released.

Green is the brother of Miss Eva Green, who rents the second floor of the house. Warfield said he gave his address as 5911 Eads st. ne. but can't be found there.

Fire Marshal Raymond C. Roberts, investigating the explosion, which damaged apartments on six floors on the Kenmore Apartments in the 5400 block of Connecticut ave., said the blasts there were at each end of the gas pipe line raceway.

1,000,000 Clippings Move With Library of The Post

Most departments of The Washington Post began operating from the newspaper's new home at 1515 L st. yesterday.

Last department to make the move yesterday was the library.

The job involved 40,000 pounds of filing cabinets. Their contents included 12,500 pounds of the metal cuts from which pictures are reproduced; one million newspaper and magazine clippings; 75,000 pictures, 2000 reference books.

Still to make the change-over are the business, advertising and circulation departments.

They will remain at the old Post building—1337 E st. nw.—until their facilities at the new building are ready.

In the meantime, they will be open to serve the public.

The "front counter"—the service desk where want-ads may be left and back papers purchased—and the paper's executive offices will also remain in the old building temporarily.

The Washington Post's telephone number is unchanged—NAtional 4200. Departments in either building may be reached by dialing that number.

$150,000 Suit Filed on Behalf Of Boy Hurt in Apartment Fall

A District Court suit was filed yesterday for $150,000 for injuries to a five-year-old boy who fell seven stories from an apartment house window.

The boy is Richard Goodman, of 706 Chillum rd., Hyattsville, Md., who sued through Attorneys David G. Bress and Alvin L. Newmyer, jr. Named defendants were District National Securities Corp., owner of the building, Shelburn Apartments, and H. G. Smithy Co., the apartment agent.

The accident occurred October 13, 1949 while Richard was in his family's apartment on the seventh floor of the Shelburne, 1631 S st. nw. He fell into a clump of bushes at the base of the building.

The suit states that he suffered a fractured skull, total blindness in both eyes, fracture of an arm, wrist and legs, and nervous impairment.

His father, M. Harold Goodman, an attorney, asks $50,000 additional for expenses and loss of his son's services.

Referendum in Sight On Sewage Disposal

Alexandria voters may be asked early next year to approve a bond issue of approximately four million dollars to construct a sewage disposal plant, city officials indicated yesterday.

The city council is expected to ask the Corporation Court, probably in January, to set a referendum date on a revenue bond issue to finance the city's first disposal plant.

The city now dumps untreated sewage into Hunting Creek, thus adding to the pollution of the Potomac River into which the creek flows.

The State Water Control Board, which has helped to prod both Arlington and Fairfax counties into borrowing money for sewage treatment, has criticized Alexandria as well, but has refrained from ordering action by the city while a new charter was going into effect.

City officials pointed out that they now have specific authority to issue revenue bonds and operate such a disposal plant. A plant site is available from the purchase of land some five years ago at the south end of S. Payne st., along Hunting Creek, where a city dump is now located.

To take care of the city's sewage, now more than five million gallons daily, the council will probably have to revise a $50,000 sewage disposal survey and plan made about two years ago. It will also have to take into consideration the 7½ square miles of land about to be annexed from Fairfax County.

Shakespeare Character Actress Dies

JULIA MARLOWE
. . . Actress dead at 85

In 1921, George Washington University presented her a degree of doctor of laws and cited her as "the greatest interpreter of the immortal bard of Avon."

Her picture, and her speech accepting the degree, now hang in Lisner Auditorium. At the presentation she told GW listeners: "I believe I am the first woman to be so honored . . . you have made me very happy and I thank you." Then, the plaque records, Miss Marlowe read Shakespearean sonnets to her listeners as a token of her gratitude.

For several years, Miss Marlowe and Sothern occupied a home in Georgetown in which Herbert Elliston, editor of The Washington Post, now lives.

Miss Marlowe was born Sarah Frances Frost in Cumberland, England. As a child, she was taken to Kansas by her parents and later adopted Julia Marlowe as her stage name. When she was still in her teens she developed a keen interest in the works of Shakespeare, which she maintained throughout her theatrical career.

Her most famous roles were Juliet, Rosalind in "As You Like It" and Viola in "Twelfth Night."

Working largely under the direction of Charles Frohman, Miss Marlowe and Sothern appeared also in "The Sunken Bell," "Jeanne d'Arc," "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and "Gloria."

Miss Marlowe made her debut in New York in 1887 as the star in "Ingomar." But as an 11-year-old child she already had appeared as a singing sailor in "H.M.S. Pinafore."

She teamed up with Sothern in a stage partnership and married him in 1911. He died in 1933 at the age of 73.

Planning Drive to Detect Nation's Diabetics . . .

U. S. Diabetes Detection Drive Starts

The campaign to uncover an estimated million persons in this country who unknowingly have the disease got off to an early start here Sunday when 50 drugstores began accepting specimens for free testing.

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, personal physician to President Truman and the White House, and United States Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D., N. Mex.) met at the Senator's office with Dr. John A. Reed, of this city, secretary of the American Diabetes Association, to open the national detection drive formally.

"If every American will take advantage of the tests for diabetes being given this week throughout the country, we can discover many of the hidden million diabetics, and they cannot only be saved needless complications and shortened careers, but can be helped to live full, normal and active lives," General Graham declared.

Citizen Meetings

Glover Park Favors U. S. Milk Rules

The Glover Park Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution favoring the use of milk passing United States Public Health Service standards.

Thomas B. Scott, president, said members felt the price of milk is too high, and that more milk brought into the District might bring the price down.

American University Park

The American University Park Citizens Association last night voted unanimously to oppose the propose curtailment of service on the American University Park bus line.

Dr. Daniel L. Lloyd, president, said Capital Transit officials had proposed terminating certain runs during the off-peak hours at Ward Circle. The line normally terminates at Fessenden st. and Wisconsin ave. nw.

The 40 persons at the meeting in Hurst Hall, American University, heard Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District director of public health, speak about the mobilization of medical services in the civilian defense program.

Kalorama Association

The Kalorama Citizens Association last night voted to give $15 to assist the Federation of Citizens Associations' court action against the Washington Gas Light Co.'s recent rate increases.

The organization, meeting at Adams School, 19th st. and California ave. nw., elected the following officers for the coming year: president, Judge George Liddell; first vice president, Fletcher Tilton; second vice president, Mrs. Harvey Wiley; tresaurer, Mrs. R. S. Lloyd, and secretary, Mrs. Sylvia Wubnig.

Hillcrest Association

If public response is great enough, the Board of Education may hold adult night classes at Anacostia High School, members of the Hillcrest Citizens Association were told last night.

Mrs. Evelyn MacIntosh reported the board favors the classes. She said questionaires will be sent out to residents in Anacostia to determine how many are interested in attending the classes.

Garfield-Douglas

The Garfield-Douglas Civic Association last night inaugurated a membership drive at the regular monthly meeting at Turner School, Stanton rd. and Alabama ave. se.

Leon Thompson, association president, said there are 150 members now. Thirty-seven attended the meeting.

D. C. Arthritis Group to Open Fund Drive

The District chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will begin its 1950-51 campaign today at a luncheon in the Washington Hotel at 12:30 p.m.

The campaign will seek $30,000, the chapter's quota of the two-million-dollar drive to further the foundation's program for research, clinics and care of the Nation's 7,500,000 victims of rheumatic disease.

Speakers at the luncheon will be Louis B. Nichols, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Dr. Richard Smith of Philadelphia, a member of the governing body of the International League Against Rheumatism.

More than 250 persons will attend the function opening the campaign under the chairmanship of Maple T. Harl, chairman of the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. On the campaign committee are: Georgia Neese Clark, chairman, woman's committee; Leonard Irving, labor; Milton S. Kronheim, special gifts; Minor Hudson and James D. Bligh, civic organizations; Cuvier A. Metzler, junior business, and Renan F. Camalier, fraternal organizations.

Officers of the local chapter are: Arthur Clarendon Smith, chairman of the board; Dr. Darrell C. Crain, president; Mrs. Samuel Dodek, vice president, and Richard A. Norris, treasurer.

The Rev. Beahm Funeral Rites Tuesday

NOKESVILLE, Va. Nov. 13 (AP).—Funeral rites will be held here Tuesday at 2 p. m. for the Rev. I. N. H. Beahm, 91-year-old Church of the Brethren minister.

The elderly clergyman, one of Virginia's oldest active ministers, was killed Saturday night in the head-on collision of two automobiles about 2 miles south of Martinsville.

John Stumpf, D. C. Insurance Manager, Dies

John Peter Stumpf, 52, retired Navy lieutenant commander and manager of The Travelers Insurance Co. branch office here, died at his home in Alexandria of a heart attack. He lived at 3552 Martha Custis dr.

Mr. Stumpf

Born in Richmond, Va., Mr. Stumpf was graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1920.

After serving in the Navy in World War I, he worked at the Kingan & Co. meat packing concern in Richmond, Va.

In 1928 he joined The Travelers Co. in the Richmond branch office and later was made manager of the Nashville, Tenn. division. He came to Washington in 1940 as the manager of the life insurance branch of the company, at 711 14th st. nw.

Truman Alibi Fails Teacher In SOB Case

A part-time history teacher at Montgomery Junior College yesterday was fined $10 on a disorderly conduct charge after her attorney used President Truman's name in an effort to help her case.

She is Mrs. Ellen H. Baldwin, 59, of 4321 East-West hwy., Bethesda, arrested October 15 after she objected to the arrest of her son, Charles, 27, as the pair were returning home from a "social gathering."

Police testified Mrs. Baldwin used vituperative language, including the words "S.O.B." Defense Attorney Robert W. Beall told Trial Magistrate James R. Miller that President Truman recently had used similar language to describe a well-known journalist, and that no one had accused him of being guilty of disorderly conduct.

"He might have been," the judge muttered.

In Memoriam

A booklet of 101 "In Memoriam" tributes suitable for publication is now available without charge. Remembrances for all members of the family and for friends are included. The booklet may be obtained at the front counter in The Post Building, by telephoning your request, or by writing to The Washington Post Classified Advertising Department, Washington 4, D. C.

Schools, Churches Vie in Holiday Exhibits

It's a Great Shopping Week On the Bazaar Circuit

By Dorothea Cruger

IT'S GOING TO BE A GREAT week for Christmas shoppers, as well as for Thanksgiving meal-planners. Over a dozen local churches, schools and clubs have scheduled gala bazaars this week, each one of them offering some special inducement for holiday buying and quite a few of them have planned added attractions for the very young, such as magicians and toy corners, plus someone to "baby-sit" while mother does her shopping.

Paintings, etchings, handpainted china and bridge scorecards made by members will be on sale when the National League of American Pen Women holds its Art Fair and Bazaar tomorrow at 1851 Columbia rd. nw.

Washington clubwomen will preside at the various booths, including a what-not table, cake and candy tables and pantry shelf, at the bazaar of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs tomorrow at Hotel 2400.

ENGLISH MINCEMEAT, coconut, nut penuchi, and all kinds of cakes, pies, and jellies for Thanksgiving eating will be sold at the All Souls' Unitarian Church bazaar Thursday at Pierce Hall. Highlight of the bazaar will be the sale of a rare book, "The Autobiography of Joseph Jefferson," autographed by the author in 1886.

Books for Christmas giving will be displayed and sold at the Book Fair of the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church in Wesley Heights on Friday.

When St. Paul's Church, 2430 K st. nw., holds its bazaar Saturday there will be a "Children's Room," with games and toys to amuse the youngsters, and a magician who will perform at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. In the center of the room there'll be a tree hung with small presents ranging from 5 cents to 25 cents.

FREE NURSERY CARE will be provided at St. Paul's Church on So. Pitt st. in Alexandria, when the church holds its bazaar; also on Saturday. There will also be a magician's show for the older children and an adult game room, with television for husbands who don't want to follow their wives from booth to booth! Another feature at this bazaar will be plum puddings made from old Alexandria family recipes.

YULE TREE—A bright silver tree, loaded with colored gumdrops, will be among the Christmas items on sale when St Paul's Church, at 2430 K st. nw., holds its Christmas bazaar. Mrs. Earle R. Closson (left), president of the ladies' Guild of the Church, admires the tree, which was made by Miss Helen L. Hollis (center). Others in the group are (from left, in rear row) Miss Evelyn Allen, Mrs. Clyde L. Jones, treasurer of the bazaar, and Miss Lillian Clark, guild treasurer. Mrs. James B. Eppes, jr. (second from left), chairman of the gift shop; Mrs. Nagel Haskin, chairman of the food shop (second from right), and Mrs. Ernest Baynard (extreme right), chairman of the children's bazaar, also admire the Yule tree. The bazaar will be held November 18, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Dowager's Hump a Posture Defect

Seventh day of Blanche's beauty program

By Ann Lawrence

BLANCHE LEARNED yesterday that she could help correct her double chin with exercises and correct posture. But what about the "dowager's hump," she wanted to know?

Although her proportions and weight are good for her age and figure, she does have that lump of fat at the nape of her neck that so many women acquire with the years.

Actually, this unattractive bump is caused more frequently by poor posture than it is by actual fat — or the calendar! The shoulder slump, the head and chin drooping forward, incorrect balance in standing or walking all add up to the so-called dowager's hump.

CURING IT IS not an overnight matter because posture faults of long standing are hard to break. But they can be overcome and Blanche was more than willing to try.

The first step was to explain what good posture is. For Blanche, we wrote down the following rules: (1) Shift your weight to the balls of your feet and hold the lower leg straight. (2) Do not flex or extend your knee; the straight line of the lower leg continues to the thigh. (3) Hold the pelvis erect by the down pull of the buttock muscles and the up-in pull of the abdominal muscles. And here's what happens: the abdomen and waist will become flat and slim when those strong abdominal muscles exert their two-way pull-up and in. The chest is lifted and the back straightened by the long back and shoulder muscles. The neck muscles will pull the head back and hold it up.

WHEN THE PELVIS is maintained in the proper position, the hip measurement is actually smaller. When Blanche gave a vertical pull to the muscles of the abdominal wall, the waist and abdomen shrank into themselves and their circumferences also shrank. With perfect posture, the chest is raised and the bust measurement is definitely increased.

Grommet Situation Well In Hand—And to Think It Means Just an Eyelet

THE GROMMET SITUATION is well in hand here, judging from helpful letters from readers. These came after we printed a query from Mrs. G. C., Kensington, who was having trouble finding a "grommet kit" to finish the top of homemade shower curtains. (A "grommet" is nothing more mysterious than a metal eyelet.)

DEAR ANNE:

Grommets can be bought at a large local department store (telephone District 7200). Ask for "dot eyelets." Also buy the "post" to fit in the eyelets. Just hammer the two together.

Mrs. John Alexander, Mount Rainier, Md.

From Mrs. D. R. Jackson of Kensington comes the information that the gadgets can be bought in a Bethesda shop (telephone Wisconsin 6558), as well as in large notion departments. She adds: "Most salespeople give you a blank stare, so you had better give them a complete description. The grommets come in packages of 12 for 25 cents."

DEAR ANNE:

A strip of plastic (in colors) with metal eyelets properly placed is sold by a large mail order house on Wisconsin ave. This is to be machine-stitched to top of handmade shower curtain to enable it to be hung.

Faith Forrest, 2012 37th st. se.

Half a dozen other readers were kind enough to send in this same information, one mentioning that 5- and 10-cent stores also often sell these curtain headings.

Still another approach to the problem is offered by a Virginia correspondent.

DEAR ANNE:

Re: Grommet kits, I never found any either! But a chain of sewing machine stores here (one can be reached at National 0184) does a good job of installing grommets on shower curtains, if one takes in the curtains marked for grommet spacing. They will not measure such spacing.

Virginia P. Lansner, Alexandria, Va.

Another reader has referred us to a leather shop which will install grommets on cloth. The telephone is Executive 0961. Also, an E st. firm (telephone National 3621) sells eyelet punching equipment.

Switching from curtains to containers, here is a letter with help for M. C. in finding decanter tops:

DEAR ANNE:

Please tell M. C. of Alexandria, Va., that if she will try the antique shops she may have luck in finding a stopper for her decanter. Several months ago I was faced with her problem and, while I did not find a stopper for my particular decanter, I did find many that were decanter-size. Georgetown and a shop near Walter Reed had many, but all were too large for me.

I finally solved my problem by taking a cut-glass fork holder—you know, the kind one rests a soiled fork on at table—to a glass company (telephone Franklin 1234) and they cut it in two, thereby making me two love stoppers that fit fine. I am glad to be of help in this matter for you have helped me no end in times past.

L. H. Washington.

DEAR ANNE:

Please tell me what to use to take yellow discoloring off piano keys.

Mrs. L. S. B., Washington.

A professional scraping job is the only real way to restore their brightness. This is done by the repair departments of piano firms. They take off the thin yellowed surface, uncovering the fresh white underneath.

DEAR ANNE:

Is there some kind of black paint which could be applied to a large piece of sheet-rock or beaverboard to make a blackboard. If so, can you tell me where to buy it?

Mrs. James R. Aswell, Arlington, Va.

Flat black wall paint, sold at any paint store, can be used for this purpose. It's dull surface can be used for this purpose. Its dull surface provides a good one for writing with chalk. I their boards.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Woman Who Has Good, Hardworking, Devoted Husband And Five Beautiful, Healthy, Intelligent Children, Has Given Heart to Divorced Man; Thinks of Eloping

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 35, married and the mother of five beautiful, healthy, intelligent children. My husband is a good hard-working man and he claims to love me, the children and our home above all else. But I have fallen in love with Dan, a very wonderful man my own age, and he loves me. My husband argues with me constantly for going out with Dan. He says I am trying to break up our home. But I cannot live with my husband or stay with him any longer; the strain is too great when I don't love him.

These constant arguments (they get very nasty) are bad for the children, and I think it would be better for them to have one parent, rather than two who are always fighting. My children range in ages from one to 15 years; and I love them but they don't seem to need me any longer, and I know I can manage somehow if I leave Nick.

Dan is divorced and I feel very sorry for him, because he seems to distrust any woman; or did until he met me. He says his wife was unfaithful and not to be trusted. He is willing to give up his job, also his mother, stepfather and sister and his nice home with them, in order to go away with me. We would go some place far away and start life anew; and I plan to take my baby with me. The children love their father very much, and I am sure all but the baby will be better off with him.

I have warned Nick that I will leave him if he doesn't stop fussing just because I want to go out with Dan and have a good time occasionally. I'm not getting any younger and I want some real happiness before I die; and I can't stand this fighting any longer. In Dan's company I shall be able to forget the children, and he says once we get away together I'll know what Heaven is. Now don't you think it's better I go with him? Please state your honest opinion.

V. J.

DEAR V. J.: Your line of argument—one can't call it reasoning—is perfectly ridiculous. As a booster campaign in favor of doing as you please, it belongs in the category known as "perfuming the skunk." You are such a bonehead. One hardly knows where to begin to disentangle the threads of your twisted thinking, in the hope of helping you see your dishonesty.

It appears that Dan has you hypnotized. The sum total of your references to him indicate that he is a scoundrel with women and a ne'er-do-well. And in contrast you describe your husband as a good, hard-working, devoted man who loves his wife, home and children above all else. So how can you possibly expect me to agree that it's better to leave a good partner for a no-account?

You say you feel vey sorry for Dan because his one marriage ended on the rocks. My advice is, don't spend sympathy on him. Save it for yourself and your children, later on—if you should make the mistake of running away with him. That indeed would be a leap from frying pan of domestic tedium into the fire of outcast insecurity. If you were to team up with Dan, sooner or later he'd desert, I feel sure—maybe after you had produced another child or two.

AS FOR YOUR THEORY that your weakness for Dan is rebuilding his confidence in woman's honor—which presumably was wrecked by his faithless wife—surely that notion is good for a laugh when you think it over. If Dan's wife was a strumpet who couldn't be trusted, are you any different in relation to your husband? In running around with Dan, chasing a good time, thereby disgracing your marriage vows by defiantly neglecting your husband and children, are you giving a performance any man could respect? Certainly not, and Dan knows that.

Dan is infatuated with you for the present, of course; and doubtless also he enjoys a great sense of power over you, which probably affords him cheap compensation for his own failure to be a man, in terms of ability to carry adult responsibilities in a creditable fashion.

The fact that he has been married and divorced, and is now 35, yet still lives in a filial arrangement with his parents, shows what an embryonic person he is. When he thinks of you surrounded by your children, he probably fancies you're a woman to lean on, a kind of substitute mother for himself,—the only kind of woman he'd dare "run off with," perhaps.

However, you're not a strong character or you wouldn't be cavorting like a chicken with its head off. And your hysterical behavior reaches a crazy climax of unreason when you call Nick a troublemaker for opposing your daft performance. He is acting more like a kindly father of a problem-child than a betrayed husband in this instance. One marvels at his patience in dealing with you.

You are seriously upset, emotionally; and your fling with Dan is simply one symptom of distraction. Locate the Family Service agency nearest you, and unburden your anxieties to a counsellor there. You need firsthand expert help in coming safely out of this dark time.

Today's Fashion Axiom

It's Not 'How Much,' but 'How'

By Evelyn Hayes

IT'S NOT THE DOLLARS you spend that determines how you look—but how you spend them. The "how" in this case is a matter of good taste rather than price. At any price you can find clothes of good taste if you just know the secret!

All this was proved—not for the first time—by two recent fashion events in Washington. First was a Lansburgh press showing of Suzy Perette dresses that seemed to do a miraculous job of revaluating the dollar. Copies of the cream of the Paris collections, these cocktail and party dresses were priced from $17.95 to $25—a remarkably small price for such elegance.

Pictured here is one of this amazing group of cocktail ensembles—each short dinner dress with its own pretty cover-up—all done in fabrics and with a simple good taste that one usually associates with much more.

ANOTHER SPOT WHERE a girl's fashion dollar has been upped in value is Yvette's on Hillyer pl., just off Connecticut ave. Here the customer gets not only expensive looking fashions with inexpensive price tags, but fashion advice as well.

Originally a designer for Jeanne Lanvin in Paris, then a custom designer on her own, Yvette has drawn on her reservoir of designing experience, imagination and taste to make this spot a fashion oasis for the woman who must have a high fashion look on a low dollar budget. In Yvette's personal attention to detail and accessories in the graciousness of the high-ceiling drawing room where you make selections, there is a continental flavor and custom-salon air that belies the moderate prices.

Mid-Term Election Results Typical, Louis Bean Tells Club

The man who predicted that the Democrats would win in 1948 had words of comfort for the ladies of the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday afternoon. Louis H. Bean, economic adviser to the Secretary of Agriculture, at a luncheon meeting at club headquarters on New Hampshire ave., produced charts and figures to show statistically that results of the November 7 elections were nearly what trend study predicted for an off year.

Bean, economist and statistician, presented graphic evidence to show that results in the House of Representatives were "about typical," those in the Senate " a little more than typcial" and only governorship results off in any degree. He produced charts both by Nation and by State to accompany his assertions.

He pointed out that "in an election essentially mid-term with a normal Democratic recession, the House faced a normal loss of 25 to 30 seats, and the final figure will be 29 or 30; the Senate, which might have expected to lose three or four seats, dropped five; and the governorships, which were charted to drop two or three, lost five."

"An element of personalities more dominant than usual" accounted for the surprises in this election, Bean said. He cited by way of example the re-election of Senator Taft in Ohio. "The key to that result was in how the people finally judged Mr. Ferguson in comparison to Mr. Taft," said Mr. Bean.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Charles Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, who pointed out that Mr. Bean is not at all reluctant about divulging his research methods and in his new book, "The Mid-term Battle," teaches voters to be their own analysts.

Bean stressed the importance of interpreting the election results correctly. "For example," he said, misinterpretation by Congress of what the election figures show might cause them to enact inappropriate legislation. Misinterpretation by Republicans may cause them to err in their selection of candidates."

Voters' League to Study Problem Of 'The Exceptional Child' in D. C.

As part of its program to develop a public plan for the welfare of Washington's children, the League of Women Voters of the District of Columbia will consider the problem of "The Exceptional Child—Where is the District Taking Him" in 14 unit meetings to be held all over the city during this week.

By "exceptional" the League means any child who deviates mentally, physically, socially or emotionally from the expected pattern. Each unit is working out its own method of presenting problems posed by the "exceptional" child, but all of them will consider such questions as:

Should there be counselors for the elementary school as well as for the junior highs?

Is the 24 hour boarding school the answer to the problem of the maladjusted child who can't be aided while living at home?

MRS. THOMAS FINLETTER, wife of the Secretary of the Air Force, and Mrs Francis Matthews, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will be honor guests at the annual membership luncheon of the JANGOS, to be held Tuesday, November 21, at 12:30 p. m. at the Army Navy Country Club. An exhibit at the luncheon will include articles made by JANGOS which may be purchased at the JANGO Bargain Shop.

The Junior Army Navy Guild Organization, founded January 27, 1943, is comprised of wives, daughters or sisters of officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force.

Many useful services to the community are carried out by JANGOS, such as assisting at charity bazaars, working in booths for the Red Cross and providing clothing for the JANGO Bargain Shop, which gives to the Salvation Army and the Metropolitan Police Boys Club. Each JANGO is required to donate at least 15 saleable articles each year, as well as give 50 hours to some JANGO project.

A NEW FIELD has opened up for JANGOS with the formation of the Foreign Students Hospitality Committee, whose chairman is Miss Jane Grunwell. The members volunteer to meet visiting students upon their arrival, take them sightseeing and give them a glimpse of American life by entertaining them in their homes. This is the first large-scale project of its kind, and has the approval of the Department of State.

D. C. Alumnae Invited

Indian Ambassador to Honor New Wellesley College Head

THE AMBASSADOR of India, Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, has invited the members of the Washington Wellesley Club to a reception at the embassy on November 15 from 4 to 6 p. m. in honor of Wellesley's new president, Miss Margaret Clapp.

The reception will mark Miss Clapp's first official visit to Washington since she was inaugurated as Wellesley's eighth president on March 17 of this year, succeeding former President Mildred McAfee Horton.

Ambassador Pandit, President Clapp and Miss Katherine Sater, president of the Wellesley Club, will receive the 300 alumnae from the Washington area who are expected to attend. Prominent Wellesley graduates who will preside at the tea table include Mrs. Dean Acheson, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of the Justice; Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. George L. Meleney, Mrs. Edwin G. Nourse, and Mrs. Gautam Sahgal, who is the daughter of Mme. Pandit.

MISS SIBYL BAKER, Mrs. Walter Dubois Brookings, Mrs. Bernard A. Chandler, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Hugh Perrin, Mrs. William E. Safford and Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor are among other well-known alumnae who will be present.

The former chairman of the art department at Wellesley, Miss Sirarpie Der Nersessian, who is now professor of Byzantine art at the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library, will also attend the reception.

President Clapp, who is an author and historian as well as an educator, won the Pulitzer Prize for biography in 1948 for her "Forgotten First Citizen: John Bigelow," written as a thesis for her Ph.D. degree, which she received from Columbia University in 1946. She also holds honorary LL.D degrees from Smith College and Northwestern University.

Two of Ambassador Pandit's three daughters are recent graduates of Wellesley, having journeyed from India in 1943 to study at the college. The elder, Mrs. Ashok Mehta, who graduated in 1945, was the first student selected for study at Wellesley by the Soong Foundation, established by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, a Wellesley alumna, for the purpose of sending one outstanding scholar from the Far East to Wellesley each year.

OF THE FOUR SOONG scholars so far, three have been from India. The second was Miss Krishna Roy, grandniece of the Indian poet, Tagore, and a member of Wellesley's class of 1949. Another well-known Wellesley alumna from India is Miss Santha Pama Rau, daughter of Sir Benegal Rau, India's chief delegate to the U. N. Security Council.

In addition to being the mother of two Wellesley graduates, Mme. Pandit herself holds an honorary LL.D degree from Wellesley, conferred upon her on the occasion of Miss Clapp's inauguration as president of the college on March 17.

The reception on Wednesday will be climaxed with brief addresses by Mme. Pandit and President Clapp at 5 p. m.

Mrs. Orr Hostess At Sorority Dinner

The Washington Alumni Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, National Music Sorority, were entertained last night by their president, Mrs. William Bryan Orr, at a dinner in celebration of Founder's Day at the Washington Club.

Rilla Rowe Mervine, contralto, and Helen Orbison, pianist, entertained. Mrs. Joseph H. Jones of Wilmington, Del., the former Miss Helen Lyon of Washington, was an out-of-town member present for the dinner.

Crowded Days for Mme. Minister

By Marie McNair and Elizabeth Maguire

WITH HER SAILING DATE just two weeks away, Mrs. Perle Mesta, our Minister to Luxembourg, is crowding her days with "business as usual" and seeing her friends at late-day fetes arranged in her honor.

Tonight President and Mrs. Truman will entertain at dinner for Mme. Minister. This afternoon she will be in Baltimore to give a speech to the Maryland Garden Club on "Luxembourg the Beautiful." Yesterday afternoon she was guest of honor at a party given by Mrs. Hope Ridings Miller at the Sulgrave Club.

Not all, but a great number of Perle's friends, were there. To have them all would have required a hall. The guests gathered in the club's oval drawing room, where a buffet table and a bar had been set up.

Mrs. Mesta's "conversation piece" hat yesterday was of pale pink felt with a sleek black feather laid against the crown. And with it she wore gloves of the same pink with her black suit and a spray of delicate pink camellias at the waist. Mrs. Miller's black frock was practically covered with a silver mink stole.

The Norwegian Ambassador, Wilhelm Munthe Morgenstierne, dean of the Diplomatic Corps, was there with Mme. Munthe Morgensteirne, she in black with an oyster white lace tunic blouse and furs about her shoulders. The Greek Ambassador, Athanese Politis, was showing Old World gallantry to the ladies, and the Finnish Minister, Dr. K. Jutila, was standing modestly on the sidelines.

Saw the Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Wellington Koo and Justice and Mrs. Tom Clark; Rosa Ponselle and Berendi Dryber making a twosome; and blond Nina Lunn, sr., with her fiance, Leigh Stevens.

Gen. Wade Haislip was there, and Mrs. Haislip in toast brown satin. And then there were Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe and Mrs. McAuliffe in black, her white satin hat trimmed with a brace of white birds on the wing.

Then there were the Leslie Biffles, Admiral Clark Woodward and Mrs. Woodward, she in her vastly becoming rose velvet hat; Miss Frieda Hennoeck, talking to Fay Lewishon who came with Mrs. Martin Vogel; Mrs. George Allen, looking oh, so smart in slim black, beaded in jet with a tiny hat and sprouting black feather.

Admiral and Mrs. James Foskett were in the "having a wonderful time" group; so were Rose Saul, Roy and Peggy St. Lewis, Fred Roy and Marvin Braverman, who had given a gay party for Perle the day before.

Mrs. Paul Porter told me that news from Connecticut College had her worried; that her daughter, Betsy, was in the infirmary.

Mrs. Ambrose Diehl, who flies back and forth from California as casually as most of us would go to the corner grocer, was leaving last night for her home in California, and was to have a party there today for Mrs. Conger Pratt—our own Sadie—who is on the coast with her niece, Mrs. William Ritchie of Denver.

THE PERUVIAN AMBASSADOR and Senora de Berckemeyer gave a dinner at the embassy last evening for Sir Weldon and Lady Dalrymple-Champneys of London. Sir Weldon attended the conference on brucellosis (undulant fever) held here last week.

Mrs. Perle Mesta, U. S. Minister to Luxembourg, was honor guest last evening at a dinner given by Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., at their home on Wyoming ave.

Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, was ranking guest at the luncheon yesterday given by Mrs. William F. Hellmuth in honor of Mrs. Granville M. Brumbaugh of Westport, Conn. The party was held in the Palladian Room of the Shoreham Hotel. Others in the company were Mrs. Edward W. Barrett, Mrs. South Trimble 3d, Mrs. James Grant Hellmuth, Mrs. William P. Crismond of Alexandria, and Mrs. Keith Rogers Belch of Annapolis.

HIGH SERVICE SET

MR. AND MRS. PRENTICE COONLEY entertained at dinner Sunday evening in honor of Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Mrs. Bradley. Other guests were the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, the Swedish Ambassador and Mme. Boheman, Gen. and Mrs. W. Bedell Smith, Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder and Lady Tedder; Justice and Mrs. Tom Clark, Undersecretary of the Air Force and Mrs. John McCone, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Ching and Mr. and Mrs. David Lilienthal.

Also in the group were Mrs. Horton Denny, aunt of Mrs. Bradley; Capt. and Mrs. Henry Beukema, the Bradley's son-in-law and daughter; Archibald Gordon, Lowell Mellett, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Whiteside and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Humphries of New York, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beyens, Laurence Whiting of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tupper.

IN THE VISITORS' BOOK

MRS. FREDERICK KENWARD of London, who is here for a few days visit, will share honors with Mrs. Edgardo Simone of Hollywood, also a visitor in town, at a cocktail party which Mme. Vladimir Rybar will give on Thursday at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Simone is the widow of the famous Italian sculptor who had done busts of the late Chief Justice Harlan Riske Stone, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and Mrs. George Abell of Washington. Mrs. Simone, herself professionally known as Radio Brittain, is a composer of songs and lyrics and does orchestrations for M-G-M.

PARTY PARADE

CAMILLE GUTT, chairman of the Monetary Fund, and Eugene Black, president of the International Bank, were joint hosts at a stag cocktail party yesterday afternoon in the Carlton Room of the Carlton Hotel. Guests were 30 European bankers from the ECA countries who are touring the United States to study financial operations connected with international trade.

WINANT JOHNSTON, author of "The Innocents," was guest of honor at a party yesterday afternoon given by Miss Katharine Brooks at the American Newspaper Women's Club. Mr. Johnston's grandparents and Miss Brooks' grandparents were friends in Indianapolis and the two families have kept up the friendship since.

Assisting Miss Brooks were Mrs. William N. Canby, Mrs. James W. Boyer, Mrs. Nelson P. Hoff and Mrs. M. K. Schulze. Assisting also were officers of the club, of which Miss Brooks is a member. They were Miss Sigrid Arne, Mrs. Pat Strickland, Miss Anne Cline, Miss Jessie Stearns and Mrs. Robert H. Dunlap. Mrs. Hobart Brooks, mother of the hostess, was present and other guests were members of the club and personal friends of the honor guest.

FOLLOWING ZINO FRANCESCATTI'S concert Wednesday evening at Constitution Hall, a reception and supper party will be given at the 1925 F Street Club by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Cox. Mr. Francescatti, the noted violinist, will be honor guest. Mr. Cox is president of the National Symphony Orchestra Association.

Assets at Peak Of $113 Million For Perpetual

By S. Oliver Goodman

Assets of Perpetual Building Association topped 113 million dollars at the end of October, President Edward C. Baltz reported at the annual meeting last night.

Baltz

This was a gain of 8½ million dollars for the 12 months and maintained Perpetual's rank as the leading institution of its kind in the Nation.

Baltz pointed out that progress is being made on construction of a new home for the association. Foundations are being completed on the site at 12th and E sts. nw. Steel work is expected to go up shortly.

Baltz reported that during the year another $500,000 was added to surplus, bringing this account up to a record nine million dollars.

Three directors, whose terms had expired, were reelected by shareholders. They are William L. King, Robert O. Scholz and Samuel Scrivener, jr.

H. Grafton Harper, a veteran employe, was advanced to assistant treasurer and directors reelected all other officers as follows:

Baltz, president; Marvin A. Custis, board chairman; Samuel Scrivener and Thornton W. Owen, vice presidents; William H. Dyer, secretary; W. S. Martindill, treasurer; William H. Rippard, controller; Ernest A. Thomas, C. Gordon Rouse and Henry J. Baltz, assistant secretaries; A. L. Garrett, jr., Tom B. Thatcher and Harper, assistant treasurers.

DIVIDENDS: Directors of Riggs National Bank declared a special yearend dividend of $3 a share, payable December 15 to stock of record November 30 . . . Mergenthaler Linotype Co. voted a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable December 20 to stock of record December 15.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Frank L. Kluckhohn, former member of the Washington staff of the New York Times, has been appointed a special executive on the staff of Allied Public Relations Associates of New York and Washington . . . R. J. Weber has been named assistant district manager of the central district of Westinghouse Electric Corp. . . . J. S. Nolan, former manager of the Nolan Finance Co. of Washington, is president of the newly formed Nolan Loan Co., Inc., in Mt. Rainier, Md. . . . Merle H. Miller of Fortune magazine will be guest speaker at a meeting Wednesday of Washington Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, in the Willard Hotel

COUNCIL TO MEET: Norman A. Sugarman, special assistant to the chief counsel of Bureau of Internal Revenue, will discuss the marital deduction law at a dinner meeting of the D. C. Life Insurance-Trust Council Thursday night in the Mayflower. The council is composed of trust officers of local banks and an equal number of life insurance underwriters.

CELEBRATION: More than 100 employes of Phillip's, one of the city's leading television and appliance dealers, attended a fourth anniversary celebration Sunday night at the Statler Hotel. Phillip Filderman, president, pointed out that the chain's first store was opened only four years ago at 817 H st. ne. Phillip's now has two other retail outlets at 611 7th st. nw., and at 11th and F sts. nw. The chain will honor its distributors, dealers, the press and advertising representatives at another fete Wednesday night.

IMPROVEMENTS: Glenn L. Martin Co. yesterday reported net income of $2,495,663 or $2.20 a share for the first 9 months this year compared with $1,591,780 or $1.40 a share in the like 1949 period. Sales for the first three quarters totaled $33,857,832 against $34,138,079 through September, 1949. Backlog of undelivered orders at September 30 stood at 162 million dollars compared with $94,422,000 at midyear.

PROGRESS: Living standards in the United States are 50 percent higher than they were 10 years ago, according to the magazine Sales Management." The estimate is based on data showing Americans earned 46 percent more in "real" income and bought 52 percent more goods in 1949 than in 1939. Per capita income actually gained 148 percent, the magazine says, but a price rise of 70 percent, combined with a 15 percent population gain, reduces the "real" income growth per person to 46 percent.

EARNINGS: R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. reported net income of $11,422,000 or $1.07 a common share for the three months ended September 30, compared with $10,902,000 or $1.02 a share in the same 1949 period. Other earnings statements on a per-share basis follows:

Two Post Printers Retire; Served on Paper 83 Years

The Washington Post

HOWARD B. WYCHE
. . . long-time Post employe

The boys—Howard B. Wyche and Martin L. (Jake) Statler—have been working as printers for a combined total of 83 years.

Both are retiring.

But neither is ready today to admit he is through working in a newspaper shop.

"I may be back later on," was the way both answered questions about their future plans.

At 65, Wyche has clocked off 32 years and eight months in the Post composing room. In that time he served as chapel chairman of Local 101 of the International Typographical Union for 22 six-month terms. He has a 40-year standing in the ITU.

A heart condition forced Wyche to stop working last August.

Son Works For Post

But there is every reason to believe the Wyche name will be on the Post rolls for many, many years to come.

Jake Statler, a spry 81, arrived at the Post on September 26, 1899, "when the paper was only a 12-page sheet."

"I have seen it grow to a fine 50 to 60-page paper," said Jake yesterday, "And I don't see why it shouldn't keep on growing."

Jake, the father of nine children, wears a 60-year button in the ITU. He has had three breaks in service on The Post. He left once to work at the old Herald, another time to travel for a type concern and a third time for a vacation in Florida, his native State. He lives at 1401 I st. nw.

Three Found Dead in Car; Fumes Cited

Three persons, two of them Greater Washington residents, were found dead in a parked automobile near Harrisonburg, Va., yesterday, believed to be victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The dead have been identified as Cecil Thacker, 29, his wife, Mrs. Anna Jean Thacker, 25, both of Great Falls rd. near Potomac, Md., and Bobby M. Delaney, 18, of near Grundy, Va.

Thacker, a truck driver for the U. S. Park Service, and his wife had gone to Grundy last week to visit a sister of Mrs. Thacker, who was ill. Police said they started back to Washington Sunday night, with Delaney accompanying them.

Police said they apparently pulled off the road near a wayside picnic table, and went to sleep. They left the motor running. State police said the engine was running and all windows were closed when the vehicle was opened shortly before 11 a. m. They estimated the victims had been dead about five hours.

A dead dog was found in the car's trunk, the lid of which had been left open about three inches. Police surmised the opening had been left to provide air for the animal. The car was headed north and the wind was blowing from the south.

State troopers and Rockingham County officials said they believed the deaths were accidental, but no official verdict was issued last night.

Timonium Fair Shows Cattle Rise

By John Ball
Post Reporter

TIMONIUM, Md., Nov. 13.—In the four years since the Eastern National Livestock show was started here in 1947, it has grown into one of the largest cattle, hog and sheep expositions in the country.

This year 2068 entries from 23 States extending from Maine to Wyoming and Florida to New Mexico are competing for honors at the Timonium State Fair grounds.

Several thousand visitors and buyers, including some of the latter from Canada, have been attracted this year by the growing importance of the show now recognized as a runnerup to and a sort of curtain raiser for the National Livestock Exposition in Chicago in two weeks.

As the Eastern National has grown so has interest in livestock rasiing in these Eastern States in the last four years. No section of the Nation has seen such a vast growth in cattle breeding as Virginia and Maryland.

Until four years ago Virginia each year imported thousands of young steers to raise meat. Last year it had feeders to sell, exporting thousands from the rapidly expanding breeding herds to Pennsylvania, New York and points North. The same story is true of Maryland.

They include: (1) the increasing demand for meats; (2) The operation of the farm support law cutting down the aggregate permitted for tobacco, cotton, potatoes, corn, etc., resulting in farmers turning to livestock; (3) The development of more succulent and nutritive grasses making it possible to fatten cattle on Eastern Seaboard pasturage as quickly and at much less cost than on Midwest corn.

An extraordinary coincidence marked the junior fat cattle class here today. The winner in the Hereford class and runnerup in the Aberdeen Angus was the same exhibitor, Jack MacArthur of Church Hill, Md. MacArthur's father, Marshall MacArthur, is the manager of the famous Chino farm, one of the Nation's outstanding Hereford raisers. The Hereford steer with which young MacArthur won first place was really raised by his sister, Marilyn, who is a student at Cornell University.

Results in the competition for youngsters who belong to 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America:

Individual fat lambs: 1 and 2—Arlen Bee, Elkridge, Md.

Trio of fat lambs: 1—Bee.

Individual Hereford steers; lightweights: 1—Charles Linton, Gerradstown, W. Va.;

Individual Hereford steers, heavyweights: 1 — Mary Hollis, Gerradstown, W. Va.

dleweights: 1 — Marilyn MacArthur, Churchill Hill, Md.

Court KO's Sharkey

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP). — A motion to dismiss Jack Sharkey's claim for $300,000 damages for unauthorized use of his name in old fight pictures on a television program ("Greatest Fights of the Century") was denied today in Federal Court.

Camp Detrick Commander Dead Of Gunshot Wound

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 13 (AP). Lieut. Col. Harold J. Isbell, 49-year-old commandant of Camp Detrick, Army Bacteriological Warfare Center, was found dead today in an automobile on the post.

Maj. Cecil D. Miller, Public Relations Officer, said Isbell died of a gunshot wound. He withheld further comment.

Isbell, who last week was promoted from major to lieutenant colonel, had been in command of the camp since June 7, 1948, when he succeeded Col. Lloyd Fellenz.

Isbell came to Detrick in October, 1947, as executive officer. A former resident of Toledo, Ohio, he joined the Army in November, 1929, as a private. He subsequently rose to sergeant-major and was commissioned a first lieutenant May 14, 1942. Isbell saw World War II service in the Southwest Pacific.

He is survived by his wife, who resided with him on the post.

Geographic Unit Opens 63d Lecture Series on Friday

Nineteen lectures, illustrated by motion pictures, covering Korean battlegrounds to re-creation of ancient art works in Greece, will comprise the National Geographic Society's 63d annual series of weekly lectures.

Opening Friday at 8:15 p. m., Constitution Hall, the first lecture of the series will concern four countries in Asia: Indo-China, Indonesia, Thailand (Siam) and Burma. W. Robert Moore, society staff writer and photographer, will show the pictures he made in those regions earlier this year.

On April 6—the 42d anniversary of Peary's discovery of the North Pole—Commander and Mrs. Donald B. MacMillan will describe their visit this year to the Artic.

Walter Winchell . . . In New York

Tales of the Town

Mary Margaret McBride's right arm is her manager Stella Karn, a lady best described as one not easily intimidated by man or beast . . . Stella also serves as producer of the McBride program—and during it—no one In The Whole Wide World is permitted in the control booth . . . Except of course the engineer . . . Chic Johnson of Olsen & Johnson, heard about this extraordinary female (sometime ago) and decided to see for himself . . . He rented a bear, chain and all, and brought it to the McBride studio . . . Network execs will verify it . . . Chic waited until Mary Margaret was on the air, which meant that Stella was in the control room, and, opening the door, shoved in the bear.

"What the hell do you want?" thundered Stella without looking up . . . No answer . . . "Get out of here!" she commanded—and then turning—saw What She Saw! . . . "I said," Stella shouted, "get the hell out of here!" . . . The surprised bear merely shrugged . . . Stella jumped out of her chair—and punched it on the nose, knocking it cold.

Florabel Muir, the author of "Headline Happy," was here during the bitter political campaign . . . "I have never," she said to an editor, "heard such sickening things uttered by so-called respectable men!"

"This ain't dirty," was the retort. "Up to now they are only telling the truth about each other. Wait'll they start to lie!"

Suzanne Dalbert will be seen here soon in "Breakthrough" . . . At a Hollywood party the other night a group discussed the merits and demerits of American suitors—as compared with Furriners.

"In Italy," Suzanne said, "a man will walk a mile to pick a flower for you. In America—he calls up the florist."

Julia Marlowe, the great Shakespearean actress, who passed Sunday afternoon, was the wife of E. H. Sothern . . . She delighted relating this one about him . . . Sothern and John Drew were in Louisville hotel lobby talking shop when an old-timer approached her husband and complimented: "I have followed your career, Mr. Mansfield, ever since I was a young man. I am not going to miss a performance while you're here, Mr. Mansfield."

When he left Drew said: "He doesn't know Mansfield's dead."

"He doesn't know," sighed Sothern, "I'm alive!"

Gamblers were discussing the late E. R. Bradley, the multimillionaire, last night . . . They recalled the time he was before a Senate committee . . . "What's your occupation?" he was asked.

"I'm a gambler," he said.

"If you had a son," a Senator caustically inquired, "would you teach him how to be a gambler?"

"No, sir," said Bradley, "I'd teach him three things. First, I'd teach him how to pray. It wouldn't matter to me which religion, just so long as he prayed. It would make him a better man. Second, I'd teach him how to fight. Not so he'd be a bully. Just so he could defend himself. Third, I'd teach him arithmetic. So he could be figuring—while the other guy was talking."

One of the handsomest men about town, now pushing 60, was topic "A" as he made his appearance at a midtown bar last night . . . A New Yorker his age, who has trouble sleeping well and having any fun in life, inquired: "I know you're the same age I am, but why don't I feel as good and look as good as you do?"

"All I know," was the reply, "is what I've done since I became a man. I drink nothing but good whiskey—not too much of it, mind you, but good whiskey, and I only make love to respectable women!"

Preston Sturges, who has written several successful plays, began his career as an actor . . . A difference of opinion with the manager of a flop called "Frankie and Johnny" cost Sturges his job and he returned to Broadway . . . That summer, with no employment in view, he whiled away the time writing a play . . . The one show he recalls fondly . . . Because with all his other clicks—"Strictly Dishonorable" (after a decade or so) still brings him his top revenue from nearly every summer-stock theater in the 48 States.

When Mrs. Patrick Campbell first arrived in Hollywood she confirmed what they heard about her . . . She irked celebrities—feigning indifference to their renown . . . At one party there she said to Harold Lloyd: "Aren't you associated some way with the films?"

Aileen Pringle cut her down to size with: "Oh, Mrs. Campbell! I'm so glad to meet you. I've been drinking your soups for years!"

Bing Crosby saves two newspaper clippings . . . They serve as reminders never to be hasty with interviewers or take himself seriously . . . The first is a notice of his first movie . . . In which he was not even mentioned . . . The other is a review of a film that starred Russ Columbo, regarded as his No. 1 competitor at the time . . . It said: "Russo Columbo has a fine voice but he can't act as well as Bing Crosby, who can't act at all."

Arthur Godfrey saves this one: "Among other buried personalities (who belong in New York) is a stranger to me. His name is Arthur Godfrey. Some shrewd showman should bag him for New York. He is stuck in Alexandria, Va., probably because he has to take what he can get. But he is Big-Time. His quips are Broadway and Big Town . . . At any rate, talent is at a premium and I haven't picked a flop yet."—From the Winchell col'm of Jan. 30, 1934.

When Olga Petrova starred in "The White Peacock" she was warned during rehearsals that B'way first-nighters would laugh at one bit of her stagey emoting . . . In this scene Olga clutched at her frontage and cried to her leading man: "This—is the essence of Love!"

Despite the warning to underplay the line—and the bosomclutch—Olga played it with exaggeration . . . The audience went into the wings: "Don't raise that curtain for any bows. I will punish them!"

FDR's favorite bodyguard, Mike Reilly (now on the staff of Sec'y of the Interior Chapman), selected, appointed and trained Leslie Coffelt, the President's guard, who was slain in the Blair House shooting . . . Reilly recalls Coffelt's integrity . . . He told Reilly: "I am sorry to leave the job of protecting our President (FDR), but I am of combat age and I belong in the war."

NBC's Ben Grauer was interviewed by Saul Pett (of the AP) the other matinee on Grauer's 20 years on the air . . . "What was your worst blooper?" he was asked . . . Grauer said it happened during a broadcast to S. America . . . The interview was in Spanish . . . After a few shaky answers, he apologized for his lack of Spanish fluency . . . "Estoy embarazada," Ben humbly said.

He was excitedly shoved aside and the Latin put on a record. Ben meant to say: "I am embarrassed." It came out: "I am pregnant!"

Private Flying Surveyed For Board of Trade

Airways Engineering Consultants, Inc., is making a survey of private flying facilities in Greater Washington for the Board of Trade, Howard C. Drake, chairman of the board's aviation committee, announced yesterday.

The survey, which was started last week, should be completed by next spring. The findings will be published by the Board of Trade, which has a long-range program to secure adequate flying facilities here, Drake said.

7 'Lost' Audubon Paintings Found In Australia

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP).—Discovery in Australia of seven "lost" original paintings by Audubon was reported today at the annual convention of the National Audubon Society.

E. Thomas Gillard of the American Museum of Natural History told the delegates the oils were found in the home of Leonard Audubon of Sydney, a great-grandson of the pioneer naturalist and artist.

President John H. Baker of the Audubon society announced that E. J. L. Hallstrom, a Sydney industrialist, has bought the paintings and will exhibit them at society headquarters here during Audubon centennial week, January 21-27. The seven include four birds and three mammals.

John James Audubon, who died in 1851, reproduced in oil a number of his famous water color paintings of American birds.

Hotel Clerk Charged With Rent Thefts

A hotel desk clerk, who told police a week ago he was slugged and robbed by boxer Danny Petro, yesterday was charged with embezzlement.

Hayden O. Evans, 32, of 915 Butternut st., nw., was accused of embezzling rent payments from tenants of the Chastleton Hotel, where he was employed.

Municipal Court Judge George D. Neilson ordered Evans held under $1500 bond for action of the grand jury. He was committed to jail.

Acording to police, Evans gave each tenant a receipt for the rental payments, but did not enter the cash received on the hotel books. More than $500 was embezzled, police said. The shortage was noted when the tenants were asked why they were in arrears, then produced receipts signed by Evans, police said.

On November 5 Evans reported to police that Petro and an unknown companion robbed him of $210 cash after assaulting him in the 600 block Pensylvania ave., se.

Petro denied the charges.

Prison Safe Looted

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP). State Prison Deputy Warden J. T. Scott said a safe in the state industries office in the penitentiary was battered open over the weekend. The loot totaled $40.

Safety Veteran Cites Assets Of Low Speeds

A 73-year-old stanch Republican can who believes that most political power should be "back in the corner grocery store" makes an exception to that when it comes to speed laws.

He is Frederick H. Elliot, secretary of the Automobile Oldtimers, Inc., a national organization with headquarters in New York. And if President Truman is delegated the same wartime powers that President Roosevelt had, Elliot wants him to force all 48 states to cut their speed limits to 35 miles an hour.

Says Elliot: "This will save thousands of lives, prevent tens of thousands of injuries, conserve millions of gallons of gasoline and untold dollars of property damage."

For 40 years he has been active in safety affairs. He was the organizer, in 1903, and secretary of the New York State Automobile Association until 1906; the reorganizer, in 1906, and secretary of the American Automobile Association until 1910. He founded the "safety first" movement in the United States in 1913.

Elliot is here this week to attend a luncheon of the local Automobile Oldtimers, Inc., Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Burlington Hotel. He founded the national organization in 1939. It has nearly 4000 members now.

Eastern Air Lines Has Stock Plan for Staff

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP). President Eddie Rickenbacker of Eastern Air Lines announced today a plan which he said would enable EAL employes to buy company stock at approximately 15 percent below the Nov. 10 market price. The purchases would be financed through payroll deductions.

Rickenbacker said authorization had been obtained to issue 100,000 shares under the plan.

Next time let's try— The CALIFORNIA WAY!

WORN OUT by entertaining? Why—when the California Way is so nice and easy! You don't fuss. You have an informal party—give it life and lilt and lots of color by serving wine. Gay, velvety Port wine of California, for example. Rich? Yes—but not in cost. And Port is easy, too. Just cool and serve.

Gadget to Tune Out Commercials Built

By Wayne Oliver

NEW YORK (AP).—Somebody was bound to do it in this age of atomic energy and jet propulsion, and Dr. Clark Jones says he has turned the trick—he has invented a radio "de-commercializer."

The Cambridge, Mass., mathematical physicist has demonstrated a four-tube gadget to attach to your radio that automatically tunes out the commercial announcements.

The device abhors chatter, and whenever somebody starts talking on the radio, it cuts down the volume until the talks has ceased.

Dr. Jones, of the Polaroid Corp. of Cambridge, explains in somewhat more scientific terms that the machine takes advantage of the fundamental difference between music and speech. Speech is full of extremely short silences or pauses—like the unnoticed but perceptible pause between the "s" and the "t" in the word "stay." These pauses occur much more frequently in speech than in

THE POLAROID firm says it hasn't been devices have been developed to accomplish the same purpose but have used different principles.

THE POLAROID firm says it hasn't been decided whether the "de-commercializer" will be manufactured for sale to the public, but if so, it would raise some interesting problems.

For instance, if you had a de-commercializer on your set and your name should be called on a give-away program you just wouldn't hear it. Your programs would become musical guessing games, for although you could hear a tune as it was played, you wouldn't be able to hear the announcer ahead of time telling you what was coming up.

Off would go a comedian, no matter how funny his jokes. And you wouldn't hear any news, or even disaster warnings.

Then there's the little matter of conscience—whether it would be quite cricket to accept for free the entertainment on which the sponsor has spent hundreds or thousands of dollars, and then refuse to listen to his sales talk.

However, Dr. Jones says the device would be no threat whatever to radio advertising or radio business in general. Anyone who would pay $15 or $20 for the gadget would do so only if he disliked radio commercials so strongly that he scarcely could be considered a profitable part of the radio audience.

While the device is infallible in differentiating between pure speech and pure music, it has difficulty making up its electronic mind on patter songs—like those of Gilbert and Sullivan—and singing commercials. Depending on delivery, it might cut off Gilbert and Sullivan and let a singing commercial come through strong and clear.

Despite the improvements in radio since crystal set days, a long right arm is hard to beat as a device for tuning out something you don't like and tuning in something else.

TELEVISION may seem like a brand new development, but the Goyernment issued the first video station license in 1927 and 22 stations had licenses by 1929.

Students of New York University College of Engineering last week put on a public demonstration of equipment used in 1928 when Station WRNY began regular experimental broadcasts. It produced a picture 1½ inches square.

Scrolls were presented to Isidor Goldberg, president of Pilot Radio Corp. which developed the equipment used in 1928, and Hugo Gernsback, publisher of Radio-Electronics magazine, who owned Station WRNY, whose broadcast channel was used.

Railroad Crossing Goes From Bad to Worse

A couple of weeks ago I wrote an item about the railroad crossing just outside Shirlington. I told of the many accidents there, of the motorists who are supposed to slow down to 5' miles per hour to comply with Virginia law, and of the various bus lines which do—and do not—choose to slow down there.

The situation is now even worse than before. Somebody ploughed into the cross-arm signal on the northbound side, knocking down the bell and the blinker lights. Autos, and some buses, continue to zip blithely across the track, in what appears to be a refusal to admit its existence.

Strangely enough, the railroad seems more concerned about the safety of the motorists than the motorists themselves. It's quite a sight to see the huge diesel engines lumber up to Shirley hwy. and stop dead while the engineer peers anxiously up and down the road. When several bull-throated warnings have had no effect on north-bound traffic, the huge monster starts to sneak across the busy highway. And not until it is well out into the northbound lane do motorists crunch to a reluctant stop.

However, a handcar which attempted the crossing the other day failed to impress drivers, even after a dead heat with several autos rapidly appeared to be becoming a certainty.

The section hands on the flatcar stood the strain as long as they could, and at the last split second leaped for safety and took off in all directions.

Nobody was hit, and the handcar glided across the highway undamaged. The unbroken stream of traffic kept right on whizzing across the track at 50 miles an hour, as if nothing had happened.

Just as soon as we have a major accident at this point, authorities will no doubt launch a thoroughgoing investigation.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

"How many letters," asks Len Kirsten of 1427 Whittier pl. nw., "did you get sneering that your Herblock story is a very old joke and probably didn't happen?" (Editor's Note: Only three, surprisingly enough.)

"I know from experience that these things really do happen," continues Len. "Three years ago I visited Quebec and approached a stranger to ask directions. Having just finished sophomore French at GW, I gave out with: 'Voulez-vous nous dire ou se trouve le chateau Frontenac?'

"'Sorry, pal,' came the reply in pure Brooklynese, 'I'm new around here myself.'

"What's more, the same thing happened again in another city before we had finished our tour, and I carefully refrained from reporting these experiences to my French prof when I returned to school in the fall. I was getting good marks in French and though I'd better let well enough alone."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two fine 1-year-old cats, good pets, have had shots." (Glebe 1618.)

ECSTASY

Delight is found in many ways . . . Some find it in the soft blue haze . . . That lingers o'er the mountain peaks . . . Some find it in the brilliant streaks . . . Of golden glory painted by . . . The sun, at dawn, upon the sky.

But pal of mine, although you, too . . . Enjoy these things, as others do . . . There's one thing which undoubtedly . . . Lifts you to heights of ecstasy . . . Of all delights this bears the crown . . . A well-cooked chicken, golden brown.

THESE CHANGING TIMES

Margaret T. Prince of 4652 S. 36th st., Arlington, Va., was remarking the other day how times had changed.

"When I was young (longer ago than I care to admit)," she said, "we used to drive in from the suburbs in our Model T and park all day in a gas station at 11th or 12th and E. The man let us park there because we bought a quart of oil and 5 gallons of gas from him.

"Now I have a daughter who is making her own adjustment to the times in which she finds herself. She not only likes singing commercials, she prefers them to the program itself—and I think she has made a wise choice, for the commercials seem to take up the greater portion of the time."

THIS IS WASHINGTON

Current topic of conversation among the hackers on the Mayflower Hotel stand is the woman who tried for several minutes to cross Connecticut ave. during a recent rush hour and finally gave up in disgust.

She hailed a cab and paid the driver 30 cents to make a U-turn to the other curb.

It reminds me of a story a taxi driver once told me. He said he was parked on the Willard hack stand when a drunk got into his cab.

"Willard Hotel," replied the lush.

The hacker tramped on his brakes. "Did you say Willard Hotel?"

"Thash right. Zis it?"

"Yep."

"Quickest trip I ever made," said the drunk. Getting out, he handed the puzzled driver the fare plus a generous tip and steered an unsteady course for the front door.

THAT'S DIFFERENT

Overheard at the Statler: "Well, I did say her dress was becoming, but how did I know you were going out to buy one just like it? It's disgraceful, I tell you—you're making a spectacle of yourself."

Europe Held Not Wanting To Fight Now

By Drew Pearson

This is the kind of column most editors don't like me to write because it's a think-piece, and they don't pay me to think. They pay me to get the inside on cabinet meetings and closed-door sessions, but I get tired allegedly crouching under cabinet tables, and being human, I can't help thinking occasionally.

PEARSON Recently, I've been thinking about some of the discouraging things that have been happening in different parts of the world which we have lost sight of during elections. I've also been indulging in that cheapest of all pastimes—thinking about what I would do if I were running the country. I've even got two ideas to propose to make things better and am almost tempted to write a letter to Harry Truman.

First, however, here are some of the things happening in Europe that haven't hit the headlines and which we have missed because we have been so absorbed in the late battle to control the west bank of the Potomac.

In Italy, a country that we have helped out to the tune of about a billion dollars a year, big placards are posted on the streets in English: "Get the hell out and take your money with you." . . . This means us. Naturally the placards are Communist inspired, but one-third of the people of Italy are Communist. . . . Aside from the Communists, Italian resentment was so strong against us when we passed the McCarran Act holding up Italian passport visas, the Italian Parliament seriously debated the banning of all Americans from Italy—even Marshall Plan officials—though the tourist trade is a major source of Italian revenue. . . . This is not a pleasant picture, but there is no use keeping our heads in the sand regarding the facts.

In Southern Italy, land is being seized every day, and the local priest sometimes accompanies bands of Communist-led peasants when they march into the big landed estates. This is something the Vatican does not condone, but local sentiment regarding the big estates is so intense that frequently the crucifix and the Red flag march side by side. . . . Elsewhere in Italy about four million are unemployed, and the extremes of poverty and wealth are so great, with land reforms so long delayed and so piddling, that communism thrives here as in no country outside Russia. In fact, the Italian Communist Party is the second largest in the world with most of the cities in northern Italy now governed by Communist mayors.

In case of war, Italian defenses would burst like a bubble. This is not pleasant news. Yet we must remember this is a nation we are depending on to resist the Red army.

In France there exists the third largest Communist Party in the world. Though weakened by the Marshall Plan and by the century-old tradition of French friendship for the U. S. A., the French Communist Party is still strong enough to stymie rearmament. More important, if war came, the French Communists would create a powerful bloc for sabotage and revolt. About 15 percent of the French army is Communist, serving under Vichy officers, and the two don't mix. Result: France could not stand up against the Red army more than 48 hours.

Realistic Frenchman

"What's America going to do to defend France?"

"What's France going to do to defend itself?" replied my friend.

He was both accurate and realistic.

France has made important gains under the Marshall Plan. But the man in the street doesn't realize it. He doesn't realize that most of the bread he eats comes from the U. S. A., or that much of the current French prosperity comes from Uncle Sam. He is not unfriendly to the U. S. A.—just cynical and fed up with talk of war. He has fought too many times, and when the next war comes, he plans to sit it out . . . The Marshall Plan, he feels, was a great thing for the factory owner and the government. It rebuilt the big war plants and helped his boss. But what did it do for his wages? They are still low . . . actually the Marshall Plan has accomplished its main goal. Without it all western Europe would have gone Communist long ago. But in countries which have not tasted Communist rule, some people think the Communist experiment might be worth trying. They don't know what happened in Czechoslovakia.

Elsewhere in Europe conditions are about the same . . . The two countries working hardest to help themselves are the Dutch and Norwegians. But the Norwegian minister of defense says privately: "We are now spending 4 to 5 percent of our budget on armament. If we increase to 22 percent, as the United States wants us to, we undo all the good effects of the Marshall Plan. We reduce our standard of living back to what it was before ECA. In brief, if we have to increase armament as you want us to, it may mean that Norway pulls out of the North Atlantic Pact. We adopted it by a narrow margin anyway."

Sentiment is similar in other European countries. This is bad news, but it is better to know it now than later.
